But Where Is It?

Villagers Protest U.S. Bomb

CUEVAS DE ALMANZORA, Spain (UPI)—More than 50 angry villagers demonstrated in the town square Friday night against the "U.S. and its bomb" as a search for missing "secret elements" of a B-52 bomber moved into its fourth day. The plane crashed with nuclear weapons aboard.

The villagers paraded through the square shouting. "Down with the U.S. and its bomb," "Yankees go home," and "Americans go away and take your bomb with you." They dispersed peacefully after about 30 minutes.

The demonstration came as hundreds of U.S. airmen moved tons of equipment to a sealed-off beach area near Palomares.

KEEPS SILENT

The Air Force, which has admitted the plane was carrying nuclear weapons, steadfastly refused to confirm or deny persistent reports that the huge search was for one such nuclear device still missing in the crash of the Strategic Air Command bomber.

Informed sources said four nuclear bombs were aboard the bomber when it collided in the air with a KC-135 jet tanker during a re-fuelling operation over the southeast of Spain Monday.

They said three devices had been recovered but that a fourth was still missing.

AVOIDING 'RAIN'

The transfer of equipment to the beach area represented a change of headquarters for the search over the rugged, arid hills near this remote village about 95 miles southeast of Granada.

U.S. Air Force officials said the reason for the move was to avoid damage from flooding in the event of rain.

Air Route To Rock Lengthened

MADRID (AP) — Spain informed the NATO governments Friday that their military planes no longer could fly over the country en route to and from Gibraltar.

A diplomatic note pointed to "the risks and consequences to Spain of using Gibraltar as a NATO base."

Morocco

De Gaulle To Cut Relations?

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle is considering breaking diplomatic relations with Morocco and cutting off $40,000,000 in economic aid because of the Ben Barka scandal, French government sources said Friday.

The sources said de Gaulle was spending the weekend in Paris to be on hand in case of a major break in the affair, which started with the kidnapping in Paris Oct. 21 of Moroccan leftist leader Mehdi Ben Barka.

They said the president is prepared for the possibility that Morocco might make the first move to break relations. It was believed here this could come following the issuance in Paris Thursday of international arrest warrants against Moroccan Interior Minister Gen. Mohamed Oufkir and two of his top aides.

The arrest warrants can be carried out only if the Moroccans co-operate. But French officials said if Oufkir or either of his aides set foot in any of the countries outside Morocco with which France has extradition agreements, they would be liable to arrest.

Nielson Sounds New Warning

Crime Web Grows

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Gangs of international criminals are operating in Canada with "impunity and in some cases with immunity," Yukon Conservative Erik Nielson charged in the Commons Friday.

The man who sparked the Dorion probe last session said that "criminal organizations have grown tremendously in Canada. They are connected with the octopus of international crime."

He combined a warning against crime with a bitter attack on the government in his demand for a royal commission into the ramifications of organized crime in Canada.

"Organized crime must be fought on an organized basis. You cannot destroy an octopus by cutting off the tips of the tentacles," he said.

Mr. Nielson praised the RCMP and criticized former justice ministers for not defending it against unwarranted attacks.

Rusk's Prediction: Intense Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk reported Friday the Communists have spurned United States' Viet Nam peace feelers so far. He predicted the enemy will step up the fighting in South Viet Nam next week.

"I regret that I cannot report to you any positive and encouraging response to the hopes of the overwhelming majority of mankind," Rusk told a press conference.

CEASEFIRE

"There is every sign that the other side is going to intensify its activity after the Tet period," he said. Tet is the lunar new year holiday in Viet Nam, now observed by a ceasefire which ends Sunday.

The state secretary seemed to:

- Warn Hanoi the string is running out on Washington's current peace drive and the bombing of the North could be resumed soon.
- Serve notice to those who advocated a bombing lull that North Viet Nam's rejection of U.S. peace overtures means Washington is getting ready to make new, probably tough, decisions.
- Indicate that within the circle of top U.S. strategists, Rusk favors a hard-line reaction to Hanoi's rebuff of peace efforts.

Johnson's advisers are known to be divided over what to do next. Johnson is said not to have made a decision yet about resuming the bombing and to have set no deadlines.

Cong Bomb Kills Two

Dawn Attack Shatters Brief Truce

SAIGON (UPI) — About 400 Viet Cong regulars swarmed over a South Korean marine position Friday shattering their self-proclaimed New Year's truce. The Koreans threw down their weapons and fought hand-to-hand in a bloody, see-saw battle that left 46 of the enemy dead.

The pre-dawn assault near Tuy Hoa about 220 miles northeast of Saigon was the most serious of 51 cease-fire violations by the Communists since their holiday truce period began at midnight Wednesday.

U.S. Ambassador 'Shocked'

Convicted American Cuts Throat in Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — The U.S. embassy said today the Soviet government reported Newcomb Mott, a young American serving a Soviet prison sentence, committed suicide by cutting his throat.

The formal Soviet notification said the suicide occurred in the night of Thursday-Friday while Mott, a 27-year-old book salesman from Sheffield, Mass., was being transferred from his Arctic prison in Murmansk to a forced labor camp.

The Russians said Mott had killed himself in the toilet of the train on which he was being taken to the camp, embassy sources said.

PAROLE IN JUNE

He was convicted Nov. 24 of illegally crossing the Norwegian-Soviet frontier Sept. 5 and sentenced to 18 months. He would have been eligible for parole next June 4 when half the sentence would have been completed.

The Soviets said Mott's body had been taken to the morgue at Kirov, 500 miles northeast of Moscow.

'SHOCKED'

U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler said: "I am profoundly shocked by the death of Newcomb Mott and deplore the handling of this matter which has come to such a tragic end."

In Washington, the state department said "it is indeed a matter of deep regret and con-

Oil Contract Restores Peace

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor peace came to British Columbia's troubled oil industry Friday with the signing of a contract by British American Oil Co. and striking employees of its marketing division here.

The contract promised at least two year's peace in the industry, in turmoil since last summer.

The signing came almost three months after the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC) signed contracts with the other major refineries in B.C.

The new contract is based mainly on proposals put forth Nov. 23 by the provincial government just 13 hours before the union deadline for a province-wide strike by oil workers.

The strike deadline would also have signalled the start of a 48-hour general work stoppage in the province called by the B.C. Federation of Labor in support of the oil workers.

The strike proposal was widely supported by B.C. labor unions.

However, the illegality of the general strike was stressed by Ed Lawson, president of the powerful teamsters joint council for B.C.

His union refused to go along, but instead promised to declare all oil products hot and not handle them should the oil workers strike.

Premier Bennett was author of the settlement formula that lifted the threat of a full-scale oil strike and general strike.

It provided a key to the biggest stumbling block in negotiations—the protection of workers' jobs against the effects of automation.

The oil industry dispute had its roots in contract negotiations which opened last summer across Canada.

By August, the unions had turned down a majority conciliation report and voted to strike.

Pensions Vote

SOCREDS SAVE LIBERALS

By RON COLLISTER
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson last night saved the minority government from defeat and the country from an election crisis.

Mr. Thompson, who earlier had agreed with the substance of a non-confidence vote that tried to raise old age pensions to $100 a month, later threw his five-man band behind the government for a 126 to 117 win.

If he had voted the other way, Prime Minister Pearson would have been faced with a constitutional crisis.

The choice would have been to call another election, the second in a few months, or call on Tory Leader Diefenbaker to try to form a government.

DEFENDS ACTION

Mr. Thompson vehemently defended his action in saving the government, but the other opposition parties leaned against him.

"I didn't think we had the business of power like that," he said.

"I am glad we had the courage to stand by our guns."

ELECTION PLEDGE

Pensions, he said, were not the issue at all.

The issue was whether or not this parliament would continue to do the job it was elected to do.

VOTE SPLIT

On a New Democrat motion, that pensions should be raised from $75 to $100 at age 65: 20 New Democrats, 89 Tories and eight Creditistes voted in favor.

Against were 130 Liberals, five Socreds, one Independent, J. A. Mongrain.

The absentees showed the continual danger that besets the minority government.

ABSENT MPS

Ten of its members were absent: three were ill, two ministers were on business, two were paired with Opposition members, and three were well, just absent.

SHOOK HIS HEAD

Members of all parties gasped at the closeness of the vote.

FIGHT ON ISSUES

Asked if his group would continue to support the minority government on all occasions to avoid an election, he replied:

"We will fight on issues."

Asked if he did not believe that the threat of an election would force him to support the government at all times, he replied:

"No, because there may be a breakdown in the morality of the government or some other issue much greater than the issue of an election.

Nigerian Rule Solidified

LAGOS (AP) — Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi announced Friday night the formation of a two-pronged military government with himself as president and supreme commander controlling the entire administration of Nigeria.

The strongman, who took over from the former civilian government last weekend, named the heads of the Nigerian army, navy and air force as his top advisers.

An official statement by Aguiyi-Ironsi said the military regime would consist of two organs — the supreme military council and a federal executive council.

Aguiyi-Ironsi appointed himself president of both.

There still is no word on the whereabouts of former prime minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, kidnapped by army mutineers on the first day of the coup attempt. Some fear he has been killed.

Strike Hits Ontario's Industry

TORONTO (CP) — The giant squeeze of a truckers' strike began to close in on industry in Ontario early today with one automobile plant scheduled to shut down and another expressing uneasiness.

Many other firms dependent on trucks for supplies and parts prepared to deal with a situation in which they would have to close down or arrange for other means of supply.

Jack Nickell, public relations man with the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, said virtually every industry in Ontario depends on truck delivery for some of its component parts.

Liberals Saved

its responsibility, no one is going to support it."

His party, he recalled, had voted against the minority government in the last parliament and, he warned, it would do it again.

PEOPLE APPROVED

He claimed that if an election were called based on a government defeat yesterday, the Liberals would have been given a majority by the people.

"Any party that forces an election now will be destroyed," he said. "The people won't stand for it."

TORY MOTION

Tory Leader John Diefenbaker berated Mr. Thompson, but reserved his main fire for another speech in the throne speech debate early next week.

The Commons faces another non-confidence vote Tuesday, based on a Tory motion that the pension should be raised at age sixty-nine, sliding down to sixty-five by 1970.

He accused the Socreds of hypocrisy, and his hypocrisy was never more clearly shown than in February, 1963, when the Socreds felled the Diefenbaker minority government.

It was further evidence, he charged, that a multiplicity of political parties was bad for parliamentary democracy.

MEANT NOTHING

A roar of "shame" arose from the Opposition benches as the Socreds voted with the government.

In his speech, earlier, Mr. Thompson had argued that to vote for the motion meant nothing at all because the result would be an election and the pensioners would not get their increase.

NDP HEATED

Socred Bert Leboe said: "I feel good about the vote. The people of Canada don't want an election and that would have been the result of voting against the government."

New Democrat Stanley Knowles, whose party had moved to topple the government said heatedly:

NO ELECTION

"We wanted to beat them. To have beaten them would have established a principle, that Mr. Pearson would not call an election just because he was defeated.

"We should be able to express our opinions without the threat of an election. That is what we are fighting for.

"There would not have been an election."

Britain Boosts Nuclear Power

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's sixth nuclear power station has begun delivering power to the national grid. When the station on the Suffolk coast reaches full production it will be the most powerful in the world. The central electricity generating board is building three more nuclear stations — two in England and one in Wales.

Long Drought Nears End?

ALICE SPRINGS, Australia (Reuters) — The remorseless drought which has gripped central Australia's vast cattle lands for up to eight years has ended in some areas. There are signs that it is breaking elsewhere. Rain has been falling steadily in the last two days in the country east of Alice Springs.

Boyd Named President

The Luxton 4-H Poultry Club named Gordon Boyd president at a recent meeting.

Other officers elected were: Steven Sorenson, vice-president; Elizabeth Williams, secretary; Bruce Hamilton, recreation director; Kenneth Paterson, telephone convenor; Rose Hamilton, social director; Brian New, publicity chairman.

No. 1 Health Problem

Accident Rate Critical, Doctor Tells Conference

MONTREAL (CP) — A panel of doctors Friday described injuries resulting from automobile accidents as "by far the most important health problem in Canada."

Dr. Kenneth Wilson, associate professor of clinical surgery at the University of Ottawa, said traffic injuries are "the No. 1 cause of death among Canadians between 18 and 55 years of age."

Dr. Wilson said the number of fatal and non-fatal injuries has been rising at a rate of 11 per cent every year for the last six years.

This was ahead of the rate of increase in population, in the number of vehicles on the roads and in the millions of miles travelled.

The doctor was one of a group of specialists who discussed traffic injuries during the annual meeting of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada.

The estimated cost of traffic accidents in 1964, all factors considered, was "in excess of $4,000,000,000," said Dr. Wilson, who also heads the Traffic Injury Research Foundation of Canada.

4,800 DEAD

In 1965, 4,800 Canadians were killed in auto accidents and 149,500 were injured.

Dr. Wilson said drivers are responsible for almost all accidents that occur.

He said he and other specialists in Canada plan research on the physical and mental health of drivers involved in accidents, and on the effects of impairment brought about by alcohol "or other chemicals."

ADVANCES

"These are major factors in driver-failure," he said.

Dr. Fraser Gurd, professor of surgery at McGill University, Montreal, said internal injuries in traffic accidents now are not always fatal as in the past.

This was partly the result of progress made in research on such matters as shock—a subject of intensive study at Montreal hospitals.

Dr. B. F. Campbell of Cornell University said in the United States in the last 30 years, there has been a "general decline" in the incidence of traffic accidents.

cern to the U.S. government that the numerous appeals to the Soviet government for a more reasonable, humanitarian disposition of this case were not heeded before it came to this tragic end."

The embassy said it had inquired at 3 p.m. Friday on the status of a clemency appeal filed with Soviet authorities on behalf of Mott's parents when an earlier appeal against the sentence had been denied.

There was no action reported then, an embassy spokesman said. But three hours later an embassy representative was called to the Soviet foreign ministry and the following statement was read:

"Competent Soviet organs informed the ministry that American citizen Newcomb Mott, sentenced by the Murmansk Oblast court on Nov. 24, 1965, to 1½ years deprivation of freedom for violating the state border of the U.S.S.R., on the night of Jan. 20-21 this year while en route to the place where the sentence would be served committed suicide, having cut his throat.

and within two days, the strike spread to B-A plants in Clarkson, Ont., Saskatoon and Kamloops, B.C.

Two weeks later it had reached a Shell Canada Ltd. refinery at St. Boniface, Man., and an Imperial Oil Co. refinery here.

The OCAW set Nov. 15 as the deadline for extending the strike to all oil companies in B.C. and the B.C. Federation of Labor said all petroleum products would be declared hot if the strike spread.

At the last minute the oil workers postponed the deadline to Nov. 24 and the BCFL called for all affiliated unions to refuse to handle hot oil products, or to "withdraw services" for 48 hours in the case of workers not normally handling oil products.

This "withdrawal of services" was construed by management, government and public to mean a general strike although unions did not use that term.

Thirteen hours before the strike deadline the government called the union, companies and press to a meeting.

The settlement was to put to them for the first time and before the day was out all had agreed to use the formula as a basis for further negotiations. The strike was called off.

The government proposals were for a labor-management standing automation committee, six months' notice of layoffs due to automation, company-government retraining of employees displaced by automation, and a week's severance pay for every year of service up to 26 weeks for employees discharged because of automation.

It also proposed a wage increase of 35 cents an hour on a base rate of $2.75 an hour over a two-year contract.

Contracts were signed a short time later with all major companies except B-A where seniority clauses and other local issues blocked a settlement.

Contracts were subsequently signed at Clarkson and Kamloops and several weeks ago the independent gas and oil workers union went back to work at the B-A refinery here.

Stowaway On Plane

An airlines' spokesman said the stowaway was discovered hiding in the plane's lavatory. It was decided that the plane would continue on instead of returning here. The name of the stowaway was not given, but he was identified as a soldier from Ft. Lewis, south of here. He was not in uniform.

Cyclist Recovering After Accident

Ian McConnell, 2740 Eastdowne, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with head injuries received when he was thrown from his motorcycle at Douglas and Dallas.

Frank Cherry, 634 Avalon, received leg and internal injuries when he was in collision with a car on Dallas.

lethargy and lack of interest in the face of criminal infiltration in this country he must look a little higher than the RCMP," he said.

"There has been a vast criminal network operating in Canada, by infiltration, engaged in racketeering, narcotics, bankruptcy, arson, fraud and other matters.

Mr. Nielsen referred to the $2,000,000 in bankruptcy frauds in Ontario and Quebec in 1964.

"Not only has the government failed to apprehend the wrongdoers, but they have acted as though the wrongdoing does not even exist.

"Business is being mulcted of millions upon millions of dollars annually, not only in Quebec but in every province . . . in Quebec we have witnessed the wholesale extermination of witnesses.

"In Ontario, Quebec and other provinces there has been evidence of a movement into Canada of individuals who by their background and record of activities are well known in the field of crime," he said.

Mr. Nielsen also made several bitingly sarcastic remarks about Prime Minister Pearson.

He opened his remarks by stating: "The Prime Minister spoke for about two hours during this debate, yet said nothing. Indeed he deserves the prize of the year for fiction."

He reffered to Mr. Pearson as going to Nigeria and "posturing as the great peacemaker" while thousands in the Yukon and Northwest Territories are denied voting rights.

Mr. Nielsen argued that the Yukon should be started on the way to its own responsible Government.

"It is no good the prime minister becoming an expert on retroactive virtue. It is no good his going to Lagos and speaking about the same ills confronting our own northern Canadians, and then coming back and completely forgetting them," he said.

Noticeable Warning Signs Herald Artery Trouble

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Does hardening of the arteries in one part of the body mean that the same thing is taking place in other areas? Or can this be a spotty thing? Does the process ever reverse itself?—H.M.D.

There are two kinds of hardening of the arteries. One involves the middle of the three layers which make up an artery. The fibrous tissue accumulates calcium deposits and such arteries become "hard." They become quite rigid and can be felt in such spots as a wrist. X-rays depict them clearly because of the calcium.

'RED HERRING'

The other type of hardening, called atherosclerosis, is the red herring. The arteries don't become rigid. Calcium does not gather. Without the calcium, an X-ray does not show a clear picture unless some added procedure is used, such as injecting a dye into the artery so it will show up on an X-ray film.

Instead, the problem here is not actual hardening, but rather the presence of plaques or clumps of fatty material at one or more points in the artery, just as rust or sludge may form into a deposit inside a water pipe.

DEPOSITS

If this clump or plaque becomes large enough, then it can cut off circulation somewhere, or reduce the flow of blood and cause trouble.

If circulation is completely shut off, that creates a problem. If it is in some part of the arteries which serve the heart muscle, the result is a heart attack. If in the brain, it is a stroke. It can occur elsewhere, of course. In the foot, the result will be gangrene. In the kidney, high blood pressure or other difficulty will ensue.

The calcium-type of real hardening tends to be rather general in the body, not that some arteries won't be harder than others.

The atherosclerosis, or fatty plaques, may occur more especially in one part of the body, or may occur in several areas, although real trouble may develop in one place and not in others.

RECOVERY

If a blockage occurs, the patient may very well recover, perhaps developing some collateral circulation (enlargement of other vessels in the same area, to make up for the circulation which has been lost) and thenceforth have adequate circulation for years to come.

Difficulty from hardening of the arteries in one spot does not necessarily mean that you are going to have the same trouble elsewhere.

Minor Changes

Parliament Rules Win Acceptance

OTTAWA (CP)—The first bone of contention in the new Parliament was successfully removed Friday when all-party agreement was reached on the rules to be followed in the session.

With several minor changes, the rules are similar to those adopted, on a temporary basis, during the last Parliament. At that time the rules were established for the existing session and "the next ensuing session." But it was not established whether this meant a new Parliament.

As a result, when the 27th Parliament opened Tuesday there was no agreement on what rules should be followed. And since then, the party House leaders have been meeting daily in an attempt to iron things out. In the meantime, Speaker Lucien Lamoureux allowed the House to continue operating by its traditional rules pending agreement.

AGREED UPON

Agreement between the House leaders was reached Thursday, and it was confirmed by other party officials Friday before Works Minister McIlraith, Liberal House leader, announced the decision in the Commons.

The negotiators had the most difficulty over the time-limit on the daily question period.

CONSERVATIVES OBJECTED

The Conservatives objected to the 30-minute limit on question periods Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. An acceptable compromise was offered by House Leader Stanley Knowles of the New Democratic Party. He suggested the period be extended to 40 minutes Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays and it continue to be one hour Mondays and 30 minutes Wednesdays.

The new rules adopted last year also wiped out the lunch and dinner breaks. This will continue to apply, but not during the throne speech and budget debates.

The government also promised the House leaders to table its new spending estimates by Feb. 15. Under the existing rules, the government cannot introduce supply motions Mondays or Thursdays but this is being removed.

Mr. McIlraith said Friday the Commons will deal with all outstanding estimates immediately after the throne speech debate.

Silence Falls On CBC

OTTAWA (UPI) — Officials of the CBC and the government remained silent Friday following charges by Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker the publicly-owned radio-TV network is trying to "brainwash" the Canadian people into thinking the U.S. is "one of the great enemies of mankind."

A CBC spokesman said the corporation never replies directly to such charges in the Commons and leaves them up to the cabinet minister responsible.

An aide to Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh, who took over the portfolio only last month, said she will likely reply in the Commons next week.

"She has nothing to say at the moment," said the aide. "It's difficult to reply to charges that have been made without foundation."

At Ex-Model's Trial

Perversion Evidence To Be Heard

MIAMI (UPI)—A defence attorney for blonde, ex-model Candace (Candy) Mossler told a tentative 12-man jury Friday the state probably will present evidence of perversion by her slain millionaire husband, Jacques Mossler.

"It is anticipated that certain unusual acts on the part of the deceased amounting to acts of perversion will come before you," said Houston attorney Clyde Woody.

All the prospective jurors responded in the negative when asked whether this would prejudice them against the blue-eyed Mrs. Mossler.

TORRID AFFAIR

She and her handsome nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, 29, are charged with the June 30, 1964, slaying of Mossler, a Houston bank and finance company owner.

The state charges the pair wanted the 69-year-old millionaire out of the way so they could continue a torrid love affair.

Woody took over questioning of jurymen after fellow Texan Percy Foreman, who represents Powers, finished his lengthy and painstaking interrogation. Foreman did not say, however, whether he was ready to accept the prospective jurors.

JURY SOUGHT

Circuit judge George E. Schulz, responding to a request by Foreman, ruled that either of the two main defence attorneys or state prosecutor Richard E. Gerstein could exercise peremptory challenges to dismiss jurymen at any time before the panel is finally seated.

Woody said that premeditated design must be proven against both defendants to convict them, and that "premiditated design might well be in the mind of one defendant and not (in the mind) of the other."

"When you consider Candace Mossler, you must find either that she committed the offence herself or that she aided and abetted—counselled or procured—the individual who actually committed the offense," Woody said.

Woody also got a negative response from the jurors when he asked whether their thinking would be coloured by the fact that Mrs. Mossler was "a woman of some substance." She will inherit most of Mossler's $28,000,000 estate.

Candy, who claims to be 39 although records show her to be 45, shivered while the legal preliminaries ground on. Judge Schulz ordered the bailiff to set the thermostat at 92, but the air conditioning system continued to pour forth a frigid stream of air.

Finally the judge called in technicians who climbed into an attic over the courtroom and brought the runaway air conditioner under control.

Civil Rights Support Shown

Africans Dine War Critic

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Representatives of 15 African countries entertained unseated Georgia state representative-elect Julian Bond Friday to underline their support for him and for the United States civil rights movement.

Among American civil rights leaders at the lunch were Rev. Martin Luther King, Bayard Rustin, organizer of the 1964 march on Washington, and James Forman, chairman of the Militant Students' Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee.

King told the African diplomats the meeting was "the beginning of a creative coalition between the black people of the U.S. and their black brothers in Africa."

'SOLIDARITY'

Ambassador Achkar Marof of Guinea, a frequent critic of U.S. policies here, organized the lunch. He denied it had any connection with Bond's oft-stated objections to U.S. policy in Viet Nam and said it was aimed merely at "establishing solidarity with our brothers in our civil rights movement."

Bond was elected to the Georgia House of Representatives earlier this month but was refused his seat because of his open opposition to U.S. involvement in the Viet Nam war.

He reiterated that opposition on his arrival here for the lunch.

"The United States should get out of Viet Nam," he said.

'OUR BROTHER'

King pledged "absolute support for our brother Julian Bond" in addressing the African diplomats.

He said the question involved in Bond's seating was whether an individual American had the right to dissent.

"Abraham Lincoln as a freshman congressman, was a vehement critic of the Mexican war," King said. "Yet nobody tried to unseat him. In fact, he went on to become president of the United States.

"I am convinced that with hard work and determination we are going to seat Julian Bond in the legislature of the sovereign and independent state of Georgia," he said.

APPLAUSE

The Africans applauded.

Bond, in a brief speech, echoed King's call for solidarity between African and American negroes.

"There is one clear issue involved in what is happening to me," he said. "That is the issue of representation — whether a group of people have the right to choose who shall represent them.

"This right has been discarded in my case: the people no longer have that power."

Bond told the African diplomats American Negroes "have a responsibility toward their brothers in South Africa and Rhodesia" and appealed to the United Nations to stage an "African solidarity day" each year.

Moscow Discussions on Viet Nam

Soviet Summit Talks May Rebuff Peking

LONDON (UPI) — Russia is trying to arrange a summit conference of Communist Party and government leaders to discuss Viet Nam, diplomatic reports said Friday. The main purpose of the meeting would be to form an anti-Peking Front.

Diplomatic sources said the Russians apparently hoped to align world communist policy behind Moscow, thereby reaffirming that the Kremlin is the chief backer of socialistic nations in emergencies.

ISOLATE CHINA

The Soviets were said to believe that the explosive Viet Nam conflict offers a good camouflage for a meeting to isolate truculent Red China.

The Kremlin was reported to to have sounded out the North Vietnamese on their possible participation — or at least acquiescence—to such a meeting on the specific subject of Viet Nam.

The attitude of Hanoi on the subject is considered crucial by the Russians, and there has been no immediate authoritative information so far as to reaction from North Viet Nam president Ho Chi Minh.

Peking has firmly rejected participation on a Communist summit meeting either on Viet Nam or on its ideological feud with Russia.

OPEN HOSTILITY

Diplomatic sources here believe Hanoi steered a non-committal course in recent talks with Soviet leaders for fear of inviting Peking's wrath. They said Hanoi was unlikely to participate in the conference in the face of open Chinese hostility.

The sources said, however, this did not necessarily rule out the projected summit which could represent for Russia an important breakthrough in the impasse created by the Viet Nam war in their relations with China as well as the West.

Peking has been accusing the Russians in increasingly strident terms of collusion with the United States over Viet Nam and has sought to play down Russian assistance to Hanoi as mere eyewash.

Russians Decline Role Of Viet Nam 'Mediator'

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union refused Friday to try to bring North Viet Nam to a negotiating table with the United States.

Japanese Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shiina asked Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to use his influence in Hanoi to get negotiations started.

But the reply was that "the Soviet Union is not directly involved and therefore is not going to be a mediator," Shiina told a press conference.

"We could not reach any common opinion," Shiina said of his talks about Viet Nam with Kosygin and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Striking Pupils To Meet

MONTREAL (CP) — A meeting is scheduled in Quebec City today of representatives from 60 schools of 27,000 striking technical and trade students throughout the province.

Meanwhile, no progress was reported Friday in the strike of 750 French-language Roman Catholic teachers in three regions of Quebec, affecting 18,000 pupils.

Student leaders hope to resolve today the confused situation in which an estimated one-half of the strikers went back to classrooms but did not resume their studies and others stayed away from school altogether.

The students went on strike Monday in protest against the extension of the school year by 2½ weeks. They say this reduces their chances of getting summer employment.

Crew Rescued But Ship Lost

TOKYO (AP)—All 24 officers and crew of the Japanese freighter Maruto Maru have been rescued about 300 miles east of Formosa but their ship presumably sank. A Japanese patrol plane and patrol boats failed to find any trace of the 2,998-ton freighter. The ship signalled for help early Friday, reporting that stormy seas apparently shifted its cargo of lumber and made it list.

Plans Unveiled

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Plans for a $1,500,000 mall-type shopping centre were revealed here. To be built for W. H. Malkin Ltd., it is to be completed in 1967.

'Beware of Unity!'

Parsons Picket Priest in Pulpit

LONDON (UPI) — Protestant clergymen staged a demonstration outside Westminster Abbey Friday night to protest the appearance there of the first Roman Catholic priest since the Reformation.

About 50 demonstrators, most of them from Northern Ireland, gathered in the courtyard outside the 900-year-old seat of the Anglican Church and paraded with placards saying: "Protestants awake to the dangers of unity with Rome."

Object of the demonstration former superior of the Church of the Jesuit Father in London, who was preaching inside.

UNITY ADDRESS

He was one of a number of representatives of different denominations invited to give addresses at the Abbey during a week of prayer for Christian Unity.

His appearance marked the first time a Roman Catholic had preached in the Abbey since the 16th century religious revolution which divided Christendom into Protestant and Catholic camps.

OBJECTORS

The demonstrators included 30 who had travelled from Northern Ireland under the leadership of the Rev. Ian Paisley, moderator of the Free Presbyterian Church of Ulster.

Confused Thinking

CANADA'S Arnold Smith, head of the new Commonwealth Secretariat, is apparently a man who not only confuses idealism with realism but fact with fiction.

Summing up his views on the present Rhodesian crisis he offers this astounding conclusion: The rebel regime in Rhodesia is doomed because its policies amount to a modern form of slavery.

What the illegal Rhodesian government is doing, he said, "is an attempt to introduce a form of slavery in a more sophisticated way.

"Humanity," he added, "is not going to tolerate this in the second half of this century."

Certainly, few Canadians will find fault with Mr. Smith's expressed abhorrence of the course Premier Jan Smith of Rhodesia is following, and even fewer will argue against his championing of the basic principles of democracy.

However, a goodly number—no less dedicated to the cause of freedom and no less highly principled than the Commonwealth secretary-general himself—will be shocked at the naivety he displays on the subject.

To believe that the rebel Rhodesian government will be brought down simply because its policy of "slavery" will not be tolerated by the world at large in this day and age marks a new height in muddled thinking on the part of any international diplomat.

If Mr. Smith chooses to see things as they are rather than what they should be he will quickly realize that the only way the rebel Rhodesian regime will be destroyed without bloodshed is through economic sanctions and continued negotiations.

As for humanity not putting up with slavery in this second half of the twentieth century, Mr. Smith must already know that more than half of the peoples of the world today live under one form or another of slavery.

Even a brief study by his new secretariat staff would reveal to Mr. Smith that slavery and the denial of democratic rights is the rule rather than the exception within the majority of African-ruled Commonwealth nations today.

Without attempting to weaken Mr. Smith's rightful condemnation of the rebel Rhodesian government, Canadians, as members of the Commonwealth, might be justified in asking if he holds the same view on "slavery" toward Ghana, Nigeria, Tanzania and Uganda as he does toward Rhodesia.

Surely this is the time—when the Commonwealth stands in such dire danger of collapsing—that Utopian sentiments should be retired in favor of positive action.

Outmoded Law

ONCE MORE the provincial government is being called upon to remove an anachronism from the law—the requirement that liquor outlets remain closed during municipal elections. This time it is the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island that have drafted a resolution for their annual meeting proposing the sensible alteration.

If the ban on the sale of alcoholic beverages on election day once had considerable and obvious merit, it was in days when brawling occasioned by political passion was less uncommon and when, on a scale that some candidates and their backers found worth while, votes could be bought or influenced with drink.

Those days, like the saloons that might be said to have symbolized them, have gone. But they have left a legacy which is unneeded, detrimental to business (especially the tourist business, for it is visitors who are unforewarned) and in some respects ridiculous.

There was, for instance, the Victoria city byelection occasion last year when thirsty Victorians had only to go to Esquimalt to buy spirits or drink beer, happening they had failed to lay in a supply; when Oak Bay residents could not purchase a bottle in that locality because their "Oak Bay" liquor store is just inside Victoria.

Again when all municipalities were voting in December, the Colwood liquor store did a thriving business, being in unorganized territory.

The law does not stop drinking on election day. It merely creates a nuisance for some citizens and an irritation for many visitors. British Columbia could well do without it.

The Moon Is Dark

HANOI, THE PUPPET of Peking, has made it clear that the United States' peace overtures have failed to alter the determination of the Communist North Vietnamese to continue the war for subjugation of the democratic south.

The widely publicized lunar new year cease-fire proffered by the Communist command, and seized upon in some quarters as a hopeful sign, has been repeatedly shattered by their own artillery.

The little holiday from battle has done nothing, really, but provide an opportunity for the Hanoi administration to bolster the morale of its own forces, while it urges them on to what it calls "an inevitable victory."

The month-long lull in the United States' bombing of North Viet Nam, which was supposed to create an atmosphere favorable to the consideration of proposals for a negotiated peace, provided nothing more than an opportunity for the Communists to restore their lines of communication, reinforce their forward elements and replenish their supplies.

The well-intentioned Japanese effort to enlist Moscow's mediation has proved a fruitless gesture of goodwill. The Soviet Union's answer was that, not being directly involved it could not intervene.

The American peace overtures undoubtedly pleased her friends and may have impressed neutral Asia with her sincerity, but they made no dent in Hanoi's intransigence.

We must therefore face the prospect of acceleration of the war effort by both sides, a dangerous escalation of ground fighting as well as renewed bombing forays into North Viet Nam.

State Secretary Dean Rusk admits the possibility of the spread of fighting beyond Viet Nam's borders, a danger present from the beginning, but, unhappily, enhanced as the weight of forces committed continues to grow. And in proportion to that weight, so the security of neighbor states diminishes . . . and China itself is one of these neighbors, her frontier closer than comfort allows.

For all the effort of the peace-makers the prospect is dismal, and Viet Nam will greet the new year under a dark moon.

Horror Fiction

Stories They Tell the Viet Cong

By GUY SEARLS from Hong Kong

NORTH VIET NAM has found that Communist idealism alone is not sufficient to inspire her soldiers in the fight against South Viet Nam. So they are being fed massive doses of propaganda stories circulated by Hanoi far beyond the scope of belief of intelligent individuals but the peasant soldiers to whom the propaganda is directed have little sophistication, and judge what they are told by their own terms of reference.

Thus the Hanoi monthly magazine Viet Nam can declare that American soldiers in South Viet Nam have disembowelled and plucked out the livers of 5,000 Vietnamese. Other reports in North Viet Nam's publications give lurid accounts of GIs and their "puppets" ripping out livers from innocent villagers taken prisoner and eating them on the spot.

Such claims leave the Western reader bewildered by the enormity of the falsehood. But to the peasant soldier of Viet Nam, raised on the folk-legends of the Orient, it is different.

According to Chinese mythology, adopted centuries ago by the Vietnamese, the eating of livers brings strength, courage and health. Murder for liver is the plot of many an ancient Asian horror story.

The Vietnamese Communists say that a centre of human-flesh eaters is at Binh Hung, on the Camau peninsula at the southern tip of South Viet Nam. Binh Hung is a relatively new village. It was set up by a Chinese Roman Catholic priest, Nguyen Lac Hoa, who led his flock out of Southern China when the Communists took over. Father Hoa's hardy band became targets of the Viet Cong. The people of Binh Hung say that the first Viet Cong act was to kidnap a 13-year-old boy from the village and later hang his slaughtered body from the village gate.

The Communist story puts the ghoulishness on the other side. The Viet Cong say Binh Hung is a nest of bandits. To quote from the Communists' own stilted English translation of a book called Letters from South Viet Nam published in Hanoi:

"Others, before going to confession, still gain time to pour boiling water on their victims kept in jars, to skin them as they call it, so that upon returning from the church, they could immediately start preparing their meals with pieces of flesh cut from their victims."

The book goes on to accuse Father Hoa of kidnapping girls from nearby villages to serve as prostitutes for his followers, so that he can collect the fees. The Communist report continues: "The story of Binh Hung is one that rends one's heart and thrills one with horror inasmuch as these man-eaters are also human beings. Cannibalism has gone on to the extent that those devils eat human flesh with good appetite, develop various receipts (sic) for cooking it, and most appreciate human ears and hands. They went so far as to stab or shoot down one another in disputing a human bladder, because it could be sold at 1,000 piastres. There is in Saigon a gang of dealers in human bladders."

Letters from South Viet Nam is a Hanoi best seller. According to the preface in the latest edition, the first volume sold "50 times" more than the average North Viet Nam publication. There is now a second volume. The book has been translated into several languages, and the Chinese have turned out millions of copies. Parts of the book also have been dramatised on the Peking stage.

The book is full of stories of pregnant women being violated and murdered, of parents being forced to watch as their children are tortured, and of babies being burned alive. In each case, the "American aggressors" or their South Vietnamese "puppets" are held to blame.

In the Hanoi daily press and the Viet Nam News Agency, atrocity stories are regular fare—gang rapes, arson, looting, mutilation and murder. The use of tear gas and defoliants is exaggerated so that readers are led to believe that thousands of people are being killed or maimed by chemical warfare.

At the same time Hanoi puts out other propaganda to inspire courage. "People's forces," it is said, can defeat the most modern military weapons. The Americans are "outwardly strong, but inwardly weak." Terrorist acts have kept the enemy panic-stricken and demoralized. The American people are against the war and the soldiers do not want to fight. Communism, as such, is seldom mentioned in Hanoi's war propaganda.

Seven Reasons

CDC Plan Opposed

THE federal government has indicated that although the leadership of the finance department has switched, it is still considering setting up the Canada Development Corporation, as proposed in the last Parliament by the then finance minister, Walter Gordon.

Whether Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp will share Mr. Gordon's views on the functions of the proposed corporation has not yet been revealed, but business and industrial leaders have not altered their general lines of criticism against the project.

Neil J. McKinnon, chairman and president of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, is one of those sharply opposed to the entry of government into this sphere of activity.

In a recent speech to the Canadian Club of Toronto, Mr. McKinnon outlined seven reasons why the Canada Development Corporation idea should be abandoned.

The seven points were:

1. As the government is to be the largest single shareholder no one should be deluded into thinking that the corporation would be free from political influence.

2. As one of its professed purposes is to purchase Canadian businesses which might otherwise be sold to foreign interests the Canada Development Corporation will always be the residual buyer at the highest price; vendors will have shopped the market first.

3. Another of its professed purposes is to purchase minority interests in Canadian stocks or other Canadian resources owned by United States corporations. Anyone with an elementary knowledge of the United States industrial system, or most others in free countries for that matter, will know that a government partner is anything but welcome and that this is a certain way of preventing any such assets from being placed on the market here unless the parent company has a bad investment it wants to get rid of.

4. The acquisition of Polymer Corporation by the Canada Development Corporation from the Canadian government apparently is bait to the new investor as this change does not create new Canadian capital for new Canadian investment.

5. The Canada Development Corporation will not add to the supply of capital for productive growth but to the extent the corporation should acquire investment from foreign companies it will do the opposite by using scarce Canadian capital to pay to external interests.

6. The announced intention not to have a public market in the shares is admission that the Canada Development Corporation will not be able to stand the scrutiny of the market.

7. Much more could be said on this subject but it seems clear enough that an investment in the Canada Development Corporation if it should survive its period of incubation would be a hazardous one from the point of view of the investor.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press

Russian troops fired on a peaceful march of workmen in St. Petersburg 61 years ago today — in 1905 — and killed about 1,000. It was "Bloody Sunday" and the beginning of a revolution, fanned by news of the disastrous war with Japan. Czar Nicholas II considered abdicating but peace was signed Sept. 5 of the same year and the revolution was offset by granting a parliament and ordering a series of police raids. It was during these months that the Russian political parties of 1917 were established.

1673—Regular postal service began from New York to Boston.

1924—Ramsay MacDonald became Britain's first Labor prime minister.

First World War:

Fifty years ago today—in 1916—Germans captured Allied trenches at Neuville St. Vaast and were driven back by counter-attacks; Russian units occupied Dubrova, a stronghold on the River Stripa.

Second World War:

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1941—Lord Wavell's army captured Tobruk, taking 25,000 Italian prisoners and 50 tanks; HMS Hyperion sank after hitting a mine or a torpedo in the Adriatic; there was fighting in Romania between constitutionalists and Fascists.

Slay and Save

Ugly Theme

By CASSANDRA from London

THE news that Russian rocket experts have gone to Hanoi is grim tidings.

If you take a pessimistic view, as I do, of the prospects of Mr. Johnson's all-out efforts for peace in many of the major capitals of the world, you will discern that if these praiseworthy proposals for ending hostilities do fail, the military hawks in the Pentagon at Washington will have a matchless opportunity to press home their demands for an all-out war on North Viet Nam with the risk of involving China, too.

Or, in the words that Senator Barry Goldwater once used to me, to go ahead and "blast them off the face of the earth."

President Johnson is a resolute leader, but the bomb-burn-and-blast school of thought in the United States is very powerful, too.

A few months ago the influential and exceptionally well-informed American magazine "Aviation Week" carried a thoughtful and chilling leading article weighing up the advantages and disadvantages of wiping out China's atom bomb factories.

The underlying theme was that it would be an economy of lives to nip a poisoned nuclear rose in the bud; just as President Truman did when he, with the full agreement of the allies, atom-bombed Hiroshima and killed 80,000 people and maimed another 60,000.

The ugly theme which had a good deal of logic in the Second World War was slay now to save lives later.

That this sinister idea was being kicked around again is shown by a story that Mr. Stewart Alsop, the well-known American journalist, has just recounted.

Mr. Alsop is very well wired-up in Washington and is connected to the political and military power circuits where the big decisions are made.

Just before President Kennedy was assassinated, according to Mr. Alsop, he called one of the government's leading experts on Far Eastern affairs to the White House and asked him whether a final settlement with the Chinese was possible.

Mr. Kennedy then asked him what he would do. His counsellor said that China should never be allowed to become a fully fledged nuclear power. Moreover, it was technically possible at this stage to destroy the Chinese atom factories in such a way as to make it seem an accident.

Things could be arranged using conventional high explosives, and plans were already made for "taking out" the plants at Lanchow and at Paotow, in Inner Mongolia. High level aerial reconnaissance had revealed complete details of the two factories.

Again, according to Mr. Alsop, President Kennedy said that he had decided "in principle that China must be prevented, by whatever means, from becoming a nuclear power" and steps should be taken for a covert "surgical operation."

I do not know the truth of this story, but I do know that many of the military in the Pentagon would regard it as the prudent thing to do.

I CAN remember The Economist in the days before the war when it had a severe grey cover and strictly concerned itself with economics, as was the wish of Walter Bagehot, the lawyer, writer and banker who, in the middle of the nineteenth century, married the daughter of the then editor.

Later, Bagehot took on the editorship himself and really built the paper. Today, The Economist is interested in everything—including economics—and its range of intelligent inquisitiveness is boundless. In a recent issue, the journal gave a splendid demonstration of its versatility. There were articles on everything from colored photos to drinking drivers, from divorce to de Gaulle, from football to chess, from steel-making to bee-keeping.

There was even a long and stirring piece on the crisis in anchovies.

As an anchovy fancier, I was fascinated by the wide knowledge of the author. We had the truth about anchovies, the significance of plankton and the dangers of cormorants and warm water currents.

I don't know what Mr. Bagehot would have said about anchovies getting mixed up with bank balances and fiduciary policies, but as one addicted to achovy aigrettes (a superbly tasty dish involving herbs, olive oil, vinegar, chives, parsley and puff pastry painted with beaten eggs), I was entranced.

WHAT They Say: "The public schools are the best schools in England, possibly in the world, and for this reason they should be abolished—in the fastest possible time. They should not be assimilated, because they are too gracious, too redolent of superiority."— Mr. Robert Bolt.

Canada and the Commonwealth

MEN live by symbols and a country with no regard for its history and traditions is a poor thing. We Canadians enjoy the great privilege of having a Queen who is the worthy head of a great Commonwealth, who lends dignity and prestige to Canada and for all this we contribute not one penny.

Since we have the reality of independence and also the prestige of the British connection, a cherished tie for millions, we have the best of both worlds, and would gain nothing and lose a great deal by abandoning such an intregal part of our constitution.

The Commonwealth is the happy result of a long historical process; the Commonwealth could not have been made by human hands. There are many problems which have been faced, and more still to be faced.

The Commonwealth is an institution which can work profoundly for peace and internation co-operation. It is the only organic worldwide association of peoples in which race, religion, nationality and culture are all transcended by a common sense of fellowship.

Unfair

The article was headed Pact with Queen Voids Code (for armed services pay) by Richard Jackson.

The service man even gets the short end of the financial stick upon retirement.

If a man serves 20 years in the RCAF and does not choose to sign on for five more years, his 20-year pension is reduced by 5 per cent for each year not served under 25 years.

I am leaving the service this year and my pension is going to be reduced by 25 per cent. I worked for and paid into this pension, and I think I should be entitled to all of it.

This does not seem fair after reading about the golden handshake a lot of the high ranks received when the services were first cut back last year.

Death Penalty

It is not surprising that crime and vicious brutal murders are being committed on an ever increasing scale when we find that murderers after being tried by judges and juries and taken through the various courts are found guilty and given the death sentence; they then appeal to the federal government and almost invariably the just sentence of the death penalty has been changed to life imprisonment. It almost seems at times these various trials of murderers was just a waste of time and money.

A life imprisonment sentence may not be of any value if a vicious murderer may be paroled, and if he is young he may be back in circulation again after a few years and repeat his crimes on some other poor innocent victims.

The most danger comes from the criminally insane who know not what they do; the sentence of these poor victims to absolute life imprisonment in mental institutions, often causing grave injury to those caring for them, makes it difficult to keep an efficient staff, ever in fear for their lives. It seems the criminally violent insane should be spared this inhuman life imprisonment for crimes they may have been unconscious of committing; they may have propagaetd offspring who would be like them. A quick but humane death would be the most humane manner of dealing with these violent criminal insane. Abolish hanging as crude and barbarous.

Who puts up the money to carry so many murder cases through the various courts and on to the federal government to get the sentence changed to life imprisonment.

It has been my firm conviction that the chief reason for the fall of the Conservative government was the changing of practically all the death sentences of murderers to life imprisonment. All I had ever talked to about this subject are horrified that these cruel and vicious murderers could be put back into circulation.

I do hope this subject will be given intensive consideration as the future of our country depends upon the calibre of our future citizens, perhaps even more than higher education.

Hardly Jelled

Canada and Canadians mean different things to different people. We of Canada have never really put a very great effort toward becoming distinctive. We have been a nation of borrowers, politically, culturally and financially. People of foreign nations must certainly get mixed impressions of our country.

Mr. Bennett's display of Canada in California must have left them thinking we are but a colony. The premier obviously thought that which is truly Canadian would not draw the tourists as well as his British display.

I found while in The Congo we in the forces were either known as French or English. This in itself was an irritation, for we should be known only as Canadians.

In Canada we should ask ourselves, "What is a Canadian?" To many, those of British stock are the only ones that belong. The French are tolerated. The rest are generally known as "that dumb DP that took my job."

We have hardly jelled into one nation, yet in 1967 we are to celebrate a century of Confederation.

Being a born Canadian I can only feel disheartened at what I see. Though I have great admiration for the British and Americans, it would seem they are masters of our home.

To give Canada a present in 1967 we should be made a republic with a tight rein on foreign ownership.

Noise Nuisance

In last Sunday's paper we read of a man fined for the gaggle of his geese. Compared with screeching tires and unmuffled mufflers the sound of geese is a mere murmuring of a small stream.

Will the city of Victoria pick up the cue and start snatching some revenue from this ear-shattering nuisance on the streets? If the authorities can't decide what is excessive, nerve-grating noise, the people on the streets can tell them that any unnecessary racket is excessive. The time is overdue for those who love to step on it to be stepped on.

Drivers Needed

This appeal for volunteer drivers is addressed to retired men, or men who are free on Wednesday afternoons who would be willing to drive blind persons to the meetings of the White Cane Club.

The meetings are held each Wednesday except in the months of January, July and August. This year we resumed our activities on January 19.

The duties entail calling for a blind person and guide at their home at approximately 1:30 p.m., driving them to the Blind Centre, 1609 Blanshard St., and returning them to their homes shortly after 3:30 p.m.

Volunteer drivers will not be asked, neither will they be expected, to contribute anything save their services; and while the meetings are in progress they may enjoy the fellowship, along with afternoon tea, of other volunteer drivers.

If interested persons will telephone or write to me at 1065 Southgate St. fullest details will be gladly given.

Musical Art Concert

By WILLIAM THOMAS

Victoria-born Malcolm Hamilton enjoys the reputation of being one of the world's foremost harpsichordists.

He will return here Feb. 1 for a Musical Art concert at the McPherson Playhouse.

Mr. Hamilton attended Victoria High School and Victoria College before leaving for the University of Washington where he was the first student to complete graduate studies in the harpsichord.

Hamilton

DOCTORATE

For the past three years he has been living in Southern California where he is completing his doctorate under the direction of Alice Ehlers.

He appears frequently in duet with Madame Ehlers. They are the only duo on this instrument performing on this continent.

SPECIAL INSTRUMENT

For the McPherson concert, Mr. Hamilton will play on an instrument built especially for him.

The Wittmayer company at Gartenberg, Bavaria, made him a nine-foot concert grand to the exact specifications of J. S. Bach's own harpsichord. It has two keyboards, four sets of strings and five pedals.

PARENT'S HOME

Mr. Hamilton will offer a program that includes works by Vivaldi, Byrd, Bach and Purcell.

During his stay in Victoria he will return to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hamilton, at Beckley Manor.

Comedian Here Tuesday

Dick Gregory, Negro comedian and civil rights worker, is coming to Victoria Tuesday, not Monday.

A change of plans will bring him to the University of Victoria's Gordon Head gym at 12:30 p.m., Tuesday.

The public is welcome, at a charge of 50 cents per person. Mr. Gregory's visit here will be sandwiched between performances in Vancouver next week.

Albernis Grit Teeth

By MARY TAYLOR

The Alberni Valley air pollution control meeting set for Sunday should have Nordley Centre bulging at the seams.

"This thing has simply snowballed," said George McKnight, one of the two men who called the public meeting after more than a week of what residents call the worst fallout they have ever seen here.

"But I'd like to make it clear the meeting is not a vendetta against MacMillan-Bloedel. It is directed at the representatives of the people, both locally and provincially, to get whatever action is needed to put an end to this mess.

Soot Protest Gets Support

More Printed

"The meeting is also to promote the anti-pollution petition we've been circulating.

"Although we had 250 forms originally, demand for them has grown so tremendously this week that we had to have more printed."

One family, Mr. McKnight said, had filled four pages with 36 signatures per page between Wednesday evening and Friday afternoon.

Women Active

Mrs. McKnight, in three brief afternoon calls around the valley, got 86 signatures and only one refusal.

"It appears the women are the main force behind the petition, but that's not surprising seeing they are the ones who have to clean up the mess," she said.

Downtown businessmen, while less likely than housewives to blame the company indiscriminately for the black, sticky soot, agreed that cleaning becomes a major and costly problem during severe fallout periods.

Cars Hard Hit

Said one dealer: "Several of us were discussing this cost matter. We figured it costs us $1.50 to $2 a day per car to keep them clean.

"If you have a garage you have to hose down the pump and front end daily, sometimes two or three times a day, and within three hours it's simply filthy again."

No Names

Others agreed the cars deteriorate under the gritty scratching of accumulated smut.

"The stuff filters through door and window casings, gets on upholstery and one way and another cost the dealers thousands of dollars a year," another said.

Like many of the residents of the valley, none interviewed wanted to be quoted by name.

'Good Wages'

"I've got nothing against the company," said one resident of a badly afflicted area close to the main business section. "I have worked for them for years. I like the job and they pay good wages.

"But I like to breathe too.

"None of us wants to speak out against the pollution because we nearly all work for the company."

Another resident who freely admits he has sent samples of black smut from his front porch to city council and has twice written letters of protest to civic, provincial and federal representatives said: "I don't blame the company. They operate on a profit-and-loss basis.

"They are just like the rest of us. They won't do any more than they have to unless they are forced to.

"I think it's up to city council, backed by stiff provincial legislation, to take action."

Harassed housewives are more apt to jump flatly on mill management.

Said one young mother: "I hear we have a new mill manager and his wife has not arrived here yet. I just hope she has five kids and her washing machine breaks down.

'Fine Arts Responsibility'

Artists, Audiences 'Up to University'

A university has the duty of producing both artists and appreciative audiences, fine arts lecturer Tony Emery declared Friday at the University of Victoria.

"The university must take the responsibility of producing our future patrons and future teachers," said Mr. Eemery, associate professor in the fine arts branch.

He was keynote speaker of a symposium which continues today, titled Gown, Town and the Lively Arts. It will explore the role of the university in the community's fine arts program.

"It's an exacting role and it's going to take a lot of money," he said.

"There's no prejudice against the arts; it's just that people haven't got around to taking them very seriously."

The University of Victoria plans to establish a separate fine arts department, probably this year. Mr. Emery said formal courses in the arts are essential, but he rated informal gatherings as even more important in development of artistic appreciation.

"Any university that cannot provide opportunity for this sort of discussion is going to suffer," he said.

Peterson Praises Ottawa Action

Grant a Big Help

Education Minister Peterson said Friday he is pleased at the announcement made by Prime Minister Pearson that federal government per capita grants to universities will be increased to $5 from the current $2.

The prime minister said Thursday the 1966-67 grants will be increased as an interim measure and that a federal-provincial conference will be arranged in the next few months to work out long-term arrangements.

Federal payments to universities when the new grants go into effect will boost the current $40,000,000 cost to about $100,000,000.

BIG DIFFERENCE

"I welcome the announcement," said Mr. Peterson. "It is not as high as the Bladen report recommended for the coming fiscal year but nevertheless it'll make a great difference to our universities, not only here but throughout Canada."

(The Bladen report recommended that the grants be increased to $5 for the current fiscal year and to $6 for the next fiscal year, whereas Mr. Pearson's announcement will not apply to the current fiscal year.)

OTHER FINANCING

"This for the most part would satisfy the resolution passed by all the ministers of education when we met in Ottawa last week," said Mr. Peterson.

"The only other provision of the resolution was that a meeting be called at the earliest date for long-term university financing. I hope that, too, will come to pass in the near future.

VOCATIONAL

"If the federal government will also take action soon on the requests we made for additional vocational and technical training, 1966 will be recorded in history as a great year for the advancement of education."

But the education minister added: "It is still a good increase, and I am personally grateful for the actoin taken."

University

Increased Funds Welcome

Increased operating grants to Canadian universities indicate the federal government is heeding the recommendations of the Bladen commission on higher education, said University of Victoria Dean Alex Wood Friday.

On Thursday Prime Minister Pearson announced an interim increase in grants from $2 per capita to $5. In B.C. this means an increase of roughly $6,000,000.

"I'm delighted to see they've done it," said Dean Wood, head of the faculty of arts and science.

He declined to speculate immediately on how the extra money will affect the University of Victoria.

"I don't know how it will be allocated by the provincial government," he said.

MORE FACULTY

One probable result will be the hiring of more faculty, he forecast.

"Regardless of the amount, it's most welcome," said the dean.

Decision Unchanged

Centennial Group Won't Sign—Just Yet

The Greater Victoria Centennial committee's executive met Friday, but announced no changes in its decision to hire the John B. Rogers Producing Company to direct 1966-67 centennial celebrations.

Chairman Walter Dodsworth said the U.S.-based Rogers company will submit its proposed agreement at a meeting Wednesday.

Mr. Dodsworth, who was not present when the committee decided Tuesday to hire the firm, said that as far as he is concerned no contracts will be signed at Wednesday's meeting.

He said that even should the committee decide to sign "I am not prepared to sign until the intermunicipal committee is satisfied."

He said the intermunicipal committee's approval is not required but he feels the committees must agree "because the money has to come from the municipalities."

Mac-Powell

Firm Shifts Tax Battle

VANCOUVER (CP) — MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. has taken a new direction in its protest against a provincial tax levy on land purchased from the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway.

A portion of the Vancouver Island property, bought by Mac-Powell in 1964, has been assessed at $35,000,000 and an $8,000,000 tax has been levied on this assessment.

The company now has asked Mr. Justice Victor Dryer in supreme court to declare invalid the taxation notice. Mr. Justice Dryer has reserved decision.

The company says it is not seeking to avoid taxation, but claims it is entitled to have the tax levy based on the total tract purchase.

Purchase price for the entire tract was about $35,000,000.

Mr. Justice Dryer was told the firm's protest against the assessment figure before a court of revision has been postponed pending the outcome of the supreme court hearing.

Provincial government legislation requires that any land sold by the railway for purposes other than railway use is subject to a 25 per cent tax on its value.

The land was originally granted by the Canadian government in B.C.'s early days to encourage building of the railway on the island.

Salisbury Is City of 'Some Day' Where Africans Are Ignored

By DAVE McINTOSH

SALISBURY (CP) — The capital of Rhodesia is a handsome 75-year-old city of about 325,000, well laid out with wide, clean streets and modern buildings and pretty parks of umbrella cabbage and wait-a-bit trees.

The main white area is northeast of the city proper, the industrial area southwest. This has created more of a hardship of gasoline rationing, imposed as a result of oil embargoes that followed Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence.

The city gives the impression of comfort and wealth for the whites. The Africans live well out of town in allocated areas and they provide the cheap labor by which the white man has built an economic fortress in central Africa and where he is guarding the ramparts of his privilege.

Ignore Rhodesia Problem, Perhaps It'll Go Away

Why, Africans use the same lavatory as I do," an office worker in the main government building said with some pride. But on downtown Baker Avenue a sign over a public lavatory says "Europeans only." And in the Rhodes cinema a similar notice proclaims: "Gentlemen all races; Europeans only downstairs."

Still there is little or none of the apartheid, or racial separation, as practised in South Africa.

"Oh, it's really different up here," said a white visitor from Johannesburg. "In South Africa, if a white man is injured in a car accident you call a certain number for an ambulance. If it's a black man who is hurt you call a different number.

Conscience Hurt

"In my country some of the Africans have to get up at 3 a.m. and walk five hours to get to work in time. And they walk five hours to get home.

"It's not fair. It afflicts my conscience. And if I said that publicly at home I'd be put in jail for 180 days without charge."

A Rhodesian expressed shock at a recruiting advertisement for the South African police force which appeared in the Jan. 9 issue of the Johannesburg Sunday Times.

It showed a fierce-looking police dog being held by a fiercer-looking white policeman supposedly protecting three elderly (white) women. The two together—man and dog—form a formidable combination against crime, says the ad.

The Rhodesian found it easy to read "black African" for "crime."

Though Rhodesians decry South Africa's racial policy, they don't—at least publicly—mention any time at which the African here might expect to obtain majority rule, although occasionally a vague reference to 30 years is heard.

Franchise Vote

There are 4,080,000 Africans and 224,000 whites in Rhodesia. The Rhodesians are fond of telling visitors that Africans have had the vote here since 1923. This is true but they glide over the fact that the franchise has education and income qualifications attached.

Only a few hundred Africans have the required education or earn the required income (about $1,000 a year) to vote.

Fifteen of the 65 seats in the legislature are set aside for Africans.

Even Rhodesians strongly opposed to Ian Smith's rebel government say the blacks are incapable of taking over the government now or for years. A few concede this is because no African holds any kind of responsible position in the government or public service.

The fact is that Rhodesia is run by whites for whites, and the whites believe this is because they made the country rich by their own sweat as well as by the use of cheap black labor.

As a Kenya settler said the other day during a visit here: "Something has to give eventually and the Rhodesian Europeans must accept African majority rule as we did in Kenya, happily as it turned out."

Maybe Some Day

But the Rhodesian's attitude is not today, not tomorrow, maybe some day. And he hopes some day will never come.

The Africans themselves aren't militant but there is hostility in their eyes. Joshua Nkomo, leader of the Zimbabwe (the African's name for Rhodesia) African People's Union, is in Gonakudzingwa detention camp.

Some whites prefer to try the impossible and ignore the blacks. For example, a Canadian asked a Rhodesian what the population of Salisbury is.

"About 75,000," he replied.

The Canadian expressed amazement that such a large city would have so few people.

"Oh, there are the blacks, too," he said.

African's Death Sentence Remains

Reprieve 'Just Political'

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—The Rhodesian government charged Friday Queen Elizabeth's reprieve for an African under a sentence of death for arson was "a political move designed to embarrass the Rhodesian government.

Officials branded the reprieve, granted by the Queen Thursday as an "illegal act" and said the matter would be settled by the Rhodesian government.

The African, identified only as Lazarus, was convicted under a Rhodesian maintenance of law and order statute and sentenced to death. The Queen commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

NOT RECOGNIZED

Normally a reprieve would have been granted by the Governor of Rhodesia, Sir Humphrey Gibbs, acting for the Queen on the advice of a Rhodesian minister. But since Britain does not recognize the regime of Ian Smith, the order was issued from London.

"On such flimsy information as can have been available, it (the reprieve) was quite irresponsible," a Rhodesian government statement said.

"It goes much further than that because here a man's life is at stake and the British government have used it for their own political ends quite obviously with the intention of trying to undermine law and order in Rhodesia and to interfere with local security.

"It must be made quite clear that the Rhodesian government does not recognize the authority of the British government to interfere in Rhodesian affairs and regards the so-called exercise of royal prerogative in this instance an illegal act. . . .

'IT'S A PITY'

"Nobody can deny that it is a political move designed to embarrass the Rhodesian government and it is a pity that once again the British government has shown its willingness to embroil Her Majesty the Queen in politics.

"The case of Lazarus will be placed before the executive council in due course and will be dealt with in the normal way." The statement added that the British government "knows full well that it has neither the authority nor power to see its decision carried out in Rhodesia."

Treasure-Hunter Keeps Up Hopes

OAK ISLAND, N.S. (CP)—Treasure - seeker Robert Dunfield said Friday he was disappointed to learn a substance from a drill hole turned out 90 per cent gypsum, but he said it could be a good sign in efforts to uncover legendary pirate loot.

Mr. Dunfield, said in an interview the gypsum was discovered by drilling to 160 feet below the surface of this tiny Mahone Bay island.

Shafts to that depth and deeper in the same area were free of gypsum and he said his drills may have struck an isolated piece of the material buried there by man.

Meanwhile, his drills Friday bored through a so-called flood tunnel which treasure hunters claim was built to flood the money pit with sea water. Mr. Dunfield said his next move will be to plug the tunnel so that water will be unable to reach the main pit which he hopes to start digging again soon.

Doughty Ducks Won't Budge

CALGARY (CP)—A program to trap, crate and truck about 5,000 doughty wintering ducks out of Calgary for warmer, southern climates is expected to start today.

The die-hard ducks, who should have flown south long ago with their brothers, have refused to be budged despite sub-zero cold and explosive noise-makers set off by government biologists.

The ducks are nesting mainly near the Inglewood Bird Sanctuary in east-end Calgary.

Fanfani Getting Back?

Premier Moro Resigns

ROME (AP)—Aldo Moro resigned unexpectedly as premier of Italy Friday, barely 12 hours after snipers in his own Christian Democrat party defeated him in Parliament.

As is the custom in Italian political crises, President Giuseppe Saragat reserved decision and asked Moro to stay on as caretaker premier.

Saragat will start consultations today to canvass opinion on who to designate as premier. They will continue for several days.

The downfall of the Moro coalition government came 24 days after Amintore Fanfani quit as Italy's foreign minister and, in a speech to his fellow Christian Democrats, demanded a full-fledged government reshuffle. Such a reshuffle could bring Fanfani back to the premiership. He has been premier four times.

The latest political crisis exploded in Parliament just before midnight Thursday night.

A Moro administration bill to establish state nursery schools was voted down, 250 to 231, in a secret ballot.

It was evident that members of Moro's own party had voted against him. This was especially obvious since only the night before Moro had made a preliminary voice vote on the same bill a matter of confidence. With the deputies forced to stand up and be counted, Moro won, 317 to 232. But under the cloak of secrecy some of his own party colleagues turned their backs on him.

Fanfani's resignation Dec. 28 as foreign minister brought the first signs of trouble for Moro.

Pine Point

Shares Sizzling Drilling Chilly

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

While the temperature for Pine Point stocks was sizzling hot on the stock exchange, drilling operations on the spot by various companies were taking place at 50 below zero.

Friday's chapter of events saw the suspension in trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange of one stock which had been a spectacular trader earlier this week and the sharp rise of another stock which is reported to be in drilling difficulties.

Vancouver Stock Exchange president Jack Van Luven suspended trading in Rolling Hills until such time as it was able to produce a certified assay of its drill cores.

The decision followed a statement Thursday by Earl Glick, Rolling Hills president, in which he said mineralization had been penetrated but that until assays were made it could not be said that it had commercial value.

Mr. Glick said Friday that he had been misinterpreted and that he had given no opinion as to the value of the cores.

NEXT WEEK

It is expected that an assay will be available some time next week and until then Rolling Hills will remain "untradable."

The stock rose from $1.13 to $2.90 during the week and closed Thursday at $2.25.

PAT SILVER'S TURN

With Rolling Hills off the board temporarily, traders turned to Patricia Silver which started drilling last week on its Pine Point property.

Soon after the opening, Pat Silver rose from $1.58 to $2.90, and only shaded off to $2.10 when a telephone interview with the drilling operator at the site revealed that drilling was behind schedule in the 50 below temperatures and that the overburden had not yet been pierced.

Louis Cadesky, superintendent of operations, said he knew no reason why the company's shares had sky-rocketed.

EXCITEMENT INTENSE

Excitement was intense in local board rooms where it was standing room only for most of the trading session. "It is quite fantastic the amount of business we are handling," said the manager of one of Victoria's largest offices.

"All our lines are working at capacity and we ae trading practically every mining stock on the Vancouver board," he said.

"It puts any previous B.C. mining boom in the shade. It is not just a case of activity in one or two issues."

Another office said it was doing as much business in the unlisted over-the-counter stocks as it was doing in the listed ones.

CAPACITY EXPANDED

Texas Gulf Sulphur is to step up the capacity of its mine-mill operation at Timmins, Ont., from 6,000 tons a day to 9,000 tons.

The announcement made by C. O. Stephens, president of the U.S. company, said that the cost would be $60,000,000 and the concentrator will be put into partial production by October.

Texas Gulf sparked the Timmins mining boom of 1964 when it uncovered a rich silver, zinc and copper deposit.

MORE CABLE NEEDED

Aluminum Company of Canada is installing two new cable stranding machines at its Richmond plant at a cost of $500,000.

The new machines will step up production capacity of high-voltage aluminum electrical transmission cable.

The expansion has been ordered to meet anticipated increased demands for electrical conductor resulting from the large hydro-electric developments under way in B.C. and the Prairie Provinces.

The Richmond plant has been expanded on several occasions since it commenced aluminum fabrication in 1957.

KRUGER TO BUILD

Kruger Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd. is to build a pulp-newsprint operation at St' Felicien, 150 miles north of Quebec City, at a cost of $75,000,000.

The newsprint mill will have an initial capacity of 100,000 tons a year, rising to 200,000 tons, and the kraft pulp mill will have a rated capacity of 200,000tons a year.

Work on the newsprint mill will start this spring and on the pulp mill in 1968.

The company will draw its supply from Crown-granted timber and by purchases of pulp wood from local suppliers.

Canadians Aren't Prepared For Industrial Revolution

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

TORONTO — Canada needs an educational and training revolution to cope with the technological age, Finance Minister Sharp told the Woodsworth Conference on poverty and planning Friday.

"Canadians are seriously under-educated and under-trained to operate the kind of technological society we are developing today," he said. "To meet the need of 20 years hence . . . we are critically unprepared."

"Without a revolution in education and training, we just cannot continue to operate the industries on which our national well-being depends.

TEACHING CHANGES

"Canada needs new ways of teaching, attracting and motivating many Canadians who are not able to adjust to our present education systems," he said.

Mr. Sharp pointed out that one out of 12 Canadians of university age are taking higher education, while half of the Americans of appropriate age are in university.

"Another discouraging figure is that 30 per cent of young Canadians between the ages of 14 and 24 have left school with only grade eight education without apparent intention of returning. These are tomorrow's poor," he said.

METHODS CHANGE

In the past, Mr. Sharp said, governments have met the poverty problem by promoting economic growth and paying social security.

"Desirable as both objectives are, they will not themselves solve poverty. There remains a substantial minority of poor as high in absolute numbers as during the great depression.

"To the extent that poverty is a relative term, they are poorer than ever," he said.

He said government policy must now take in a third dimension—provision of social opportunity.

This is done, he said, by promoting economic growth in designated areas and helping workers to move from poor areas to developing areas.

He stressed that "the best possible government measures will be useful only if the people who need them are able to take advantage of them.

"While there will always be a place for conventional forms of charity, the cycle of poverty will not be broken until the poor themselves become involved in the solution of their own problems.

"To the extent that they manage their own affairs and obtain the self respect that goes with this, they will become less and less a burden to society.

"Community development on a national scale must be an important element in an effective program," he said.

MEDICARE

Mr. Sharp repeated the federal government's intention of producing a comprehensive health services plan available to all Canadians.

"Ill health is a big factor in poverty. A sick man cannot work or improve his earning power. It is the poor who most often fall prey to serious health problems," he said.

Trial for Ramming Faces Irish Skipper

WATERFORD, Ireland — The captain of a trawler from Southern Ireland was ordered by a special court to stand trial on charges of maliciously trying to ram a trawler from Northern Ireland.

The Southern court released Mark Bates, captain of the Boolavogue, of Kilmore quay, County Wexford, on bail. He will be tried Feb. 22.

Prosecutor Sean O'Hanrahan told the court Bates had twice tried to ram the trawler Westburn, skippered by Ian Campbell of Kilkeel, County Down, off Hook Head Jan. 3, with intent to sink the Northern Irish vessel.

The corvette Macha of the Republic's navy was forced to fire a blank shot to warn the Boolavogue off, O'Hanrahan said. Southern fishing boats had prevented the Northern boat from fishing off Hook Head, and it was heading home when the ramming attempts came, he said.

Horror Exhibit Runs Overtime

The display includes bigger-than-life photographs, a movie film, atrocity documents, prison uniforms, and Zyklon-B gas cans used in the camp's four gas chambers.

A West Berlin city spokesman said Thursday 20,000 West Berliners already had seen the exhibit which is being held over another month because of the interest shown.

The Berlin showing is being sponsored by the city government, political parties, youth groups and labor unions.

A man of 51 was asked why he had come. "I came to satisfy my own curiosity," he said. "I was a soldier for six years and I knew little of what happened behind the front at the time."

VIEW IN SILENCE

Asked how he viewed the question of collective guilt, the man answered. "Yes, we Germans are guilty. We did not do enough to hinder what happened."

An attendant at the exhibit said most visitors view the death-camp display in "absolute silence."

No, Mamie, It's Not a Tag-Team Match

Wrestling for real is quite a bit different than the professional variety but even the amateurs can get themselves into some unlikely positions. This tangle of arms and legs came about in Denver when member of visiting Japanese high school all-star team engaged another 115-pounder, from a combined Colorado-Wyoming team. If you think you can count five arms you're right. That extra one belongs to the referee.—(AP)

Leafs to Try New Line Against Blades Tonight

There'll be a few changes tonight when Victoria Maple Leafs try to extend their Western Hockey League lead to six points against Los Angeles Blades at Memorial Arena.

Victoria coach Frank Mario, who is still without defenceman Sandy Hucul and leftwinger Dick Lamoureaux and yesterday lost Rollie Wilcox to Rochester Americans, plans to make some experimental changes on two of his forward lines.

	GP	W	L	T	F	A	Pts
VICTORIA	38	26	10	3	145	110	53
Portland	36	22	13	2	144	96	46
Vancouver	40	19	20	1	133	129	39
Seattle	40	17	22	1	129	130	35
San Francisco	34	13	19	2	96	117	28
Los Angeles	41	12	29	0	112	180	24
*—WHL vs AHL	41	19	20	2	123	136	—

Larry Keenan, who started out as a leftwinger and last season got 35 goals as a centre for the Leafs, will get a chance to try the starboard side.

Keenan, whose eye injury suffered Wednesday night turned out to be a minor hurt, will line up on an attacking unit with John Sleaver and Lou Jankowski.

With Wilcox, who had been replacing Lamoureux, gone to Rochester to fill in for the injured Stan Smrke, it seems that rightwinger Steve Witiuk will be a portsider tonight on a line to be completed by two of the remaining three forwards—Dave Parenteau, Mike Labadie and Gordie Redahl.

STILL INTACT

Intact is the Milan Marcetta-Bob Barlow-Andy Hebenton line which has already scored 60 goals and was back at old-time production Wednesday with Marcetta showing little sign of being handicapped by the injury which kept him out of action for almost two weeks.

"We'll try it this way and see how it goes," Mario said last night. "We have to make whatever moves seem best to keep on winning, we have to keep on winning to stay ahead, and it is becoming more difficult to win."

BLADES WHIPPED

It didn't make him feel anymore secure to learn that the Blades had taken a 6-1 whipping last night in Vancouver.

"They," he said of the Blades, "beat Portland on Thursday and they gave us a bad time the last time we played them. They're in a position where they have to start winning to make a playoff move and they're not going to be easy."

Billy McNeill and Gordie Vejprava showed the way for Canucks last night in a wide-open game in which the Blades got well beaten although managing 41 shots at Gilles Villemure.

McNeill got two goals and drew an assist to move into second place in the individual scoring race with 50 points, one more than Marcetta and three fewer than Cliff Schmautz.

Vejprava scored twice as Canucks maintained their hex of the league's two California clubs. They have beaten the Blades six times and San Francisco four times without losing to either.

In Rochester, Seattle Totems couldn't stop the "production" line of rookie Mike Walton and veterans Dick Gamble and Jim Pappin and took a 4-0 setback in an interlocking game which put the American Hockey League ahead for the season, 20-19-2.

Pappin had a goal and three assists, Walton a goal and two assists and Gamble, the AHL scoring leader, a goal and an assist.

It was the second shutout of the season for goalkeeper Gary Smith and the second loss in three games for the Totems on their six-game swing through the AHL.

Victoria or Fairbanks? Decision on Series Soon

If park facilities are up to tournament standards, Victoria has an "excellent chance" to be host city for the 1967 Babe Ruth League baseball world series in 1967.

That was the word yesterday from Richard W. Case, executive vice-president of Babe Ruth Inc., who was in Victoria along with international-director J. Jervey Gantt for a final discussion with local officials.

The two executives for Babe Ruth Inc., which has headquarters in Trenton, N.J., arrived here after visiting Fairbanks, Alaska, the only other city in the running for the tournament.

"It's between the two of you now," Case explained. "We will make up reports on presentations by both cities and they will be voted upon by members of our international executive. A decision should be reached by Feb. 15."

Case based his estimate of Victoria's chances in part on plans he had seen for the new Royal Athletic Park on a previous visit here.

However, the all-important matter of lights for the new park is still to be decided. Light standards at a cost of $100,000, were included in the original plans, then pared off to cut expenses back to within allocated funds.

Mayor A. W. Toone told The Colonist last night that he plans to meet with the firm of consulants who presented the original estimates, probably on Monday, to see what new figures they may present.

"But so far as I know there are not sufficient funds to provide the lights and stay within the limits of available funds," he said.

Almost Unnoticed Texan Slips Into Crosby Lead

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) While thousands watched others, Texan Don Massengale slipped into the lead in the $104,500 Bing Crosby golf tournament Friday with a four-under-par 67 and a 36-hole total of 137.

Massengale and Yancey each played the same course where most of the crowd of about 20,000 congregated to watch Arnold Palmer, Tony Lema, Billy Casper and Jack Nicklaus.

Palmer, Lema and Casper all faded in the stretch. After being five-under-par at one point, Palmer had to settle for a one-under par 70 and a 140 total. Lema came in with a 72 for 142, while Casper lost five strokes to par on the final four holes and carded a 74 for a 145 total.

STARTED EARLY

Palmer, Lema and Casper started early when the greens were frozen. Nicklaus was in the final group off the tee on a sunny day and came in with even-par 71 for a 144.

Another Texas pro, Billy Martindale, and his amateur partner, Bob Roos of San Francisco, took over the pro-am division lead with a best-ball 62 and 125 net.

Massengale started his par-breaking Friday by chipping in from 25 feet on the second hole. He curled in the long putt on the 370-yard fifth and finished the first nine with a 34. An 18-footer dropped for a birdie at the 10th and a seven-footer at the 13th. He three-putted the 16th and went one over par and then dropped a 25-foot birdie putt on the next hole.

TIED FOR FOURTH

Al Geiberger, the first-round leader with 68, tangled with the tough Pebble Beach course Friday and come out with a two-over-par 74 and a 142 total, tying Lema for fourth place behind Massengale, Yancey and Palmer.

Drysdale and Al Besselink carded 63-64 for a 126 and a second-place tie while Koufax and Ken Still were in the group at 127 with 63-64. Besselink had a 77-148 on his own ball and was helped 13 strokes by Drysdale in the second round. Still had 72-143. Both pitchers are playing with handicaps of 18 in this event.

CANADIAN SCORES

Second best among the Canadian competitors was Al Balding of Toronto, whose 70 gave him a two-round score of 147.

Jerry Magee of Toronto shot a 77 for 157 and veteran Stan Leonard of Vancouver an 82 for 159.

In the only all-Canadian partnership, Leonard and Vancouver amateur Jack Sim had a best ball 74 and 141 total.

Calagary amateur Max Bell teamed up with American Jon Gustin for a best ball 76 and 149 total.

Entry forms for the third annual Vancouver Island Fivepin Bonspiel, sponsored by The Daily Colonist, will be available today, and early interest indicates it should hit the maximum 128 entries.

The bonspiel, in which fivepin teams of four bowlers play against each other in three events for a total of $1,500 in prize money, runs March 18-19-20 at Gibson's Recreations, with semi-finals and finals March 26.

Competition is on a handicap basis and open to men's women's or mixed teams. Entry fee is $10 per team, and entries close March 11.

Because handicaps will be based on averages as of midnight tonight, entries will not actually be accepted until tomorrow.

Tonight the clubs move to the Vic High gym, where Oak Bay plays West Van and the Totems tackle North Van.

Foster Loses 11th Spot In Time Runs

RIVERSIDE, Calif (AP)—A sharp assault on the clock was staged at the Riverside Raceway Friday with Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., coming up with the best qualifying time for Sunday's $75,000 race.

Yarborough, driving a 1966 Ford around the 2.7-mile circuit, made the distance in 1:32.96 at a speed of 104.56 miles per hour.

Yarborough's run, made only 20 minutes before the day's qualifying runs ended, bumped Billy Foster of Victoria out of the 11th-place berth.

A. J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., pushed his new Ford around the course at 103.33 mph to qualify for 13th place.

Blind Student On Sprint Team

PORTLAND, Me. (AP)—A 15-year-old sophomore, blind since birth, is running the 40-yard dash for Cheverus High School this winter.

In his first start, William J. "Billy" Callahan of South Portland was clocked at 7.7 seconds. The winning time was 5.2.

Bill cut his time to 6.9 in practice this week, hopes to get it down to 6.5 by season's end and plans to do the 100-yard dash outdoors in the spring.

Billy has also tried water skiing and does some target shooting.

Mantle Needs Operation

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle told New York Yankee officials Friday he has a bone chip in the joint of his right shoulder and will have to undergo surgery next Tuesday.

Mantle telephoned Yankee general manager Ralph Houk from the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., where he has been this week for tests on the previously mysterious ailment.

The star baseball outfielder told Houk he will enter the hospital at the clinic sometime Monday, and the operation will take place Tuesday morning. Mantle said he hopes to be ready to play when spring training starts March 1. That would give him five weeks in which to recover.

Mantle decided to go to Mayo Clinic after doctors in New York and Dallas, Tex., where he lives in the off-season, could find no reason for the ailment in his right shoulder. X-rays last season and in the last few months showed nothing wrong.

Bad Man Woodley Good for Vikings

Figures may show that Mike Woodley is the bad man of the Esquimalt Hockey League, but to his University of Victoria teammates he's a fine fellow indeed.

Woodley, who leads the league in penalties, scored both goals for Vikings last night as they beat Esquimalt Pontiacs, 2-1, before 1,925 fans in their battle for first place. The win gave Vikings a three-point lead.

British Professional Rugby Has Only 30 Clubs, Few Fans

May be traded

By JIM CONWAY

LONDON (CP)—Professional rugby, a sport born in Britain less than 75 years ago, is in danger of dying out, despite its popularity in other countries.

Rugby League, the professional off-shoot of the unshakably amateur Rugby Union, is at a low ebb of popularity in its homeland, the industrial north of England.

Ticket receipts are falling and all but two or three of the 30 clubs would be losing money were it not for such lucrative sidelines as lotteries and football pools.

Rugby League started 70 years ago in Huddersfield, Yorkshire, when Rugby Union legislators in the north and south disagreed vehemently on the status of players.

The London management committee staunchly defended the amateur position of teams in the association and insisted players should not be paid for playing under any circumstances.

Twenty teams in two northern counties claimed that their players were working men and couldn't afford to pay their own expenses and certainly could not afford to travel around the country playing Union teams in the rest of England as well as Scotland and Wales.

They asked for permission to form a northern league competition. They also wanted to institute a system of wage compensation for "broken time" when playing during working hours.

RULES ALTERED

When neither was granted, the rebel teams left the main rugby body and formed the Northern Rugby Union. Gradually the "pros" adapted some of the old rules to change the pace of the game.

Other countries — including Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, France and some of the small islands in the Pacific—took up the revised sport. It officially became Rugby League in 1922.

In recent years, however, the game's attraction began to flag in England.

Although some amateur teams now play with league rules and players from these teams as well as from the Commonwealth and Rugby Union have bolstered League football, it still has lost much of its popularity.

Today there are only 30 professional teams, just 10 more than when it started in 1895.

Televising games has proved a bone of contention among rival clubs. Some advocates of broadcasting say that fees help to fill the hollow coffers and may attract more people to watch games. Others insist that crowds are staying home to watch the matches in comfort and broadcast revenue will not eventually replace the drop in gate receipts.

To the hard-core of league supporters the answer is a strict tightening of rules and firm enforcement. Rugby League has come in for a lot of bad publicity because of rough play since the war and fans are worried that, to many people, the players seem little better than thugs.

Leafs Suspend Brewer As Protective Measure

TORONTO (CP)—The Star says Carl Brewer, retired Toronto Maple Leaf defenceman, has been suspended by the National Hockey League club.

The Star quotes Punch Imlach, coach and general manager, as saying the Leaf action was taken to protect the club's interest in the 27-year-old all-star who retired prior to the start of the 1965-66 season.

It also means that Brewer can be prevented from teaching at hockey schools or coaching organized hockey without Leaf permission.

"We don't plan to prevent him from doing anything," The Star quotes Imlach, "although we'd be within our rights . . . We have a stake in Brewer, you know. He represents an investment and he has a cash value, a big one."

Thursday, president Stafford Smythe said Brewer may be traded if he does not come to terms with the club by next season. He said the Leafs had received several offers for the Toronto-born player who entered the University of Toronto after leaving the Leafs at training camp.

However, Smythe refused to comment on The Star story that the defenceman had been suspended.

Montreal Scout Gets Return Fire

QUEBEC (CP) — Lionel Fleury, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, suggested Friday that Del Wilson mind his own business.

Wilson, a scout for Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League and manager of Regina Pats of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League, said in an interview at Victoria the NHL should take over operation of Canada's national hockey team.

STRONG WORDS

Fleury said Wilson does not have the authority to make such statements. He added:

"He is just a little scout who could start minding his own business. He no doubt is upset that Fran Huck has joined the national team and that surely is what is prompting him to make wild statements."

Huck was with the Pats before joining the national team.

Fleury said he thinks the NHL taking over the national team is an impossibility.

"I just don't see how professional hockey, which in fact is under American control, could be interested in Canadian prestige," he said.

In Winnipeg, Gordon Juckes, secretary-manager of the CAHA, said that Wilson's concern over the Canadian team was a long time in coming to the surface.

"We're very pleased at Mr. Wilson's sudden interest," Juckes said. "It's taken him three years to get on the bandwagon."

Juckes added that "any time we've asked the NHL for assistance we've been disappointed. We won't consider turning the team over to them now."

In Montreal, Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL, said he is convinced that the "NHL as a league will not take over Canada's national hockey team."

Campbell pointed out that four of the six NHL clubs are from the United States and said it would hardly seem likely they would be interested in sponsoring a national team for Canada.

Cassius 'Admits' Prolonging Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay told sportscaster Howard Cosell he was carrying Floyd Patterson in the seventh round of their Nov. 22 world heavyweight title fight in Las Vegas.

Clay's remarks were recorded on a tape commentary to accompany films of the fight, scheduled to be seen on the American Broadcasting Co. Wide World of Sports television program Jan. 29.

The fight eventually was stopped by the referee in the 12th round and Clay was declared the winner on a technical knockout.

Clay told Cosell the fight should have been stopped after the sixth round.

"I want to know why you weren't more aggressive when you had the boy bombed out?" asked Cosell, while watching the seventh round.

"I wouldn't want to hurt nobody just for the pleasure of people in the audience," said Clay.

"Are you telling me in a kind of way that you carried the boy at this point," asked Cosell.

"Well, yes," said Clay.

Victoria West United Victim

Indifference Closes Church

By IAN ARROL

Victoria West United Church, which was erected at Fullerton and Rayner in December, 1912, will be shut down following the 11 a.m. service on Jan. 29.

"Average church attendance lately has been about 20 to 25," said Gordon S. Mitchell who, as a boy of 15, attended the opening service 53 years ago. He has been clerk of session for the past 25 years.

NO PARENTAL SUPPORT

"But the parents of the children did not support the church, not even to attend let alone help out," said Mrs. Leslie Peat, Sunday School superintendent.

"The indifference on the part of parents was almost complete," said Dr. Samuel Parsons, president of Victoria presbytery, whose assistant, Percy Ould, had been "lent" to the Victoria West church to try to build up support.

"Since last September, Mr. Ould visited every one of the 80 homes whose children came to our Sunday School," said Mrs. Peat.

'NOBODY CAME'

"We hoped we might get 10 or so to come to church once in a while," she said. "But nobody came."

Mrs. Peat reported that a year ago last September, all the parents were phoned with an invitation to come to a meeting at the church to hear about the new Sunday School curriculum.

"Only eight people turned out."

IMPOSSIBLE

Parents were approached recently to tell of the pending closure of the church, that it was impossible for the few church workers left to meet either the financial or work load.

"Well, if you can't, why don't they carry on," was the most common response.

Who were "they" supposed to be? Wondered Victoria West church workers.

'THEY THINKING'

"These people never said 'What can we do?' " said Mrs. Peat.

Dr. Parsons thought "they-thinking" typical of those who lack personal responsibility, who see "something or somebody wrong, not me."

The presbytery president said some blamed the church as a whole for not putting in money. "There was no response, so financial help was not justified," he asserted.

"WRUNG OUT"

"Will you miss the children?" Mrs. Peat was asked.

"Oh! . . . I felt wrong out when we closed our last classes last Sunday . . . It was quite a tearful time."

The superintendent without a flock said she wanted to get back into Sunday School work. She has been a teacher for 20 years and directs the junior girls' camp at Camp Pringle each year.

TEACHERS AT LARGE

Many of the other 12 teachers at Victoria West will be searching out new opportunities.

Of the congregation and Sunday School in general Dr. Parsons said some would be going to Esquimalt United, some to the Anglican church, some to the Church of the Nazarene on Craigflower, some downtown and some to his church, Centennial United.

Mrs. Peat hasn't decided on her United church yet.

HOUSE FOR SALE

Mr. Mitchell said, "I haven't the slightest idea."

Now that the church which has been such a part of his life all its life is closing down he has put his house, which is nearby on the market.

CARRY ON

Mr. Mitchell hopes some other church organization will purchase the building and carry on activity for the community, young and old.

"I do hope it will not be empty for a long time and become broken down; I would hate to see that," said Mrs. Peat.

Geysers Spring To Life

AUCKLAND (CP)—When a hydro-electric dam was built below an area of geysers and steam vents on New Zealand's Waikato River, some of the thermal activity was drowned beneath the dammed-up river waters. Now three new geysers have sprung into life on the river banks above the higher water level. One of them plays regularly for about eight minutes to a height of some 70 feet.

Minister's Life on TV

Golf Game on Sunday? Well—Not Originally

Dr. Whitehouse

They are Dr. W. G. Wilson, 97, a former minister of First United; Dr. Hugh McLeod, a former minister of First United and a former moderator of the United Church of Canada; and Dr. A. E. Whitehouse, a former minister of Metropolitan United. Dr. Wilson and Dr. McLeod live in Victoria, Dr. Whitehouse in Vancouver.

THIS SUNDAY

They may be seen at 3:30 p.m. this Sunday on the CBC-TV program Heritage, which will be carried on Channel 2.

This week's program is called Portrait of a Clergyman and will tell the story of Dr. Whitehouse.

The Colwood golf scene with his old pals was filmed some time ago (not on a Sunday). The three ministers were all honored with life memberships at the club.

SASKATCHEWAN

Dr. Whitehouse came west in 1908 as a student missionary to Weyburn, Sask. He was ordained in Moose Jaw in 1916 and his first pastorate was in the town of Eyebrow, also in Saskatchewan.

He retired from Metropolitan United and the active ministry in 1952.

Children's Study

'Delinquent' Elders Like to Sleep In

The number one reason why people don't go to church and children don't go to Sunday School is because parents like to sleep in, according to six members of St. John's Anglican Church junior auxiliary.

The six members, age six to 12, discussed the question of non-attendance as one project in their program of studies and activities leading to qualification for a Mission Badge.

Other parental "delinquencies" listed by the juniors were: They don't believe in the Bible. They would rather go other places, like fishing.

They don't know where the church is. Parent think church is too boring, especially the sermon. Parents don't attend church, so children don't go to Sunday School.

Sharp Drop in England

Sunday Schools Shrink

LONDON (OFNS) — A sharp drop in the number of children attending church and Sunday school in England (30,000 in the past year) is reported in the figures for 1965 about to be issued. This is regarded as further evidence of the secularisation of Sunday, and, in the words of the Church of England statistacal unit, "is inversely related to the increase in the number of motor cars."

The Anglican drop is 20 per cent—from 1,308,000 children 10 years ago to 1,039,000 today. The traditional Sunday afternoon school appears to be dying out more rapidly in the south than in the north of England. But substitute schools on Saturday and Sunday mornings are beginning to be popular.

AMATEUR TEACHING

The Congregational Church places its losses as 8,000 children a year and fastens some of the blame on drab and unattractive buildings and amateur teaching which compares unfavorably with the expertise of the religious teaching in the day schools.

The figures of the National Sunday School Union, which has 6,500 schools in its membership, show that in 10 years the numbers of children have dropped from 819,000 to 503,000. This represents a cross-section of the Free Churches. In the opinion of Jack Bentley, the Union's secretary, the decline is evidence of the failure of the churches to hold children after the age of 13 at a time when the "bulge" in the birth rate was at its height.

CAR RIDES

The family car ride on Sundays is the strongest competitor to the Sunday school, but experts see hope in the popularity of the morning "parish service" at 9:30 a.m. with more skilful teaching all round.

In East Germany, parents are neglecting to have their children baptized, with a consequent alarming drop in church membership among young people.

GENERAL DROP

According to a detailed analysis of church conditions in the regional Church of Anhalt, centred in Dessau, church membership has fallen from 432,000 in 1954, to 350,000 today.

Under state pressure many have renounced their church membership, others have fled to the West, and baptisms have decreased from 5,700 a year to 2,400. In 1954, 23,000 children were enrolled in Sunday schools. Today the number is 11,000. Weddings in church have dropped from 2,100 a year to 850.

Man Jailed Five-Years

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Marvin George, one of two men charged with the beating and robbery of a 73-year-old man, has been sentenced to five years in penitentiary here. The second man, Steve Magyar, was found not guilty on the robbery with violence charge, but was jailed for four months for possession of stolen goods.

Religions Subject Of Films

Contemporary religions are to be examined in a series of five National Film Board pictures and lectures starting Wednesday at the University of Victoria.

Programs begin at 8 p.m. each Wednesday in Room 219 of the Young Building, Lansdowne Campus.

Kootenay Bishop-Elect Preaches Here Sunday

The bishop-elect of Kootenay, Canon E. W. Scott, will be the visiting preacher at 11 a.m. Sunday in St. John's Anglican Church.

Canon Scott will be consecrated bishop on the Feast of St. Paul next Tuesday, by the Archbishop of British Columbia, Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, in the chapel of the Anglican College at the University of B.C.

The parents of the bishop-elect, Canon and Mrs. Tom Scott, long have been connected with St. John's.

At the 7:30 p.m. service the rector, Canon Grahame Baker, will preach on the question of the involvement of the clergy man in political matters.

Many of the Protestant faiths are planning to ayail themselves of the opportunity to attend the Roman Catholic Cathedral, St. Andrew's at Blanshard and View, by joining in the interdenominational Day of Prayer for Christian Unity.

The 3 p.m. service for understanding and charity among all Christians will have speakers and participants from such churches as the Anglican, Lutheran, United, Baptist, Presbyterian and Roman Catholic faiths.

Principal addresses at the service will be by Very Rev. Brian Whitlow, dean of Christ Church Cathedral and Rev. Dr. William Klempa, minister of St. Paul's - Gorge Presbyterian Church.

The regular 4 p.m. evensong at Christ Church Cathedral will be held this Sunday at 5:15 p.m. so the congregation may attend the 3 p.m. service of unity in St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Rev. Robert D. Holmes at Central Baptist Church will have for his 7:30 p.m. sermon topic the question: Is Today's Religious Re-union, True Christian Unity?

"This timely topic will be given in order to clarify the church's position relative to modern day ecumenism," said Mr. Holmes.

In the morning at Central, Prof. Graham Reeve and the choir from Northwest Baptist Theological will minister in word and song.

A new, provisional form of United Church communion, similar in some ways to the Anglican mass, will be the subject of the 11 a.m. sermon at Metropolitan United Church by Rev. Albert E. King.

This new order—with set prayers of intercession and set responses from the congregation—was presented last Sunday as well as on Christmas Sunday at Metropolitan.

The ceremony is integrated with the regular worship and not appended to it, as formerly.

The Holy Communion and Christian Services will be the 9:30 and 11 a.m. topic for Rev. Robert J. D. Morris at First United as he continues his series on The Meaning of the Congregation.

Bishop-elect Scott

Brownies, Guides

New Program Includes Religion Study

Not a knot in a rope gone wrong but a tape snarled in a recording machine is increasingly the kind of modern problem to which the new program for Girl Guides is being directed.

Still a thrill for the "new look" Brownies and Guides is getting their badges for a variety of good and useful works, including not only tape-recorded singing contests and skiing championships, but for the newly instituted Religion and Life emblems.

Two girls who got their emblems recently in a special ceremony at St. Philip's Anglican Church, 2928 Eastdowne, were patrol leader Sheila Smith, 13, 1886 Townley, and Jayne Elworthy, 12, 3340 Ripon.

1,794 IN AREA

They are among 1,794 included in the programs of the movement in Greater Victoria which meet in church halls, community centres and schools under the names of Brownies, 856 girls between the ages of seven and 10; Guides, 675 girls between the ages of 10 and 14; and Rangers, those between the ages of 14 and 8.

Sheila Smith and Jayne Elworthy of the 30th company which meets weekly at St. Philip's worked for three weeks to meet the high standards for the tests set by Lt.-Col. the Rev. E. O. Wilkes.

CHURCH TESTS

The Girl Guides are an interdenominational group, but each church sets its own tests for its members who want to apply for the Religion and Life Emblem.

The number of these emblems awarded during 1965 was 50, 26 of which were Anglican, 20 Catholic and three of other denominations, including Christian Science.

Although each Guide is encouraged to know and practise the teachings of her own religion, each member is taught to respect the religious beliefs of others.

CHARACTER

Tests and proficiency badges are designed to develop character under the four signposts intelligence, health, handicraft and service to others.

"Developing the ability to 'cope'," was given as a main objective of the Guide program by Mrs. Eleanor Sanderson of Victoria, who is provincial study chairman.

"In the past 2½ years the entire program has been revised, stressing a girl-oriented one rather than leader-oriented. This was what Lord Baden-Powel originally intended."

MEANING, SPIRIT

Mrs. Sanderson felt that the current trend in going back "to the original meaning and spirit" was a Guide counterpart of a basic emphasis in the Church today.

"I particularly like the re-emphasis of Lord Baden-Powell's desire for international good will."

The founder said of his growing movement that he felt it would nurture "wide-minded good will among the future citizens of the nations" and provide insurance against the danger of international war in the future."

Canadian Brownies, Guides and Rangers contribute annually to the World Friendship Fund.

Through this fund they share in maintaining Our Ark in London, England; Our Chalet in Switzerland; and Our Cabana in Mexico and promote world friendship through the exchange of visits.

Any of the girls may stay for a day or more at these centres, should they be vacationing with their parents in these vicinities.

Teens Aid Order

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia, long a mainstay of religious service, has come up with something new in overseas aid—the teen-age missionary.

In the last four years, 19 volunteers just out of high school have served as Roman Catholic lay missionaries in Latin America for periods ranging from five months to almost a year and a half.

The project is the brain-child of Brother Azarias, a 37-year-old member of the Christian Brothers, a religious order of teachers.

NOT CANDIDATES

But the boys who volunteer are not necessarily candidates for the cloistered life.

"I think the majority are looking forward to marriage and life, as we say, 'in the world,'" says Brother Azarias.

John J. Ponczka, who spent almost a year in Coban, Guatemala, said "I had considered the clergy, but now I'm thinking of college or the Peace Corps."

He also is thinking of another tour of lay mission work, he added.

BUILT CHURCH

Ponczka and three other teen missionaries — Charles McTamany, Bernard McFadden and William Burns—helped construct the Coban Cathedral, taught English, led sports activities, and—to raise money for the cathedral fund — formed their own basketball team.

The young Americans make themselves useful wherever they can. They have been called upon to maintain discipline in schools, to teach, to assist priests touring remote villages, to give needles and pull teeth, to make a religious census and to serve as sacristans.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

"Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God." These words from the 40th chapter of Isaiah stir the blood and redeem life from meanness and drab selfishness.

The bursting of the divine into life, as a man opens the doors and windows to let God's glory fill the emptiness and barrenness, exhilarates and rejoices. God is not dead; the world is not doomed; the end of life is not darkness. Whenever a human spirit lifts up his heart, whenever a human mind opens itself to truth, whenever a human conscience stands for right, whenever a human soul decides for love as against all the dark and evil forces of existence, the trumpets sound and the splendor of God sets all the sky to gleaming. The 40th chapter of Isaiah brings hope to men and women who wander in valleys where there is no road, who are appalled by mountains of evil, who stumble on rough places, who see that flesh and flower both perish as if they had never been.

Decline of Faith

Read it: "Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth fainteth not, neither is weary?"

This is the message for which the world waits. It's all here. A panel of young people Sunday afternoon looked at the fearful problems of the world and, almost pathetically, spoke of the decline of faith. What could young people believe, if anything? Here are the power and the glory: "O Zion, that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid; say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God!"

World Redeemed

The mighty mountains of evil would be pulled down; the depressed forces of right would be exalted. In a world where "even the youths shall faint and be weary," "they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint." What a psychologist! It is much easier to run than to keep on walking.

This chapter should be read with Chapter 35, where the vision of the new world—or the life, whichever you wish—is pictured.

It is the vision of a world redeemed, where all sin is pardoned, all sorrow healed, all brutality banished, all enmities reconciled, and the wilderness transformed into a garden where freedom and laughter are the way of life. "Then shall the lame man leap as a heart and the tongue of the dumb sing; for in the wilderness shall waters break out and streams in the desert." Prayer: O God of human spirits, light of the lost and comforter of the broken-hearted, save us from the agony of hope's defeat and sustain us with the joy of invincible faith.

'A Star to Follow'

Canadian Club Membership Honors Popular General

VANCOUVER (CP) — Maj.-Gen. Victor Odlum, a soldier, statesman, university governor, legislator, publisher and broadcaster was honored Thursday night at a citation dinner given by the Men's Canadian Club of Vancouver.

Among those who attended to pay tribute were Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes of B.C., industrialist and former judge J. V. Clyne and Vancouver Sun publisher Stuart Keate, keynote speaker at the dinner.

In a 3½-hour ceremony Gen. Odlum heard his life in oral flashback—from his days as a private in the Boer War, helping Marconi to bring wireless communication to the troops, to his last public venture, as chairman of the Vancouver Times.

Commenting on the reference to the Vancouver Times, Odlum said the two newspapers Vancouver now has are better because they saw the Times coming "and decided they'd better be better boys."

Mr. Keate told members and guests that Odlum's shining patriotism "has provided the star which men of my generation might hope to follow." And described the general as one of the men who sees his country in terms of the whole human story and is prepared to dedicate his life to its service.

Film Premiere To Be Feb. 5

The Paul Carson Story, a 55-minute film on a murdered Congo missionary, will have its Victoria premier at 8 p.m. Saturday Feb. 5, in Central Junior High School auditorium.

The showing is being jointly sponsored by Central Baptist Church and Parkdale Evangelical Free Church.

Tips You Off

They're already preparing for the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, and it's a question whether the hotels will hold everybody. (You could try making reservations now. But I wouldn't bet on anybody remembering it when you arrive.)

I'd be inclined to rent a house in Cuernavaca and commute—one hour by fast freeway. Houses are in the luxury class—swimming pool and servants—but sometimes can be had at reasonable rents.

"We thought of spending some time in the Italian lake district. Do you know about Lake Como and accommodations?"

I've only driven around Como. I think Lake Lugano is prettier, a blue bowl of water in a setting of green hills. Lugano is a pretty little town. Many hotels in the British-European Grand Hotel manner. I liked the Bristol up on the hill though it's not the fanciest or most expensive.

Several good restaurants in town with an Italian flavor. A little bit of Italy is encased in Switzerland on the lake and you can gamble there. A fast train runs down to Milan every morning (one hour) and returns in the evening for shopping trips. Avoid August. Seems all Swiss watchmakers take their vacations in that month.

"What would be the best place to go in Europe (after England) in August if you had only one week?"

August is the worst month. In Paris, many restaurants close. The weather is hot and the French all go to the sea shore—so they're crowded. Rome is hot and jammed with tourists. Madrid is so hot even the government offices close.

Lisbon and the Portuguese beach towns are cool and not too crowded. Best place I've run into is the Atlantic coast of Spain. Few tourists. Good prices. Weather about 70 degrees. Good beaches. Pontevedra is a fine, old medieval town with narrow streets and arms carved in stone over the doorways. The government-owned Parador has very good rooms.

Several interesting fishing villages and the city of Vigo are in driving distance. There's one de luxe hotel (at very reasonable prices) just north on the beach at Isla de la Toja.

"Can you tell me what we can expect to buy in the duty-free shop at the Paris airport?"

Orly has a very elegant setup now. But I didn't find much to buy. The perfume selection is very good. Some cognac. A few gloves and that was all. That was a year ago. Maybe it's improved.

"Will Mexico be too hot in July?"

Well, I think it's pretty hot along the coast. Though I don't mind it because you can swim. Mexico City at 7,400 feet is warm in the day, pleasant in the evening. And most of the country above 6,000 is pleasant. It's rainy season. Take an umbrella. Raincoats are too hot.

I'd try one of the Thames-side pubs. A very elegant one is The King's Head and Eight Bells. (The title alone is worth it.) On Cheyne Walk near the Albert Bridge.

"Can we go from London to Deauville by boat? By air? By train?"

Don't know about boat or train. But Air France flies across daily in the summer. (Or did last year. Better ask them.)

"Isn't there an artists' colony near there?"

Never heard of a colony. But a lot of artists go to Honfluer, a colorful old stone fishing village about an hour's drive from Deauville. The Hotel Cheval Blanc there is falling apart. Try the Chat Noir.

CPR, Sharp Blamed For Delays

VANCOUVER (CP)—The port of Vancouver shot off telegrams to Finance Minister Sharp and the Canadian Pacific Railway Friday, refusing to accept blame for delays in grain shipments.

The Vancouver Merchants' Exchange, representing all port interests, said the fault clearly lies with the railways.

Exchange president W. A. Sankey also denied a statement by CPR president R. A. Emerson that the railways now can deliver more grain than Vancouver terminals can handle.

"Their (the railways) target has only been met one week in the whole darn year," Mr. Sankey said.

"The fact is they were 100 cars short even today."

Mr. Sankey said the delivery target set by the Canadian Wheat Board for the crop year begun Aug. 1, 1965, was about 850 box cars of grain a day at Vancouver.

"Because they have fallen behind, the target now is about 600 a day," said Mr. Sankey. "The railways have been averaging 388 a day.

Foreign Ships May Visit During 1967 Centennial

HALIFAX (CP)—An impressive array of warships from various Western nations is likely to visit Canadian ports during Centennial celebrations next year, it was learned here Friday.

Arrangements are reported near completion for receiving visiting flotillas on the West Coast and details are being considered for similar activities in Atlantic, St. Lawrence and Great Lakes ports.

The naval visits differ from the routine calls made by warships of NATO countries in that the previous visits have been for operational purposes during exercises.

An informed source said that what is planned next year is "a very formal thing. The provinces will be the hosts to the ships visiting their ports. Therefore, they must send out the invitations."

INCLUDE DEFENCE HQ

Involved in negotiations for this Centennial project are the Canadian Navy, defence department headquarters, the armed forces Centennial commission representative, the external affairs department and the provinces to be visited.

Until agreement is announced, it is unlikely a full list of countries participating will be available. However, France, Britain, the United States and other NATO countries are considered likely to receive invitations.

The project, it is understood, was proposed to the defence department chiefs by the navy as a Centennial project but official approval has not yet been given. However, the principle of the project is believed to be well thought of in Ottawa.

Marijuana Cut In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wilfred Hefferman, federal narcotics prosecutor, says the major supply line of marijuana into Vancouver has been cut.

The work of local police and RCMP forces in rounding up persons suspected of possessing marijuana is responsible, Mr. Hefferman said. He said the marijuana problem in Vancouver is almost as serious as that of heroin.

Student Protest

Rocks Hurled In Indonesia

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Rival Indonesian student groups hurled rocks at each other in wild free-for-all Thursday, the official Indonesian Antara news agency said Friday. "The melee came only minutes after President Sukarno had appealed to the people for their loyalty.

The agency said a number of students were injured during the clash which broke out in the presidential Merdeka (freedom) Palace where thousands of Indonesians had gathered to hear Sukarno's speech.

SEEKS SUPPORT

The free-for-all was stopped by Indonesian security troops Antara said.

In his nationwide broadcast, Sukarno said if the Indonesian people supported him he would remain to lead the nation to fulfill the revolution.

Sukarno said all Indonesians who were not satisfied with him should voice their opposition publicly.

"I will resign," he said, "but I don't want to be overthrown in an obscure way."

His speech—the second in less than 10 days—came in the wake of student demonstrations protesting the 97-member cabinet and rising consumer prices.

Six-Month Jail Term For Stealing Sweaters

Clarence Book tore the tags off two sweaters he had stolen as he lay on the sidewalk Tuesday after being tackled by a citizen.

The episode was seen by an off-duty policeman and Book, no fixed address, ended up in central magistrate's court Friday pleading guilty to theft under $50.

Book, who has a record for theft and break-ins, was jailed for six months by Magistrate William Ostler.

Det. Lorne Johnson said Book took two sweaters valued at $23.60 each from the Toggery Shop, 1329 Douglas, Tuesday afternoon.

Book ran out to the street and was pursued by one of the shop's employees. He ran along Johnson Street to Yates where he was tackled by the citizen.

Book was picked up later in a beer parlor, Det. Johnson said, and identified in a lineup.

Magistrate Ostler said to Book "What did you do it for? Did you think there was any hope of getting away with it?"

Book replied, "No sir."

Eighteen - year - old Wayne Thornington could become a good citizen in spite of his impressive record of break-ins, Magistrate Ostler said. Thornington, 2518 Quadra, had pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to committing 15 break-ins in the Victoria area during the last four months.

He was sentenced to 18 months in the Young Offenders' Unit to be followed by an indeterminate period not exceeding six months.

Magistrate Osler said: "Breaking and entering has become such a habit with you it seems that it will be hard to break."

Magistrate Ostler said the probation report disclosed there was a number of good things about Thornington.

"One thing is that you had a very rough time when you were young," Magistrate Ostler said.

"I think something can be done about your future. What you need is for someone to take an interest in you. There is nothing smart about this sort of thing. It will just lead to misery."

However, the Crown proceeded with the more serious charge and Rowlinson, 1863 Oak Bay, pleaded guilty and was jailed for six months.

Constable Burdyny said a car was stolen from Belmont Avenue Jan. 1. The owner pursued it and found it a short distance away.

The owner spoke to Rowlinson, who ran away, Constabe Burdyny said. Rowlinson was stopped later.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett said Rowlinson had previous convictions for possession of stolen property, breaking and entering and theft.

When Neil Murray agreed to pay $100 for a television set and $20 for a clock-radio, a $20 steam iron was thrown in for nothing.

Murray, 607 Raynor, pleaded not guilty to having stolen goods in his possession and elected trial by a judge and jury.

Magistrate Ostler committed Murray to trial on having the television set in his possession but declined to do so in regard to the radio and iron.

"There has been nothing to show that these goods were normally obtained by the normal method," Magistrate Ostler said.

Gordon Lewis, manager of the Standard Furniture Co. appliance department, identified the television set and radio as his firm's property.

He said a check of records showed the television set was not sold but he could not say the same about the other goods.

The television set was valued at $179 and the clock-radio at $64.95, Mr. Lewis said.

Evidence was given in court about an attempt to blow the furniture company's safe about Oct. 25. Several electrical appliances were taken and several more had been stacked by a rear door, court was told.

Det. Walter Calwell said he and Det. Richard Berry went to Murray's room Dec. 11.

At first he showed them another room but then admitted his was across the hallway, Det. Calwell said.

Det. Calwell said Murray explained this by saying "I didn't want you to see the stuff. I thought it was hot."

The three appliances were found in Murray's room, Det. Calwell said. Murray said he bought them from a man who wanted $100 for the television, $20 for the radio with the iron thrown in.

Murray was undefended and did not call any defence.

Policemen following Fred Taylor along Burnside Nov. 25 noticed his car wander back and forth across the street and once almost run off the road.

Taylor, 39 Vickery, pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was remanded to Feb. 5 for a pre sentence report.

Leslie Wilson sat on a bench Thursday night drinking from a 26-ounce bottle of wine. The result was a court appearance on charges of drinking liquor in a public place and intoxication.

Wilson, 4210 Pipeline, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 for the first offence and $15 for the second.

Glacier Speeds Its Pace

GREYMOUTH, N.Z. (CP)—For years the Franz Josef Glacier, on the west coast of New Zealand's south island, has been retreating. Tourist interests lamented because this glacier is a most spectacular one, dropping steeply from alpine regions to only 800 feet above sea level, where it can easily be visited by tourists.

During the last winter the glacier ended its long retreat up the valley and the terminal face began pushing forward again at a rate of nearly three feet a day. Latest measurements by geologists show that it has speeded up still further and is rumbling forward at the remarkable pace, for a glacier, of 5½ feet daily, engulfing everything in its path.

Slavs Buy U.S. Wheat

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia has signed an agreement to buy 650,000 tons of American wheat for $40,000,000 and to pay in dollars.

Payment will be in 12 annual instalments, beginning two years after delivery. Last November the United States sold Yugoslavia 700,000 tons of wheat for $45,000,000.

Tourists Sup, Swim Under Midnight Sun

By GORDON IRVING

BODO, Norway (CNS) — The Midnight Sun is one of Europ's top tourist attractions.

I motored up the winding road from this northern town to the tourist lodge at Mount Ronvik, and enjoyed midnight supper in the restaurant on the top of Ronvik mountain.

The best time to go is from the end of May until the middle of July, the period of the Midnight Sun season.

BEST WAY TO GO

The best way to travel is by air to Bodo airport. The traveller who flies in to Norway in early evening will find the sky becoming increasingly lighter, and a pale, glowing sunlight illuminating earth and sky at midnight.

Special "Midnight Sun Flights" are operated from Oslo, the capital of Norway, the vacationer in a hurry can "do the Midnight Sun" in one night, seeing it all from the comfort of an aircraft seat.

Even into August and September-October, there is very little darkness at night.

At the height of the season the visitor can go for a midnight swim on the beach at Geitvagen, six miles from here, where a picturesque fjord has been turned into a giant swimming pool.

The vacationer with time to spare should try to travel by air to North Cape, one of the world's most famous landmarks, right at the top of Norway, where the sun never dips below the horizon from May 14 to Aug. 1.

Climbers can find many untrodden rocks in Arctic Norway, and angling enthusiasts can catch giant salmon and trout in the many rivers and lakes throughout the country.

NEW CATHEDRAL

The seaport town of Bodo itself, first vantage point for seeing the Midnight Sun, has a beautiful new cathedral, its interior decorated with hand-knotted rugs.

The buildings in the town are built from a reddish delicate marble-stone which also has been used in the United Nations building in New York City.

Speare Named Speech Mover

The deputy speaker of the legislature, Social Credit MLA William Speare of Cariboo, will move the Speec.. from the Throne at next week's opening of the legislature.

The speech will be seconded by Hunter Vogel, Socred MLA for Delta, according to word Wednesday from the office of Premier Bennett.

Chamber, Bureau

'Marriage' Plans Again Delayed

The marriage of the Chamber of Commerce and the Victoria Visitors' Bureau, which has been an "on-again off-again" thing for some time, was delayed again Friday.

Pat Frumento moved that the total membership of each organization be polled and that a decision be made, based on the result of the vote. This was approved.

Chamber president Richard Bower said his organization wanted information. It had been indicated that Bureau members were not unanimous in their desire to be incorporated as a section of the Chamber and he asked that a poll be taken on the matter.

FULL MEMBERS

"There has been talk of amalgamation and partnership but, under the original terms of reference, it was specified that the bureau come in as a section of the Chamber," Mr. Bower said, adding that the initiative in the matter came from the bureau, not the Chamber.

He added that bureau members would be incorporated as full members of the Chamber with all rights, responsibilities and fees.

"Why is this taking so long?" asked Ronald B. Worley. "There's too much frittering around. People looking at us from the outside must think we're a bunce of nincompoops."

SAME INTEREST

The Chamber wasn't trying to twist anyone's arm, Mr. Bower said. What was wanted was an expression of opinion.

Thing to keep in mind, said Conway Parrott, was that both organizations were interested in one thing. The main function of both: attract tourists. Other things were irrelevant.

The question will be explored further at future meetings between executives of the two organizations.

MONTHLY MEETING

A special bureau subcommittee will examine a proposal by Mayor Toone that a feature event be planned for Victoria for each month in the year.

"An excellent suggestion," said William Clarke, "but I think the summer months should be excepted."

Centennial Troubles 'A Repetition'

Hiring of a U.S. firm to organize 1966-67 centennial celebrations in Victoria is "somehow a repetition of the 1962 affair," says Lou Worrell, Chamber of Commerce assistant manager.

He said numerous people had complained to him about engagement of the same promoters, John B. Rogers Co., that was called in to handle the city's own centennial celebrations.

The earlier decision did not cause delight, either, he said.

The matter probably will be discussed by the Chamber's public affairs group, which meets at 6:15 p.m. Monday in the Dominion Hotel to hear a progress report from C. C. Wyatt, city centennial secretary.

San Francisco - based Mr. Crawford has jumped on the folk - rock bandwagon popularized by Bob Dylan, the Byrds, and Sonny and Cher.

Contract Ends Dispute

An eight-month contract retroactive to Nov. 1, 1965, will be recommended to the membership of Local 1, Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada (Ind.).

A spokesman for Columbia Cellulose said the contract incorporates a conciliation officer's report and provides a 15-cent wage increase that takes the base rate at the mill to $2.44 an hour.

Workers had approved strike action by a 93 per cent margin in a vote taken during negotiations.

Head Elected To Car Club

100,000,000 Will Feel Pinch

Hunger Demonstrations Spread in Indian State

NEW DELHI (AP) — Hunger demonstrations spread in southwest India Friday as the government disclosed more than 12,000,000 Indians are threatened with starvation in a looming food crisis.

A food ministry survey said all 12,000,000 must be fed in the hungry months ahead from special relief stocks of food and that some special camps will have to be set up.

At least 100,000,000 will feel the pinch of the "scarcity conditions" before the food crisis can be expected to end, a ministry spokesman said. The survey was compiled from statistics assembled by special food teams touring drought-stricken areas, especially in the west, the spokesman said.

WORST YET

He emphasized the statistics were as of the third week of December, and that more bad news may be forthcoming soon because there has been no rain or improvement.

JOINED DEMONSTRATIONS

The Samyukta United Socialist party sent a small protest group to the government secretariat in the capital of Trivandrum to demand larger food rations.

VIOLENCE

The Indian government has responded quickly to the food shortages in Kerala because political trouble there has a way of erupting into violence and spreading to adjoining states.

Special trains were rushing across India with 15,000 tons of rice from the northeastern state of Orissa. Rice is the food mainstay in Kerala.

Mrs. Indira Gandhi, the new prime minister, said Friday night she has discussed the food crisis with close advisers.

India, Pakistan Discuss Kashmir

Generals Looked the Same

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP)—Gen. Mohammed Musa, Pakistan's army commander arrived in New Delhi Friday to discuss implementation of the limited peace agreement his country signed in India.

It was a moment of high drama as Musa landed in a Pakistani Air Force plane at Palam Airport—near where Pakistani paratroopers dropped in the Indian-Pakistani war last September.

Waiting by the ramp was India's army chief, Gen. J. N. Chauduri—Musa's opponent in the three-week war that cost thousands of lives on both sides.

WITHDRAWAL

The two officers now have the task of arranging a troop withdrawal from along the 1,500-mile ceasefir line stretching southwest-ward from Kashmir nearly to the Arabian Sea.

SIMILARITIES

Both officers served in the British Indian Army in the Second World War and before British India was partitioned into the independent nations of India and Pakistan in 1947. They were acquainted with each other in the old days.

SWAGGER STICKS

When they met Friday both spoke in English with the clipped military accent they learned under the British. Their uniforms and caps were of identical color and cut. Both clamped swagger sticks beneath their left arms.

Negotiations on the mechanics of the withdrawal start Saturday. There has been no indication how far back the two opposing armies will move or who will oversee the withdrawal.

Industry Slows Drastically

Cold Grips Britain

By LAWRENCE MALKIN

LONDON (AP) — A thaw spread slowly across Western Europe Friday. Most of the Continent returned to normal while the British still struggled to recover from the winter's worst cold wave.

But more cold weather probably lies ahead. Long-range forecasts predicted that late January and early February would be colder than usual.

For the British, especially, this is bad news. Snow, freezing temperatures and freezing rain have raised havoc with industry, transport and the hospitals—and may even threaten the precarious position of the Labor government.

PLANTS CLOSED

Even though temperatures climbed above the freezing point—it was 37 degrees here Friday — about 450 plants are closed down in the industrial Midlands because of the failure of two gas plants. Some estimates put the number of idle workers as high as 200,000.

Worst hit is the auto industry, which is vital for Britain's exports and was 90 - per - cent shut down. The Birmingham Chamber of Commerce called the situation "disastrous."

The gas situation is a political hot potato. Conservatives are planning to ask Wilson in Parliament what happened to his fuel emergency committee, set up after the power failures in the first cold wave earlier this winter.

FLIGHTS DIVERTED

Roads are reported icy in 24 countigs of England and Wales, but as the weather warmed up, a new hazard set in—fog. Some flights for London airport were diverted.

ICY ROADS

Across the rest of Europe, the worst problem seems to be icy roads.

Weird Green Light Just an Experiment

Shelbourne Street's brilliant conversation-piece—the green street light near Derby—is an experimental lamp being tested by Saanich engineers.

Municipal engineer Neville Life said Friday it is a new type of light, not yet in production, and both Saanich and the manufacturer want to determine its capabilities and lifespan under normal working conditions.

Woman Councillor Flays Colleagues:

Must Have Guts To Take Action

By JIM BRAHAN

A Central Saanich councillor verbally shredded her colleagues Friday on the procedure used to approve the proposed centennial municipal swimming pool.

Council at a meeting Tuesday night approved the proposed $36,000 swimming pool as the municipal centenial project, despite a majority of negative opinions having been registered by the ratepayers.

"I don't understand council's action, and the procedure used was terrible," Coun. Margaret Salt said.

QUESTIONNAIRE

She said the returned questionnaires, which had earlier been mailed by council asking each of the municipality's 1,900 voters their opinion on the proposed project, had rejected the pool by a vote of 560 to 376.

"We are councillors elected to represent the people, and if we didn't have guts enough to either vote for, or against, the centennial project on our own, then why did we send the questionnaire out if we didn't abide by the majority of the ratepayers' opinion," stormed Coun. Salt.

AGAINST IT

"I just don't know what they thought they were doing," she added.

Both Coun. Salt and Coun. Charles Mollard voted against the pool.

Coun. Mollard declined comment last night.

Council has said a one-mill tax increase would be sufficient to take care of the immediate capital cost of the project as well as future costs of maintenance and operation of the pool.

MEETINGS

Two public meetings—one at Brentwood, the other at Saanichton—were held in the municipality, where voters viewed the drawings of the project, and asked questions of council, the centennial committee, and other interested persons.

The public opinion vote at the Brentwood meeting was 21 to 18 in favor of the pool, and at the Saanichton Hall meeting it registered 41 in favor and two opposed.

Coun. Salt said a vote was taken at Saanichton on a heated pool and at Brentwood on an unheated pool.

Asked to explain council's approval of the project, Reeve R. Gordon Lee last night said, "Council decided to approve it, and that is all there is to it."

FARMERS HAPPY

The South Saanich Farmers' Institute are unhappy with council's decision and at a meeting Thursday decided to send a letter of protest to council.

Institute presiden Harold Slater said it was not so much a protest against the pool, but against the principle of Central Saanich council going contrary to the majority of the ratepayers' wishes.

North and South-Saanich Agricultural Society president Albert Doney said he believed council took its stand from the vote taken at the public hearing in the agricultural hall.

Hopes Dashed By Latest Clue

By BOB PETRICK

Grim conclusions drawn from icy waters and an overturned boat loomed larger Friday as an oar found on the Washington coast was identified as belonging to a boat found on Dungeness Spit Thursday.

In the boat, which was found on the beach upside down, three youthful hunters set off just after midnight last Saturday for Chatham or Discovery Island, about two miles from Oak Bay Marina.

They have not been seen since.

BAD WATER

Several people familiar with the area said even with favorable weather such as the boys had, the waters were treacherous and could be the cause of disaster.

Vicious tides run through the area around Discovery and Chatham Islands and it takes little wind to work up a choppy sea. Other hazards are deadheads and floating logs in the waters.

The missing boys are Dennis Powell and Ronald Hynds, 12, and Wade Squire, 17.

SPOTTED

The oar was discovered from a private float plane manned by Herbert Hynds, father of one of the missing boys.

It was picked up by Air Sea Rescue and brought to Victoria, where it was positively identified as belonging to the 12-foot, clinker-built turquoise boat.

The boat had been battered and showed signs of rubbing upside down in the sand.

OTHER FINDINGS

RCMP Inspector George Mackay said Friday a lifebelt found near where the boat was discovered did not belong to the boat.

Also found was an inner tube and a pail.

"But we haven't been able to fix them to," said Insp. Mackay.

The RCMP also put search dogs on Discovery and Chatham Islands Friday with a hope they might be able to establish whether the boys had arrived there, but the results were negative.

"The weather was against the search. It didn't give the dogs much of a chance," said Insp. Mackay.

It now appears that the air search is over.

HUNT TODAY

But the RCMP launch Victoria will be travelling the coast today in the area where the finds were made in an effort to find more clues to the three missing hunters.

Meanwhile, the only links to the trio, who set out with sleeping bags, lifebelts and rifles, are a 12-foot battered turquoise boat and one single oar.

Student Council Faces Threat

Fee Issue Rebounds

By BILL STAVDAL

Angry students at the University of Victoria have launched a protest movement against their student council that could end in dissolution of the group.

More than 150 have signed a petition calling for a special general meeting of the Alma Mater Society to consider a motion of non-confidence in the student council.

They are disgruntled over the council's decision to abandon its campaign encouraging withholding of payment of last year's $50 fee increase.

WITHHELD FEES

Nearly 700 students withheld the fee increase beyond normal tuition payment deadline after signing pledges circulated by the council. They were protesting increasing cost of higher education.

The council first called for withholding until mid-March, then Jan. 27 (the day the Legislature opens).

On Thursday, council president Paul Williamson said the students ought to pay immediately. He disclosed that legal complications forbid the Alma Mater Society from paying the $10 fine incurred by every student who pays fees late.

OFFICE SWAMPED

More than 250 students swamped the bursar's office Thursday and Friday.

Mr. Williamson said a special committee hoped to be able to raise the $7,000 in late fee fines.

The petition, circulated by fourth-year artsman Peter Bower, had been signed by 154 students late Friday. Only 150 signatures were needed to call a special meeting of the AMS.

It accused the student council of having failed the student body in its handling of the fee issue.

A motion of non-confidence, if put and passed, would automatically result in dissolution of the council.

Exploratory Committee

City Going All Out On 'Convention Hunt'

By A. H. MURPHY
City Hall Reporter

In an effort to snare some of the millions of convention dollars which escape Victoria annually, city hall will set up a committee to explore the whole question and recommend action.

Mayor Toone said Friday that he would take immediate action to establish the new group which, in addition to aldermen, will have representatives from the Victoria Visitors' Bureau, the Chamber of Commerce and other tourist promotion organizations.

Also investigated will be the need for a full-time convention manager—somebody to go out and develop business on a broad scale, getting conventions and programming for them years ahead.

CITY HAS PLANS

Mayor Toone told directors of the visitors' bureau that the city has plans in the making for a convention centre but at the moment they were very much in the formative stage.

He was referring to a plan, broached last year, to roof the Memorial Arena - curling club and adjacent parking lot area and turn it into a vast, multi-purpose convention - recreation complex.

SPARK TO FUSE

Empress Hotel manager Leslie Parkinson put a spark to the convention fuse at the bureau meeting held at city hall Friday.

"The time has come to do something about this vast convention potential," he said.

SIX YEARS AHEAD

"We at the hotel are working six years ahead on this aspect of the tourist business and it's time the bureau had a full-time man to go out and start booking two, three and more years ahead.

"You can put this off for a year or two if you like but you are going to be forced into it finally by competition. Victoria is growing and this is a fact you can't discount," Mr. Parkinson said, pointing out that Penticton, Kamloops and Nanaimo all had full-time men doing this work.

JUST PERFECT

"This is perfect, Mr. Mayor. I don't think we could ask for anything better," said Nicholas North bureau president.

William Clarke, of the Dominion Hotel, agreed that a city hall committee would be the best solution.

Increase in Car Insurance Protested in NDP Petition

First petitions are being circulated in a Victoria New Democratic Party campaign for at least 30,000 protests against car insurance premium increases.

A team of volunteers is at present concentrating on door-to-door distribution, but next Saturday it is planned to blitz local shopping centres.

An initial 1,000 copies of the petition (which also calls for the B.C. government to set up a publicly-owned automobile insurance agency) have been printed. Each has room for 30 names.

Idea of the petition originated with hospital orderly Thomas Moran after announcement of the third increase in insurance in a year in December.

Local NDP president Fred Bevis said Friday night it was hoped to spread the campaign up-Island and to the Lower Mainland, and he was confident of overwhelming response. "The climate is ripe for such a protest," he stated.

Theatre Guild Elects George

Other officers elected were: Thomas Mayne, vice-president; Mrs. Vera Rawlings, secretary; Floyd Hall, treasurer; Douglas Blagrave, maintenance; Mrs. Janet Smith, production; Mrs. Joan Jacobs, publicity; and Don Jacobs membership.

Battle Line Set On Water Rights

Chairman Charles Mollard said Friday, "We have no alternative but to take the matter to the B.C. government."

His remarks came after a city council decision Thursday to remain adamant on its stand to charge Central Saanich five cents for each thousand gallons of Elk Lake water.

The city has indicated it will oppose a move of Central Saanich to have water rights of the city-owned lake vested in the Crown.

"As far as I'm concerned the die has been cast," Chairman Mollard added.

Field Trip Seeks Birds

The group will depart at 9:30 a.m. from the Monterey Parking lot, Douglas at Hillside and arrive at the Black Swan, Elk Lake at 10 a.m.

Pellet Sniper Still Hunted

A hidden sniper has been using Bay Street near the Armory as a target range.

Mrs. Vera Cook, 1554 Hillside, told police she was hit in the head by an air gun pellet Thursday night. A shot chipped paint from her car.

Two girls reported hearing someone shooting pellets at 8:08 p.m. Wednesday around Bay Street.

Canadian Quotes Old Friend Ho:

LBJ Not Trying to Reach Us

In spite of President Johnson's "peace offensive" the U.S. has not yet made any move to negotiate with North Viet Nam, Tim Buck, retired leader of the Canadian Communist Party said Friday.

* * *

Mr. Buck, who spent December in North Viet Nam as a guest of his "old friend Ho Chi Minh," is in Victoria to speak to party members at Holyrood House at 8 p.m. today.

Ho said there has been no offer of negotiations from the U.S., he said.

"There has been no attempt to contact us unless you call Johnson's public announcements an attempt," Mr. Buck quoted Ho.

"If the president wants to talk, there are old established ways of going about it. He could ask a neutral nation or a mutually acceptable person to talk to one of our diplomats. But he has never done that."

Mr. Buck said the greatest danger in the Viet war is that the U.S. may extend the war into Laos and Cambodia.

"That would confront the Chinese with the very serious question of whether they could afford to stay out of it," Mr. Buck said.

Already the Chinese are giving North Viet Nam "everything they want" in the way of arms, ammunition, equipment and consumer goods. But Ho will have no part of Chinese soldiers, Mr. Buck said.

He doesn't want the U.S. Army to withdraw and leave another army of ocupation in its place—the Chinese army, he said.

The Boating Wife With Dishwasher

A Galley Slave No Longer

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The wife who used to go boating was a genuine galley slave. But look at her now.

She's cooking for family and guests in a "kitchen" (some land-oriented women insist on calling the galley that) complete with icemaker, dishwasher, electric stove with oven, garbage disposal, and hot and cold running water at the touch of the tap.

Further, she's keeping house afloat in a setting more like home everyday, even to air-conditioning and two and three heads with showers as boating architects utilize increasingly the space. And, interior decorators are turning nautical to match the boating boom.

The National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers estimate that more than 39,000,000 persons participated in recreational boating last year. Retail sales of boats, new and used, and accessories in 1965 ran to almost $2,700,000.

One of the new group of specialists in boat interiors is Mrs. Willis Slane, the widow of the founder of a fiberglass boat-making concern in High Point, N.C.—a construction centre 250 miles from water, as Mrs. Slane smilingly points out.

She has decorated all sizes, from 24-footers to yacht size 97's.

It's the woman, she said, who usually decides the boat's color scheme. "Most men couldn't care less about the inside, if they get what they want in the engine and the exterior."

Mrs. Slane was in New York for the 56th National Boat Show at the Coliseum.

She recalled earlier days when the boats on which she did galley detail were more for utility and fishing than for luxury of appointments. She and her husband, a pilot in the Second World War, used to fly over to the Cape Hatteras area—"the graveyard of the Atlantic"—for fishing weekends.

"A woman was a real galley slave," she said. "Down below, soaking up fumes from an alcohol stove. I used to use paper plates just to cut the time below deck."

Now, they're special plastics, with nautical motifs.

Doris Slane is the mother of three boys—"all boatnicks"—aged 15, 11 and 9. She started interior styling when her husband yelled, "help." He couldn't find anyone else to come down to the yard with portable sewing machine to stitch up homey touches.

Today, she has her own company, at High Point, and can furnish craft with "everything from contour sheets to boating shoes."

In selection of drapery and upholstery fabrics, she said, there are special problems because of wear and fading from sun and salt water.

On a wet day, some fabrics "droop" and lengths change. She prefers to work with pure cotton or linen but is beginning to use some of the synthetics.

"It's still hard to find things without flowers," she said. "Somehow florals don't seem to fit. One flower might be the size of a porthole."

Honolulu-bound are Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Olson, Beach Drive, pictured aboard the S.S. Lurline in Los Angeles harbor.

Founder's Day

Many to Attend PEO Coffee Fete

Approximately 175 guests are expected to attend the PEO Sisterhood's Founders' Day coffee party, to be held in the Georgian Lounge of the Empress Hotel today from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

It will celebrate the 97th anniversary of the sisterhood's founding which took place on Jan. 21, 1869, at Mount Pleasant, Iowa, when seven women students at Iowa Wesleyan College formed the initial college sorority. Later, when chapters were formed in various American and Canadian cities and towns, campus chapters were discontinued.

The sisterhood is a charitable and educational organization, mostly concerned with bringing women increased opportunities for higher education. This is achieved mainly through the PEO educational fund, Cottey Junior College for Women (a college founded in 1884 in Nevada, Miss., and owned and supported by the sisterhood since 1927) and the PEO international peace scholarship fund.

In relation with the latest project, the British Columbia chapters support three women students from India who are presently studying at the University of British Columbia.

Special guests at today's party will be Miss Linde Ley, a first-year student at the University of Victoria, who received this year's bursary of $150 from the Victoria chapters, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Ley.

Other visitors from Vancouver will include provincial chapter board members, Mrs. A. D. Bowker, Miss Bessie Lamb, Mrs. V. A. McPherson and Mrs. H. D. Gibb.

Spring flowers in the sisterhood's colors of yellow and white will decorate the head table at which will preside Mrs. S. Davidson, Mrs. Harold Campbell, Mrs. Wilfrid Johns and Mrs. Dave Turner, all past presidents of the provincial chapter. Serviteurs will be the presidents of the 12 Victoria chapters.

The party is an annual affair, arranged by the Victoria council. Mrs. Young is in charge of arrangements and Mrs. R. G. McKee has convened the entertainment program which will offer songs by Mrs. C. C. Wyatt with piano accompaniment by Mrs. C. Howard Denike. Others on the council's executive are Miss Doreen King and Mrs. R. Burkmar.

Corsages will be presented to members of the receiving line and sprigs of heather to those who have joined the sisterhood in the past year.

Salt Good For Ills

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Why don't you keep your nose in your own century, Granny, and stop telling us teenagers how to live our lives? I am a 17-year-old high school boy who likes to have girls call me on the telephone. If you had your way no girl would ever call a guy on the phone unless she had some important news to tell him, like his house was on fire.

A fellow feels great when chicks call him up. So why don't you stop handing out old-fashioned advice, and start writing a sewing column instead?—TIGER JOE

Dear Joe: If you don't mind I think I'll continue with this column for a while. If I decide to switch to sewing, I know where I can get an extra needle. Read on, Chum:

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 16-year-old girl who wishes you had printed that letter about girls telephoning boys a year ago. This is what happened to me:

A certain fellow I will call Jerry seemed to be paying quite a lot of attention to me in English class. One day (this was about six months ago) he said, "Why don't you call me up tonight?" Like a big dummy I was flattered and said, "Sure."

Well, Ann, I telephoned him and we had a great talk. He asked me to call him again the next night so I did.

It got so I was calling him about four times a week. The conversations seemed to get mushier and mushier. I couldn't figure out why he never asked me out, if he liked me so much.

Then one day my cousin tipped me off. He said, "Why don't you quit calling that phony bum Jerry?

He has been inviting guys over to listen to you gush over him on the extension telephone."

Honestly, Ann, I wanted to die. After that rotten experience I made up my mind I would never telephone a fellow again, no matter what. I never have, and I never will.—LEARNED A LOT

Dear Learned: Cheers for you, Honey. Read what another interested party has to say:

Dear Ann Landers: I was delighted to see you print a letter recently about girls who telephone boys. I hope they will heed your advice.

As a mother of two married sons and a teen-age daughter I can vouch for the wisdom of your counsel.

My sons were both handsome teen-agers, excellent students and good athletes. Our telephone began to ring steadily when the older boy was 16. It rang for six years until the younger son went off to college.

Neither of the boys liked it when girls telephoned them. Their feelings ranged from mild irritation to real annoyance. They were always polite, however, and tried to spare the girls' feelings. One evening the younger boy said to his sister (who was then only 12 years old) 'Sis, when you get to thinking about boys, remember one thing. NEVER pester them on the phone.'

When it came time for marriage, both our sons selected lovely girls. These girls never called them on the phone—not even once—until they were engaged.—HAPPY MOTHER

Women Drivers More Tolerant

CALGARY (CP)—In her own home, a woman sometimes will fix a leaky faucet, rewire a lamp, assemble a complicated mechanical gadget or even repair the lawn mower.

Give her a flat tire and she's helpless.

Instead of learning some of the mechanics of the automobile, a woman would rather rely on her femine wiles to bring a man to the rescue, say Calgary driving instructors. As a result, women never will surpass men in driving skill.

"Unless a woman understands the intricacies of a car, what can go wrong and why, she will never become a truly proficient and excellent driver," a local instructor says.

"To drive well, you must have complete control of the car and if you don't know your car's idiosyncrasies, you don't have control in emergencies."

A survey by an automobile manufacturing company shows that women drivers tend to be more patient and tolerant and less aggressive than men. This results in a good, safe driver.

Women motorists have several assets, says the survey. They are temperamentally more suited to driving, learn more quickly with fewer mistakes, are a better insurance risk, get fewer speeding tickets and are far more polite than male motorists.

The biggest problem with women drivers is the lack of practice, says the survey. Women do not get the same driving practice as their husbands. They also become flustered in emergencies.

Mr. and Mrs. John Erb, right, entertained at a traditional "May Wine Party" at their home on Beach Drive, rushing the season a bit to honor special guests from the Kootenays, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Fink. Mrs. Erb explained that the Festival of May Wine is an ancient custom, still observed in many rural areas of Europe. It is an official welcome to springtime and blossoms, and all toasts (they are proposed constantly) are to spring and blossom time. If custom were followed to the letter, the first wine would be taken just at sunset. All guests wore flowers, and there were flowers throughout the house. So January became springtime in Victoria for the Finks, who are in the city for a few weeks. While here they plan to attend the State Ball at Government House.—(Bud Kinsman photo)

The tuned car report.

What's behind the switch to Buick?
What's the tuned car all about?

If you were going to build a car, you'd start with four absolutely necessary building blocks: performance, styling, ride and handling. If you were going to build a Buick, you'd start there, too. But you wouldn't stop there. You'd test and refine and blend until they were all tuned to work together. Your own favorite mechanic already gives you an idea of what the tuned car is all about when he tunes your car's engine. You know how smoothly and efficiently that engine runs? That's how a Buick runs. Not just the engine. The whole Buick. And that's what tuning is.

Two years of punishment.

We tune our Buicks in the laboratory. And on the road. We use our Proving Grounds. (As other car makers use theirs.) But we also use parkways and freeways and country lanes and mountain chutes—the tuned car is tuned to behave well on all kinds of roads; roads you'll actually be using. If you bought a new Buick and then, just for fun, gave it back to us to run it through all that testing again, can you guess when you would get it back? In about two years.

The test run.

Before final assembly, every Buick engine is test run to be sure it's properly tuned and to provide for controlled initial break-in. If there's the tiniest fault, back it goes.

Brr.

You think you've got a tough job? We have a man stationed up north where in winter the thermometer can drop to thirty below. He's charged with climbing out of bed in the dark of cold mornings, going out to a new Buick which has been left out all night, and starting it. A car that will start fast enough to please him will please anybody.

The Inspector.

There are about 1250 people working in our engine plant. 180 of them are inspectors, which works out to one inspector for every 5.9 production people. The average engine is looked at, in component or assembled form, by 170 different inspectors. An inspector's word is law. If something isn't right, back it goes. Sometimes this makes our production people unhappy. But it also makes the product good and you happy.

Frothing at the shocks.

When it gets hot outside, the oil inside the shock absorbers tends to become aerated. Or, to put it another way, it froths. Which makes it hard for the shocks to do much absorbing. Inside every LeSabre, Wildcat, Electra 225 and Riviera shock absorber is a piece of baffle tubing that puts a stop to this kind of nonsense. It costs a little extra money to do this. But if you've ever ridden in one of these new Buicks, you'll know why we think it's worth it.

Close.

No matter how hard you try, you can't practically make pistons to more than 3/10,000 of an inch tolerance. The same goes for cylinders, into which the pistons fit. So we use an ingenious machine that measures pistons and cylinders by air. And then we fit piston to cylinder individually.

The "master" engines.

We not only balance all the engine parts separately, the way everybody else does, but we also balance the final assembly as well. We have machines for this. But, being Buick, we also have perfectly balanced "master" engines that check the machines that check the engine that you end up with. And then there are those inspectors . . .

Safety.

Everybody knows that the real key to safety on the road is the driver. We (like our sister divisions at GM) try to make every trip a safe trip for you. So we put back-up lights, a padded dash, padded sun visors, seat belts front and rear, and two-speed wipers and washers in every one of our cars. Standard equipment. So are two mirrors—an outside one and a shatter-resistant inside one—that are just about indispensable. You use them when you're moving into traffic, to see what's coming up to pass you, to see if it's safe for you to pass, and a dozen other things. They're probably the most important glass in the car, if you don't count the windshield.

Affordable.

A good many people have been brought up to believe that a Buick is some kind of a pinnacle, to be touched only after the kids are tucked away in careers of their own and you've Got It Made. Well, a Buick is a pinnacle, all right, but it's not nearly that hard to attain. In fact, many people who buy new cars are already paying the price of a Buick. And if you're going to pay the price of a Buick, you might as well get a Buick.

North America has spoken.

Sending a brand-new car out into the world is a ticklish business at best. Even when you're absolutely positively sure you've got a winner, there's always that little niggling doubt. So we must report that the tuned car has been a rousing success, even more rousing, in fact, than we had allowed ourselves to hope. And we shall, by working very hard, keep supplying our dealers with Buicks, so that they, in turn, can keep supplying you with Buicks. Wouldn't you really rather own a Buick?

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

A simple suit combination provided too much of a problem for some illustrious declarers in this deal in the 1965 North American Team Trials.

Four spades was the popular contracts, but it failed at three of the nine tables, including the one where Philadelphians Robert Jordan and Arthur Robinson held the E-W cards against Alvin Roth and Gobias Stone of New York City. In this clash of World Championship veterans, South had a tougher time than at some of the other tables, for he knew his opponents as two of the most accurate of defenders. How would you figure it after West cashes two top clubs and leads a third round, which East ruffs and declarer overruffs?

Opening lead: Club king

Declarer needed to win three heart tricks on which to pitch his losing diamonds, and this could not be done unless hearts divided 4-3, allowing the fifth heart to be established. Unfortunately, there were two ways to tackle the suit. Having ruffed the third club, declarer could finesse the heart queen and ruff a heart if the finesse won. South would then lead trumps and dummy's trumps would provide sufficient entries to set up and cash the fifth heart. This play would win if West held king-third or king-fourth in hearts.

Alternatively, declarer could refuse the heart finesse and play ace and another, ruffing in his hand. When he re-entered dummy with a trump, South would need to drop the king with his next heart ruff, establishing the queen and the fifth card. This would work if either East or West held king-third, but would fail if either held king-fourth. On simple probabilities, the finesse is best, especially when West has opened the bidding. But some complicated inferences can be drawn from West's failure to shift to a diamond after the first club lead. In practice, South elected to refuse the heart finesse, and tried to drop the king. Instead, he dropped his game contract.

IN A MONKEY TREED CHILDPROOF HOME

In amazingly good condition is this older character home considering the owner had 7 children here. Immediate occupancy is available as the home is vacant and vendor is desperate to sell. Price has been dropped from a reasonable $13,500 to the ridiculous for a quick solid sale. Exterior is white shingle, roof is duroid, heating is new and automatic, plumbing is copper, wiring is 100 Amp and hot water is new, gas fired and glass lined. Grounds need very little attention. Vestibule type entrance through attractive granite pillars, leads to small red carpeted den with fireplace. Living and family room have expensive rolled vinyl floors for easy care and dining room is very large with built-in china closets. Champagne-Ugh!

Popping Corks Give Uzbeks Big Headache

By VINCENT J. BURKE
The Los Angeles Times

MOSCOW—The sound of corks popping from bottles of Soviet champagne brings no joy to the restaurant managers in the Soviet Republic of Uzbekistan.

They already are hip-deep in empty champagne bottles. The bottles have been accumulating for about four years and they can't get rid of them.

They can't destroy the bottles. Each empty is worth 17 kopeks (19 cents at the official exchange rate), and is so carried on their account books.

But nobody will pay refunds for the empty bottles. Nobody wants them.

The "serious problem" of the champagne hangover was disclosed this week by the government newspaper, Izvestia, in a dispatch from its correspondent in Tashkent, capital of Uzbekistan.

The restaurant officials were quoted as saying that something must be done or the day will come when all of the ready cash of all of the restaurants in Tashkent and other Uzbek cities will be tied up in empty champagne bottles.

"All the turnover funds will be frozen in piles of bottles and there will be no money to buy food products." T. Dzhalilov, chief of the Tashkent restaurant chain, wrote to the republic's minister of trade.

"We couldn't pay for the uniforms for waitresses," said N. Arzumanov, director of Tashkent's restaurant Zeravshan, "as almost all the turnover funds are in the bottles."

Just Wrong Size

The problem was created about four year ago when the Uzbekistan champagne factory announced that it would no longer refund any money for its empty bottles. It had discovered that it was risky to bottle champagne in the same bottle twice, as the bottle might explode from the pressure.

It was suggested that the empties might be used for bottling "quiet wines" or soft drinks, as reportedly is done in some other Soviet republics.

But the Uzbekistan wineries turned down the empty champagne bottles. They explained their automatic equipment was geared to fill only bottles of one-half liter size. Champagne is marketed in an odd-size bottle—eight-tenths of one liter.

In Ausust, 1962, the Uzbekistan council of ministers ordered the wineries to put wine in the champagne bottles, doing it by hand, if necessary.

The order was never carried out.

Meantime, retail shops complained they were getting stuck with unrefundable empties. So the Uzbek ministry of trade, which is responsible for the financial condition of retailers, issued a secret, illegal order, directing retail shops to stop paying refunds on empty champagne bottle. Individual consumers complained for a while but finally became reconciled to the 17 kopek boost in the net "price" of a bottle of champagne.

Kazaks Screamed No

Meantime, empties piled up in restaurants. The Izvestia correspondent reported that the Tashkent restaurant trust, or chain, now holds more than 300,000 empty champagne bottles. All of its warehouses and yards are filled with empty bottles, he wrote. According to a rough guess, there now are probably about 6,000,000 empty champagne bottles stacked up, or lying about, in the Uzbek Republic.

All government agencies concerned with the problem have been telephoning and writing letters about the problem for a long time.

On several occasions authorities have thought they saw a way out.

The organization in charge of raw materials for the food undustry for the entire Soviet Union finally intervened. Last January it voted to send 2,000,000 bottles to the Republic of Kazakstan. But the Kazaks screamed that they wouldn't accept any Uzbek empties.

Then, last May the all-Soviet food organization voted to dispatch bottles to Sakhalin, the Soviet island in the Pacific Ocean that is close to Japan.

This time the Soviet Central Asian Railroad balked. It said it would not tie up freight cars carrying empty bottles from central Asia to the Pacific Ocean.

Concluding his account of how 1,000,000 rubles of Soviet capital has been tied up in empties, the Izvestia correspondent wrote that the problem was caused by poor management and must be solved immediately. But he didn't offer a solution.

Second Time

Dancer Eyes Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Liliane Montevecchi, French actress and dancer, is ready to try Hollywood again—now that she knows the English language.

The leggy dancer with the saucer eyes once was under contract to MGM but she had language trouble. And she was there at a time when Esther Williams was the biggest star on the lot.

"I was a long-distance swimmer when I was 16 years old—but I couldn't get the message across," says Liliane. "I never was in one of Esther's swimming pictures."

For the last year, Liliane has been the star of the Folies Bergere at Las Vegas' Tropicana Hotel.

"I really learned to speak English in Las Vegas," she says. "Before I came here, I never knew such words as 'four the hard way' or 'jackpot' but now I know them all."

Liliane started ballet training in the Paris Opera and made her first stage appearance at nine, for the crowning of Prince Rainier of Monaco.

"Grace Kelly and I were both under contract at MGM at the same time. Had I known she was going to marry Rainier, I would have danced at the wedding."

Giants Live In Park

POSTO LEONARDO VILLAS BOAS, Brazil (Reuters) — A tribe of red Indian giants so wild that only one member has ever been seen by civilized men lives within the boundaries of the 8,380-square-mile Xingu National Park.

The tribe is one of five on this high plateau of the Xingu who live in a permanent state of war with each other, and have not yet had any contact with modern civilization. The giant tribe member is six feet tall, which compares with an average height of five feet six inches among his neighbors.

These primitive tribes, living in the watershed where rise the headwaters of rivers which flow northeast and south across the South American continent, are of particular interest to scientists and anthropologists interested in studying primitive peoples.

Cash's Life Is Loneliness

Singer Shows His Moods and Humanism

* * * * * *

By WILLIAM THOMAS

Many entertainers have pet projects and will give charity concerts that fill Carnegie Hall, as the wealthy shell out four and five times the going rate to hear them sing or play.

Johnny Cash is not of that breed.

He plays on Indian Reservations and in prisons.

Convincing

Cash is just a lonely man who can convince his listeners he has felt every moment of whatever despair they have experienced when he strums from his limited repertoire of guitar chords and half sings and half tells his stories.

We sat in his dressing room for almost two hours just talking.

He arrived at the Royal Theatre to do a concert carrying one of the four new guitars an instrument manufacturer had donated, his coat open and smoking his ever-present cigarette.

Just Talks On

Naturally I asked how he got started and he alkl his better than six feet into a wicker chair and started a stream-of- consciousness conversation that just ran on.

A room mate in the air force had a guitar and he taught Cash a few chords.

"I just decided that after that I wanted to get out and sing. It was really Elvis Presly who gave me my break but in an indirect way."

"I had been hanging around a small outfit, The Sun Record Company in New Orleans trying to get an audition. After a while they got tired of me just being there and so they let me cut a couple of records."

After Elvis

The same company had Elvis under contract but their record distribution facilities were not too extensive until Elvis caught fire.

"As his stuff started to sell they built up and my records got around.

"I cut I'll Walk the Line and that was it. Big John came soon after and things got really good."

At this point I cut in to ask what a hit record was worth to the singer.

Cash stopped for a moment to ferret out another cigarette—he chain smokes—and went on

Controversial

"Depending on if he writes his own stuff it could bring in about $25,000 if it sells upwards of 500,000 singles."

Many would not accept his Ballad of Ira Hayes. They felt a song telling the story of a wartime Marine hero who went back to his Indian reservation to die drink-sodden in a ditch was too strong for their listeners.

Tragic Story

The story is tragic and so is that of its composer, Peter Lafarge, also an Indian who died recently in New York.

Cash said whisky and sleeping pills killed Lafarge during a period of depression.

"I am part Cherokee and I think I know how he felt."

Anyone who hears Cash sing the ballad of Ira Hayes knows just how Cash feels about it. Hayes was one of the party of Marines who raised the flag at Iwo Jima.

I asked about his feeling of despair for minorities and again the singer really came to life.

Won't March

"I refuse any part in protest movements for many of the entertainers who take part are just not sincere or honest. One well-known folk singer changed her name because she is Jewish."

He went on "How can a person who is ashamed of her name and people have the nerve to stand in front of a crowd of Negroes and sing of protest?"

He entertained in Korea. On one tour, he insisted on covering small, out-of-the-way spots, setting up portable equipment to entertain groups of as few as 12 men.

Viet Nam

Soon he will travel to Saigon for a three-week tour of Viet Nam.

I asked about his efforts to perform in prisons across the United States while on concert tours.

"This is one of my big things. I have been to San San Quentin for a number of concerts and last New Year's day was my third trip to Folsom. I have a song called the Folsom Prison Blues.

"Last time I was there the hall was filled. The prisoners have to attend no matter how they feel.

"At one point we toured the jail with the warden. We stopped near death row. These men were the only ones in the jail under maximum security and not allowed into the concert. They stood at their cell doors and yelled for me to sing for them. The warden let me do one song so I sang Folsom Prison Blues. As I was leaving they yelled Happy New Year, Johnny. How do you reply to that? I got to feel so bad, I had to leave."

His own problem with the law opened up another frank discussion, with Cash offering all the information.

He was arrested recently at El Paso Airport and was found to have a quantity of depressant and stimulant pills in his possession.

Cash told me he got the pills in Mexico and he brought them into the U.S. with him.

Small Fine

He was given the minimum fine and still insists he just had them and that he is not, nor has ever been, addicted to drugs.

At his home near Los Angeles, he keeps a boat from which he fishes whenever he is able. Probably his only regret as he left Victoria was not being able to get out fishing.

Movies Soon

Soon he will start to imitate his travelling companion Tex Ritter by starting a career in films. His first, called Five Minutes to Live, will be released soon. Cash has only one song, taken from the movie title.

It seems safe to say if he wants to go on singing he will be able to fill the Royal Theatre again anytime he chooses.

Some of the fans will be convinced they are hearing country music, some will come to hear folk music but they will all go away satisfied.

Actor Dons Uniform

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Glenn Ford, native of Portneuf, Que., will wind up the movie The Rage in Durango, Mexico, in February and immediately don his naval uniform for five weeks' submarine duty.

Asked whether his tour might include Viet Nam, Glenn replied:

"I hope so but I've been in the navy too long to outguess them on assignments."

Monoxide Kills Man

The New Petunias

By M. V. CHESNUT

For several days now I have been reviewing some of the new plants which will be making their appearance in the seed catalogues and on the plant stalls this year. Today I think we'll dust off the crystal ball and take another peek at some of the 1966 models of the plant world.

The greatest number of new plant varieties this year will be found among the petunias. This annual is winning a well-deserved popularity among home gardeners because of its habit of blooming continuously from early summer right through until the first hard frosts of fall, making it just about the ideal plant for furnishing masses of color in the ornamental beds out front.

Among the new petunias, there is a fine multiflora type called Red Cap, bearing bold masses of bright red 2½-inch flowers on foot-high compact plants. Flowering commences very soon after the plants are set out in the spring, and continues without a break into the fall.

Gay Paree is a new grandiflora petunia with flowers up to five inches across and borne on 14-inch plants with a two-foot spread. The blooms display a wine-purple star on a creamy white background.

The W. Atlee Burpee Co., long noted for their work with petunias and marigolds, has two fine new petunias this year. Floradale Salmon is an F-1 hybrid grandiflora, rich salmon veined with deeper salmon lines. Boomershine is a fluffy, fully double bicolor, in scarlet and white.

The Plum Pudding petunias are made up of a mixture containing a number of colors all derived from the purple-flowered Sugar Plum. All the plants in the mixture have the same habit of growth, same height and spread, and with the free blooming quality and resistance to rain and weather that characterizes the parent, Sugar Plum. Colors in the mixture include blue, deep red, wine, pink, purple and a veined yellow.

Another interesting mixture is found in the new salvias. Most of us think of salvia as a firecracker red flower, but the Sight Delight Salvia mixture developed by Park Seeds of South Carolina contains such colors as copper, white, purple, salmon, fuchsia, and red tipped with white. The plants are uniform in height, highly suitable for bedding, and unlike the older salvias, they bloom freely in partial shade.

In the past, the cosmos has been a rather hit-or-miss flower for our part of the world. Those with rather wishy-washy pastel shades bloom well here, but those with richer, more glowing colors were short-day plants, blooming prolifically in the latitude of California but remaining flowerless until fall in our long hours of daylight. This year a new cosmos called Sunset is free from this day-length sensitivity and promises to make a first-class summer cut flower for our gardens. The flower color is a blazing sunset red with a touch of gold, semi-double, about two inches across, and with 12- to 15-inch stems on three-foot plants. Cosmos "Sunset" is quick and easy to grow from an outdoor sowing.

The Burgess people have a new and unusual tomato this year called Kabob, especially developed for use on barbecue skewers. The fruits are only 1½ inches in diameter and are borne very prolifically on small plants only 12 inches tall.

Along the same lines, the University of Minnesota has developed a new space-saving pea called Mighty Midget, highly suitable for small backyard vegetable plots. The vines are only six inches tall, bearing 3½-inch pods well packed with sugary peas.

What Price Resolutions?

By SYDNEY HARRIS

Reading about New Year's resolutions a few weeks ago, I thought of one of Proust's best aphorisms in his great novel "It is always because of a state of mind which is not going to last that we make definitive resolutions."

With his profound psychological insight, Proust realized that the very urgency of a condition that drives us to make a resolution is the same factor that will permit us to break the resolution when the condition has changed.

Illness, danger, and threats of punishment are, of course, classic examples of what he meant. Worried by serious illness, we vow to change our way of living if we recover. In times of peril, or when we face exposure for some misdeed, we resolve "never again" to behave as foolishly or recklessly or illegally a we had.

But these are precisely the worst times for making resolutions. They are prompted by a specific situation, and if the situation turns for the better, we quickly dismiss or forget our vows. They are not made on principle, but on passion; not out of deep faith, but as a primitive and superstitious way of propitiating the gods—"Please let me escape just this one time, and I'll be a good boy forever."

Resolutions, to be effective and meaningful, should be made at exactly the opposite times when things are going well, when stability and harmony and health and prosperity have combined to give us a strength of purpose. For we do not keep promises made when we are weak; we keep only those made when we are strong.

When a marriage, for instance, is disintegrating (sometimes against the wishes of both parties) the couple will often make a last desperate effort to reconstitute the relationship: they vow to themselves and to each other that they will change their attitudes and reactions conduct.

Such resolutions, however, usually come too late, for they are made out of weakness. The time to make them is when there seems to be little need for them—when love is strong and seemingly secure. Vows regularly renewed at such times have deep force begind them, because they spring out of gratitude and not out of fear, hysteria of panic.

"Good resolutions," Wilde remarked in one of his comedies, "are simply cheques that men draw on a bank where they have no account."

We wait until the account is exhausted, or even overdrawn, before we draw such a cheque; and, naturally the resolution has nothing to back it up. Our resolutions should be testaments to our good fortune, not blackmail payments to some threatening genie of doom.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Land Calls to Ursula

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—From Berne, Switzerland, I received a letter with the news that the mother of Ursula Andress would like her famous daughter to return to the family farm. It has belonged to them for four generations. "Come back to your real place on the land," Mama begged. You never know. Ursula very well might. She was weeping when I saw her last in New York. The pressures of her career were getting her down. In the old days as a carefree youngster, Ursula was on the tomboy side. With her three brothers and sister, she would rise with the cows and the chickens, and I'll guarantee she was much happier then.

I was called by a friend of Michael Caine's and told to forget all seeming romances with Hollywood beauties. His heart belongs to 21-year-old French girl, Elizabeth Ercy. And he is using a considerable portion of his $150,000 salary for Gambit, calling her in Europe from Hollywood . . . And French girl Annette Andre lays claim to possessing the heart of El Cordobes, the richest bullfighter of them all, and nicknamed "the Beatle of the bullring."

* * *

Candice Bergen writes from Taiwan that she is going stir crazy on the Formosa location. She is the only American girl in The Sand Pebbles, and because of Robert Wise's shooting schedule she is not allowed to visit the exotic nearby spots such as Hong Kong, Bangkok and Kuala Lumpur. It always sounds so glamorous when stars work on location, but they are usually too busy working to see anything but the set.

* * *

Sammy Davis gave a job to his mother in his film for Joe Levine, A Man Called Adam. Mom plays a bartender, a natural for the role, being that she toiled as a barmaid years ago in Atlantic City . . . Fabian, due for a comeback at 22. He's in Ten Little Indians, and also signed a fat- five-picture deal with American International, where his boyhood pal, Frankie Avalon, is starred in those beachy epics.

Eva Gabor, a hit on this coast with her TV series, is obviously digging in for a long stay. She has just acquired a howdah — that's an elephant saddle, in case you didn't know . . . Eva's husband, rich man Dick Brown, has signed on as a vice-president with the man who makes Eva's show, Marty Ransohoff. Now Zsa Zsa is asking her husband, rich man Herbert Hutner, to find a successful TV series for her. It isn't the money, it's the principle.

* * *

Try to guess which actor has appeared in the most western. No, not John Wayne, Jimmy Stewart, or even Jim Arness. In the Hugh O'Brian film, Ambush Bay, there is an actor who has made 465 horse operas. His name is Harry Lauter. I've never heard of him before. Have you?

Unfeeling Humans Shake Cynic

By PAUL COATES

It doesn't become a man in the notoriously cynical profession of newspapering to ever show shock. It's very bad for the image.

Perhaps I haven't completed basic training because I am still subject to occasional attacks of shock.

When, for example, that sweet old mama, Marguerite Oswald, auctioned off her dead son's personal items and clothing, I violated the solemn oath of my trade by giving in to a cold shudder.

The grim commercialism of the seller and the grisly curiosity of the buyers chilled me to the bone.

And now, I've just suffered another siege after reading an item from Birmingham, Alabama, a town where the news is not generally conducive to warming the cockles of one's heart, anyway.

A Birmingham newspaper ad offered for sale the automobile in which civil rights worker Mrs. Viola Liuzzo was gunned to death last spring after the Selma to Montgomery freedom march.

"Notice," the ad read. "Do you need a crowd-getter? I have a 1963 Oldsmobile two-door in which Mrs. Viola Liuzzo was killed.

"Bullet holes and everything still intact. Ideal to bring in crowds. $--,500."

No name or phone was listed. Prospective customers were given a box number to write. And the man they would be writing, I learned, is named Howard Rigsby, a lieutenant in the Mountain Brook, Ala., fire department.

"Found that car for sale in Montgomery," Rigsby told me on the phone. "Some big national finance company had their local branch repossess it. As ah understand, Mr. Liuzzo let them do it, 'cause he just didn't want to see it after his wife was killed.

"Ah figured that ol' car could be mighty useful, if somebody wanted to put it on display.

"Figured," Rigsby added, "it had ought to bring about $1,000 more than an ordinary car of that year. Ah mean, because of the circumstances.

"If there's no folks who want to buy it outright," he went on, "what ah might do, is take it around and exhibit it at state fairs and carnivals.

"Ever'thing is intact," Rigsby told me. "Just as it was. Still got a Michigan licence plate, two bullet holes in the windshield, glass shot out on the left side, a bullet through the door, and blood all over the seat, the floor, even up on the dashboard."

"Where is the car now?"

"Got it locked up in storage. Ah don't plan to let folks see it, less they want to buy or rent it for display.

"And if this whole thing gets too controversial," the fireman said, finally, "why, ah'll just take it to a body shop and have it cleaned and fixed up for to use mah'self. That ol' car runs real good."

But Where Is It?

Villagers Protest U.S. Bomb

CUEVAS DE ALMANZORA, Spain (UPI)—More than 50 angry villagers demonstrated in the town square Friday night against the "U.S. and its bomb" as a search for missing "secret elements" of a B-52 bomber moved into its fourth day. The plane crashed with nuclear weapons aboard.

The villagers paraded through the square shouting, "Down with the U.S. and its bomb," "Yankees go home," and "Americans go away and take your bomb with you." They dispersed peacefully after about 30 minutes.

The demonstration came as hundreds of U.S. airmen moved tons of equipment to a sealed-off beach area near Palomares.

KEEPS SILENT

The Air Force, which has admitted the plane was carrying nuclear weapons, steadfastly refused to confirm or deny persistent reports that the huge search was for one such nuclear device still missing in the crash of the Strategic Air Command bomber.

Informed sources said four nuclear bombs were aboard the bomber when it collided in the air with a KC-135 jet tanker during a re-fuelling operation over the southeast of Spain Monday.

They said three devices had been recovered but that a fourth was still missing.

AVOIDING 'RAIN'

The transfer of equipment to the beach area represented a change of headquarters for the search over the rugged, arid hills near this remote village about 95 miles southeast of Granada.

U.S. Air Force officials said the reason for the move was to avoid damage from flooding in the event of rain.

Air Route To Rock Lengthened

MADRID (AP) — Spain informed the NATO governments Friday that their military planes no longer could fly over the country en route to and from Gibraltar.

A diplomatic note pointed to "the risks and consequences to Spain of using Gibraltar as a NATO base."

Morocco

De Gaulle To Cut Relations?

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle is considering breaking diplomatic relations with Morocco and cutting off $40,000,000 in economic aid because of the Ben Barka scandal, French government sources said Friday.

The sources said deGaulle was spending the weekend in Paris to be on hand in case of a major break in the affair, which started with the kidnapping in Paris Oct. 21 of Moroccan leftist leader Mehdi Ben Barka.

They said the president is prepared for the possibility that Morocco might make the first move to break relations. It was believed here this could come following the issuance in Paris Thursday of international arrest warrants against Moroccan Interior Minister Gen. Mohamed Oufkir and two of his top aides.

The arrest warrants can be carried out only if the Moroccans cooperate. But French officials said if Oufkir or either of his aides set foot in any of the countries outside Morocco with which France has extradition agreements, they would be liable to arrest.

Nielson Sounds New Warning

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Gangs of international criminals are operating in Canada with "impunity" and in some cases with immunity," Yukon Conservative Erik Nielson charged in the Commons Friday.

The man who sparked the Dorion probe last session said that "criminal organizations have grown tremendously in Canada. They are connected with the octopus of international crime."

He combined a warning against crime with a bitter attack on the government in his demand for a royal commission into the ramifications of organized crime in Canada.

"Organized crime must be fought on an organized basis. You cannot destroy an octopus by cutting off the tips of the tentacles," he said.

Mr. Nielson praised the RCMP and criticized former justice ministers for not defending it against unwarranted attacks.

Rusk's Prediction: Intense Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk reported Friday the Communists have spurned United States' Viet Nam peace feelers so far. He predicted the enemy will step up the fighting in South Viet Nam next week.

"I regret that I cannot report to you any positive and encouraging response to the hopes of the overwhelming majority of mankind," Rusk told a press conference.

CEASEFIRE

"There is every sign that the other side is going to intensify its activity after the Tet period," he said. Tet is the lunar new year holiday in Viet Nam, now observed by a ceasefire which ends Sunday.

Rusk sidestepped questions about renewal of air strikes on the North.

The state secretary seemed to:

● Warn Hanoi the string is running out on Washington's current peace drive and the bombing of the North could be resumed soon.

● Serve notice to those who advocated a bombing lull that North Viet Nam's rejection of U.S. peace overtures means Washington is getting ready to make new, probably tough, decisions.

● Indicate that within the circle of top U.S. strategists, Rusk favors a hard-line reaction to Hanoi's rebuff of peace efforts.

Johnson's advisers are known to be divided over what to do next. Johnson is said not to have made a decision yet about resuming the bombing and to have set no deadlines.

Dawn Attack Shatters Brief Truce

SAIGON (UPI) — About 400 Viet Cong regulars swarmed over a South Korean marine position Friday shattering their self-proclaimed New Year's truce. The Koreans threw down their weapons and fought hand-to-hand in a bloody, see-saw battle that left 46 of the enemy dead.

The pre-dawn assault near Tuy Hoa about 220 miles northeast of Saigon was the most serious of 51 cease-fire violations by the Communists since their holiday truce period began at midnight Wednesday.

U.S. Ambassador 'Shocked'

Convicted American Cuts Throat in Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — The U.S. embassy said today the Soviet government reported Newcomb Mott, a young American serving a Soviet prison sentence, committed suicide by cutting his throat.

The formal Soviet notification said the suicide occurred in the night of Thursday-Friday while Mott, a 27-year-old book salesman from Sheffield, Mass., was being transferred from his Arctic prison in Murmansk to a forced labor camp.

The Russians said Mott had killed himself in the toilet of the train on which he was being taken to the camp, embassy sources said.

PAROLE IN JUNE

He was convicted Nov. 24 of illegally crossing the Norwegian-Soviet frontier Sept. 5 and sentenced to 18 months. He would have been eligible for parole next June 4 when half the sentence would have been completed.

The Soviets said Mott's body had been taken to the morgue at Kirov, 500 miles northeast of Moscow.

'SHOCKED'

U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler said: "I am profoundly shocked by the death of Newcomb Mott and deplore the handling of this matter which has come to such a tragic end."

In Washington, the state department said "it is indeed a matter of deep regret and con-

Pensions Vote

SOCREDS SAVE LIBERALS

By RON COLLISTER
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson last night saved the minority government from defeat and the country from an election crisis.

Mr. Thompson, who earlier had agreed with the substance of a non-confidence vote that tried to raise old age pensions to $100 a month, later threw his five-man band behind the government for a 126 to 117 win.

If he had voted the other way, Prime Minister Pearson would have been faced with a constitutional crisis.

The choice would have been to call another election, the second in a few months, or call on Tory Leader Diefenbaker to try to form a government.

DEFENDS ACTION

Mr. Thompson vehemently defended his action in saving the government, but the other opposition parties turned against him.

"I didn't think we had the balance of power like that," he said.

"I am glad we had the courage to stand by our guns."

ELECTION PLEDGE

Pensions, he said, were not the issue at all.

The issue was whether or not this parliament would continue to do the job it was elected to do.

VOTE SPLIT

● For the New Democrat motion, that pensions should be raised from seventy-five dollars to one hundred dollars at age sixty-five: 20 New Democrats, 89 Tories, eight Creditistes.

● Against, 120 Liberals, five Socreds, one Independent, J. A. Mongrain.

The absentees showed the continual danger that besets the minority government.

ABSENT MPS

Ten of its members were absent: three were ill, two ministers were on business, two were paired with Opposition members, and three were well, just absent.

Eight Tories were absent, one Creditiste, one New Democrat, and one Independent.

SHOOK HIS HEAD

Members of all parties gasped at the closeness of the vote.

FIGHT ON ISSUES

Asked if his group would continue to support the minority government on all occasions to avoid an election, he replied:

"We will fight on issues."

Asked if he did not believe that the threat of an election would force him to support the government at all times, he replied:

"No, because there may be a breakdown in the morality of the government or some other issue much greater than the issue of an election.

Nigerian Rule Solidified

LAGOS (AP) — Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi announced Friday night the formation of a two-pronged military government with himself as president and supreme commander controlling the entire administration of Nigeria.

The strongman, who took over from the former civilian government last weekend, named the heads of the Nigerian army, navy and air force as his top advisers.

An official statement by Aguiyi-Ironsi said the military regime would consist of two organs — the supreme military council and a federal executive council.

Aguiyi-Ironsi appointed himself president of both.

There still is no word on the whereabouts of former prime minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, kidnapped by army mutineers on the first day of the coup attempt. Some fear he has been killed.

Strike Hits Ontario's Industry

TORONTO (CP) — The gaint squeeze of a truckers' strike began to close in on industry in Ontario early today with one automobile plant scheduled to shut down and another expressing uneasiness.

Many other firms dependent on trucks for supplies and parts prepared to deal with a situation in which they would have to close down or arrange for other means of supply.

Jack Nickell, public relations man with the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, said virtually every industry in Ontario depends on truck delivery for some of its component parts.

Oil Contract Restores Peace

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor peace came to British Columbia's troubled oil industry Friday with the signing of a contract by British American Oil Co. and striking employees of its marketing division here.

The contract promised at least two year's peace in the industry, in turmoil since last summer.

The signing came almost three months after the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC) signed contracts with the other major refineries in B.C.

The new contract is based mainly on proposals put forth Nov. 23 by the provincial government just 13 hours before the union deadline for a province-wide strike by oil workers.

The strike deadline would also have signalled the start of a 48-hour general work stoppage in the province called by the B.C. Federation of Labor in support of the oil workers.

The strike proposal was widely supported by B.C. labor unions.

However, the illegality of the general strike was stressed by Ed Lawson, president of the powerful Teamsters joint council for B.C.

His union refused to go along, but instead promised to declare all oil products hot and not handle them should the oil workers strike.

Premier Bennett was author of the settlement formula that lifted the threat of a full-scale oil strike and general strike.

It provided a key to the biggest stumbling block in negotiations—the protection of workers' jobs against the effects of automation.

The oil industry dispute had its roots in contract negotiations which opened last summer across Canada.

By August, the unions had turned down a majority conciliation report and voted to strike.

its responsibility, no one is going to support it."

His party, he recalled, had voted against the minority government in the last parliament and, he warned, it would do it again.

PEOPLE APPROVED

He claimed that if an election were called based on a government defeat yesterday, the Liberals would have been given a majority by the people.

"Any party that forces an election now will be destroyed," he said. "The people won't stand for it."

TORY MOTION

Tory Leader John Diefenbaker berated Mr. Thompson, but reserved his main fire for another speech in the throne speech debate early next week.

The Commons faces another non-confidence vote Tuesday, based on a Tory motion that the pension should be raised at age sixty-nine, sliding down to sixty-five by 1970.

He accused the Socreds of hypocrisy. 9nd his hypocrisy was never more clearly shown than in February, 1963, when the Socreds felled the Diefenbaker minority government.

It was further evidence, he charged, that a multiplicity of political parties was bad for parliamentary democracy.

MEANT NOTHING

In his speech, earlier, Mr. Thompson had argued that to vote for the motion meant nothing at all because the result would be an election and the pensioners would not get their increase.

NDP HEATED

Socred Bert Leboe said: "I feel good about the vote. The people of Canada don't want an election and that would have been the result of voting against the government."

New Democrat Stanley Knowles, whose party had moved to topple the government said heatedly:

NO ELECTION

"We wanted to beat them. To have beaten them would have established a principle, that Mr. Pearson would not call an election just because he was defeated.

"We should be able to express our opinions without the threat of an election. That is what we are fighting for.

"There would not have been an election."

Boyd Named President

The Luxton 4-H Poultry Club named Gordon Boyd president at a recent meeting.

Other officers elected were: Steven Sorenson, vice-president; Elizabeth Williams, secretary; Bruce Hamilton, recreation director; Kenneth Paterson, telephone convener; Ross Hamilton, social director; Brian New, publicity chairman.

No. 1 Health Problem

Accident Rate Critical, Doctor Tells Conference

MONTREAL (CP) — A panel of doctors Friday described injuries resulting from automobile accidents as "by far the most important health problem in Canada."

Dr. Kenneth Wilson, associate professor of clinical surgery at the University of Ottawa, said traffic injuries are "the No. 1 cause of death among Canadians between 18 and 55 years of age."

Dr. Wilson said the number of fatal and non-fatal injuries has been rising at a rate of 11 per cent every year for the last six years.

This was ahead of the rate of increase in population, in the number of vehicles on the roads and in the millions of miles travelled.

The doctor was one of a group of specialists who discussed traffic injuries during the annual meeting of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada.

The estimated cost of traffic accidents in 1964, all factors considered, was "in excess of $4,000,000,000," said Dr. Wilson, who also heads the Traffic Injury Research Foundation of Canada.

4,800 DEAD

In 1965, 4,800 Canadians were killed in auto accidents and 149,500 were injured.

Dr. Wilson said drivers are responsible for almost all accidents that occur.

He said he and other specialists in Canada plan research on the physical and mental health of drivers involved in accidents, and on the effects of impairment brought about by alcohol "or other chemicals."

ADVANCES

"These are major factors in driver-failure," he said.

Dr. Fraser Gurd, professor of surgery at McGill University, Montreal, said internal injuries in traffic accidents now are not always fatal as in the past.

This was partly the result of progress made in research on such matters as shock—a subject of intensive study at Montreal hospitals.

Dr .B. F. Campbell of Cornell University said in the United States in the last 30 years, there has been a "general decline" in the incidence of traffic accidents.

cern to the U.S. government that the numerous appeals to the Soviet government for a more reasonable, humanitarian disposition of this case were not heeded before it came to this tragic end."

The embassy said it had inquired at 3 p.m. Friday on the status of a clemency appeal filed with Soviet authorities on behalf of Mott's parents when an earlier appeal against the sentence had been denied.

There was no action reported then, an embassy spokesman said. But three hours later an embassy representative was called to the Soviet foreign ministry and the following statement was read:

"Competent Soviet organs informed the ministry that American citizen Newcomb Mott, sentenced by the Murmansk Oblast court on Nov. 24, 1965, to 1½ years deprivation of freedom for violating the state border of the U.S.S.R., on the night of Jan. 20-21 this year while en route to the place where the sentence would be served committed suicide, having cut his throat.

Cyclist Recovering After Accident

Ian McConnell, 2740 Eastdowne, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with head injuries received when he was thrown from his motorcycle at Douglas and Dallas.

Frank Cherry, 634 Avalon, received leg and internal injuries when he was in collision with a car on Dallas.

and within two days, the strike spread to B-A plants in Clarkson, Ont., Saskatoon and Kamloops, B.C.

Two weeks later it had reached a Shell Canada Ltd. refinery at St. Boniface, Man., and an Imperial Oil Co. refinery here.

The OCAW set Nov. 15 as the deadline for extending the strike to all oil companies in B.C. and the B.C. Federation of Labor said all petroleum products would be declared hot if the strike spread.

At the last minute the oil workers postponed the deadline to Nov. 24 and the BCFL called for all affiliated unions to refuse to handle hot oil products, or to "withdraw services" for 48 hours in the case of workers not normally handling oil products.

This "withdrawal of services" was construed by management, government and public to mean a general strike although unions did not use that term.

Thirteen hours before the strike deadline the government called the union, companies and press to a meeting.

The settlement was to put to them for the first time and before the day was out all had agreed to use the formula as a basis for further negotiations. The strike was called off.

The government proposals were for a labor-management standing automation committee, six months' notice of layoffs due to automation, company-government retraining of employees displaced by automation, and a week's severance pay for every year of service up to 26 weeks for employees discharged because of automation.

It also proposed a wage increase of 35 cents an hour on a base rate of $2.75 an hour over a two-year contract.

Contracts were signed a short time later with all major companies except B-A where seniority clauses and other local issues blocked a settlement.

Contracts were subsequently signed at Clarkson and Kamloops and several weeks ago the independent gas and oil workers union went back to work at the B-A refinery here.

Stowaway On Plane

An airlines' spokesman said the stowaway was discovered hiding in the plane's lavatory. It was decided that the plane would continue on instead of returning here. The name of the stowaway was not given, but he was identified as a soldier from Ft. Lewis, south of here. He was not in uniform.

lethargy and lack of interest in the face of criminal infiltration in this country he must look a little higher than the RCMP," he said.

Mr. Nielsen referred to the $2,000,000 in bankruptcy frauds in Ontario and Quebec in 1964.

"Not only has the government failed to apprehend the wrongdoers, but they have acted as though the wrongdoing does not even exist.

"Business is being mulcted of millions upon millions of dollars annually, not only in Quebec but in every province . . . in Quebec we have witnessed the wholesale extermination of witnesses.

"In Ontario, Quebec and other provinces there has been evidence of a movement into Canada of individuals who by their background and record of activities are well known in the field of crime," he said.

Mr. Nielsen also made several bitingly sarcastic remarks about Prime Minister Pearson.

He opened his remarks by stating: "The Prime Minister spoke for about two hours during this debate, yet said nothing. Indeed he deserves the prize of the year for fiction."

He reffered to Mr. Pearson as going to Nigeria and "posturing as the great peacemaker" while thousands in the Yukon and Northwest Territories are denied voting rights.

Mr. Nielsen argued that the Yukon should be started on the way to its own responsible Government.

"It is no good the prime minister becoming an expert on retroactive virtue. It is no good his going to Lagos and speaking about the same ills confronting our own northern Canadians, and then coming back and completely forgetting them," he said.

Noticeable Warning Signs Herald Artery Trouble

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Does hardening of the arteries in one part of the body mean that the same thing is taking place in other areas? Or can this be a spotty thing? Does the process ever reverse itself?—H.M.D.

There are two kinds of hardening of the arteries. One involves the middle of the three layers which make up an artery. The fibrous tissue accumulates calcium deposits and such arteries become "hard." They become quite rigid and can be felt in such spots as a wrist. X-rays depict them clearly because of the calcium.

'RED HERRING'

The other type of hardening, called atherosclerosis, is the red herring. The arteries don't become rigid. Calcium does not gather. Without the calcium, an X-ray does not show a clear picture unless some added procedure is used, such as injecting a dye into the artery so it will show up on an X-ray film.

Instead, the problem here is not actual hardening, but rather the presence of plaques or clumps of fatty material at one or more points in the artery, just as rust or sludge may form into a deposit inside a water pipe.

DEPOSITS

If this clump or plaque becomes large enough, then it can cut off circulation somewhere, or reduce the flow of blood and cause trouble.

If circulation is completely shut off, that creates a problem. If it is in some part of the arteries which serve the heart muscle, the result is a heart attack. If in the brain, it is a stroke. It can occur elsewhere, of course. In the foot, the result will be gangrene. In the kidney, high blood pressure or other difficulty will ensue.

The calcium-type of real hardening tends to be rather general in the body, not that some arteries won't be harder than others.

The atherosclerosis, or fatty plaques, may occur more especially in one part of the body, or may occur in several areas, although real trouble may develop in one place and not in others.

RECOVERY

If a blockage occurs, the patient may very well recover, perhaps developing some collateral circulation (enlargement of other vessels in the same area, to make up for the circulation which has been lost) and thenceforth have adequate circulation for years to come.

Difficulty from hardening of the arteries in one spot does not necessarily mean that you are going to have the same trouble elsewhere.

Oldtimers' Grandstand Lost to Progress

Nanaimo residents had their last free show from Scotchman Bluff when Mayor Pete Maffeo set off first charge which blasted ground for new shopping centre. Bluff is said to get its name from habit of spectators using it to get a free look at ball games in park. Old-timers say early residents, many of whom came from Scotland to the coal mines here, used to brag about getting a free view of ball games. —(Agnes Flett)

TIMBER STANDS

Equipped with new log loaders, huge trucks and steel yarding spars, it will be Mac-Powell's 19th logging operation, and its log production will supply expanded production facilities at the company's Alberni pulp and paper division and Alberni plywood division.

Logging will be carried out in rugged terrain in the Museum Creek and Corrigan Creek areas. some of the timber is within the E. and N. land grant and was purchased by the company last year, said Mr. Chisholm. The stands also include timber owned previously by the company.

APPOINTMENTS

Don Dowsley has been appointed manager of the Cameron Division, J. E. Herman has been named general foreman, and R. V. Jack has been appointed divisional engineer. E. E. Patterson will become personnel and safety supervisor, and A. T. Bishop will be divisional accountant.

In preparation for the start of logging operations, ten miles of road have been constructed by the company and a log dump is nearing completion on the Alberni Canal, not far from the mouth of China Creek.

LOGGING ROAD

An additional 28 miles of logging road will be built by the company this year to provide access to the timber.

All employees in the division will reside in the Alberni area and hence be able to commute between home and the logging operations.

Of Mac-Powell's 18 other logging operations, 10 are located on Vancouver Island, seven are located on the B.C. mainland coast, and one is located in the Queen Charlotte Islands, off the north coast of British Columbia.

African's Death Sentence Remains

Reprieve 'Just Political'

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—The Rhodesian government charged Friday Queen Elizabeth's reprieve for an African under a sentence of death for arson was "a political move designed to embarrass the Rhodesian government.

Officials branded the reprieve, granted by the Queen Thursday as an "illegal act" and said the matter would be settled by the Rhodesian government.

The African, identified only as Lazarus, was convicted under a Rhodesian maintenance of law and order statute and sentenced to death. The Queen commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

NOT RECOGNIZED

Normally a reprieve would have been granted by the Governor of Rhodesia, Sir Humphrey Gibbs, acting for the Queen on the advice of a Rhodesian minister. But since Britain does not recognize the regime of Ian Smith, the order was issued from London.

"On such flimsy information as can have been available, it (the reprieve) was quite irresponsible," a Rhodesian government statement said.

"It goes much further than that because here a man's life is at stake and the British government have used it for their own political ends quite obviously with the intention of trying to undermine law and order in Rhodesia and to interfere with local security.

"It must be made quite clear that the Rhodesian government does not recognize the authority of the British government to interfere in Rhodesian affairs and regards the so-called exercise of royal prerogative in this instance an illegal act. . . .

'IT'S A PITY'

"Nobody can deny that it is a political move designed to embarrass the Rhodesian government and it is a pity that once again the British government has shown its willingness to embroil Her Majesty the Queen in politics.

"The case of Lazarus will be placed before the executive council in due course and will be dealt with in the normal way." The statement added that the British government "knows full well that it has neither the authority nor power to see its decision carried out in Rhodesia."

Salisbury Is City of 'Some Day' Where Africans Are Ignored

By DAVE McINTOSH

SALISBURY (CP) — The capital of Rhodesia is a handsome 75-year-old city of about 325,000, well laid out with wide, clean streets and modern buildings and pretty parks of umbrella cabbage and wait-a-bit trees.

The main white area is northeast of the city proper, the industrial area southwest. This has created more of a hardship of gasoline rationing, imposed as a result of oil embargoes that followed Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence.

The city gives the impression of comfort and wealth for the whites. The Africans live well out of town in allocated areas and they provide the cheap labor by which the white man has built an economic fortress in central Africa and where he is guarding the ramparts of his privilege.

Why, Africans use the same lavatory as I do," an office worker in the main government building said with some pride. But on downtown Baker Avenue a sign over a public lavatory says "Europeans only." And in the Rhodes cinema a similar notice proclaims: "Gentlemen all races; Europeans only downstairs."

Still there is little or none of the apartheid, or racial separation, as practised in South Africa.

"Oh, it's really different up here," said a white visitor from Johannesburg. "In South Africa, if a white man is injured in a car accident you call a certain number for an ambulance. If it's a black man who is hurt you call a different number.

Conscience Hurt

"In my country some of the Africans have to get up at 3 a.m. and walk five hours to get to work in time. And they walk five hours to get home.

"It's not fair. It afflicts my conscience. And if I said that publicly at home I'd be put in jail for 180 days without charge."

A Rhodesian expressed shock at a recruiting advertisement for the South African police force which appeared in the Jan. 9 issue of the Johannesburg Sunday Times.

It showed a fierce-looking police dog being held by a fiercer-looking white policeman supposedly protecting three elderly (white) women. The two together—man and dog—form a formidable combination against crime, says the ad.

Though Rhodesians decry South Africa's racial policy, they don't—at least publicly—mention any time at which the African here might expect to obtain majority rule, although occasionally a vague reference to 30 years is heard.

Franchise Vote

There are 4,000,000 Africans and 224,000 whites in Rhodesia. The Rhodesians are fond of telling visitors that Africans have had the vote here since 1923. This is true but they glide over the fact that the franchise has education and income qualifications attached.

Only a few hundred Africans have the required education or earn the required income (about $1,000 a year) to vote.

Fifteen of the 65 seats in the legislature are set aside for Africans.

Even Rhodesians strongly opposed to Ian Smith's rebel government say the blacks are incapable of taking over the government now or for years. A few concede this is because no African holds any kind of responsible position in the government or public service.

The fact is that Rhodesia is run by whites for whites, and the whites believe this is because they made the country rich by their own sweat as well as by the use of cheap black labor.

As a Kenya settler said the other day during a visit here: "Something has to give eventually and the Rhodesian Europeans must accept African majority rule as we did in Kenya, happily as it turned out."

Maybe Some Day

But the Rhodesian's attitude is not today, not tomorrow, maybe some day. And he hopes some day will never come.

The Africans themselves aren't militant but there is hostility in their eyes. Joshua Nkomo, leader of the Zimbabwe (the African's name for Rhodesia) African People's Union, is in Gonakydzingwa detention camp.

Some whites prefer to try the impossible and ignore the blacks. For example, a Canadian asked a Rhodesian what the population of Salisbury is.

"About 75,000," he replied.

The Canadian expressed amazement that such a large city would have so few people.

"Oh, there are the blacks, too," he said.

Treasure-Hunter Keeps Up Hopes

OAK ISLAND, N.S. (CP)—Treasure - seeker Robert Dunfield said Friday he was disappointed to learn a substance from a drill hole turned out 90 per cent gypsum, but he said it could be a good sign in efforts to uncover legendary pirate loot.

Mr. Dunfield, said in an interview the gypsum was discovered by drilling to 140 feet below the surface of this tiny Mahone Bay island.

Shafts to that depth and deeper in the same area were free of gypsum and he said his drills may have struck an isolated piece of the material buried there by man.

Meanwhile, his drills Friday bored through a so-called flood tunnel which treasure hunters claim was built to flood the money pit with sea water. Mr. Dunfield said his next move will be to plug the tunnel so that water will be unable to reach the main pit which he hopes to start digging again soon.

Doughty Ducks Won't Budge

CALGARY (CP)—A program to trap, crate and truck about 5,000 doughty wintering ducks out of Calgary for warmer, southern climates is expected to start today.

The die-hard ducks, who should have flown south long ago with their brothers, have refused to be budged despite sub-zero cold and explosive noise-makers set off by government biologists.

The ducks are nesting mainly near the Inglewood Bird Sanctuary in east-end Calgary.

Fanfani Getting Back?

Premier Moro Resigns

ROME (AP)—Aldo Moro resigned unexpectedly as premier of Italy Friday, barely 12 hours after snipers in his own Christian Democrat party defeated him in Parliament.

As is the custom in Italian political crises, President Giuseppe Saragat reserved decision and asked Moro to stay on as caretaker premier.

Saragat will start consultations today to canvass opinion on who to designate as premier. They will continue for several days.

The downfall of the Moro coalition government came 24 days after Amintore Fanfani quit as Italy's foreign minister and, in a speech to his fellow Christian Democrats, demanded a full-fledged government reshuffle. Such a reshuffle could bring Fanfani back to the premiership. He has been premier four times.

The latest political crisis exploded in Parliament just before midnight Thursday night.

A Moro administration bill to establish state nursery schools was voted down, 250 to 231, in a secret ballot.

It was evident that members of Moro's own party had voted against him. This was especially obvious since only the night before Moro had made a preliminary voice vote on the same bill a matter of confidence. With the deputies forced to stand up and be counted, Moro won, 317 to 232. But under the cloak of secrecy some of his own party colleagues turned their backs on him.

Fanfani's resignation Dec. 28 as foreign minister brought the first signs of trouble for Moro.

No, Mamie, It's Not a Tag-Team Match

Wrestling for real is quite a bit different than the professional variety but even the amateurs can get themselves into some unlikely positions. This tangle of arms and legs came about in Denver when member of visiting Japanese high school all-star team engaged another 115-pounder, from a combined Colorado-Wyoming team. If you think you can count five arms you're right. That extra one belongs to the referee.—(AP)

Leafs to Try New Line Against Blades Tonight

There'll be a few changes tonight when Victoria Maple Leafs try to extend their Western Hockey League lead to six points against Los Angeles Blades at Memorial Arena.

KEENAN ON WING

Victoria coach Frank Mario, who is still without defenceman Sandy Hucul and leftwinger Dick Lamoureaux and yesterday lost Rollie Wilcox to Rochester Americans, plans to make some experimental changes on two of his forward lines.

	GP	W	L	T	F	A	Pts
VICTORIA	38	25	10	3	145	110	53
Portland	38	23	12	3	144	96	49
Vancouver	40	19	20	1	123	120	39
Seattle	40	17	22	1	120	138	35
San Francisco	34	13	19	2	96	117	28
Los Angeles	41	13	28	0	118	140	26
*—WHL vs AHL	41	18	20	3	123	126	—

Larry Keenan, who started out as a leftwinger and last season got 35 goals as a centre for the Leafs, will get a chance to try the starboard side.

Keenan, whose eye injury suffered Wednesday night turned out to be a minor hurt, will lineup on an attacking unit with John Sleaver and Lou Jankowski.

With Wilcox, who had been replacing Lamoureux, gone to Rochester to fill in for the injured Stan Smrke, it seems that rightwinger Steve Witiuk will be a portsider tonight on a line to be completed by two of the remaining three forwards—Dave Parenteau, Mike Labadie and Gordie Redahl.

STILL INTACT

Intact is the Milan Marcetta-Bob Barlow-Andy Hebenton line which has already scored 60 goals and was back at old-time production Wednesday with Marcetta showing little sign of being handicapped by the injury which kept him out of action for almost two weeks.

"We'll try it this way and see how it goes," Mario said last night. "We have to make whatever moves seem best to keep on winning, we have to keep on winning to stay ahead, and it is becoming more difficult to win."

BLADES WHIPPED

It didn't make him feel any more secure to learn that the Blades had taken a 6-1 whipping last night in Vancouver.

"They," he said of the Blades, "beat Portland on Thursday and they gave us a bad time the last time we played them. They're in a position where they have to start winning to make a playoff move and they're not going to be easy."

Billy McNeill and Gordie Vejprava showed the way for Canucks last night in a wide-open game in which the Blades got well beaten although managing 41 shots at Gilles Villemure.

McNeill got two goals and drew an assist to move into second place in the individual scoring race with 50 points, one more than Marcetta and three fewer than Cliff Schmautz.

Vejprava scored twice as Canucks maintained their hex of the league's two California clubs. They have beaten the Blades six times and San Francisco four times without losing to either.

In Rochester, Seattle Totems couldn't stop the "production" line of rookie Mike Walton and veterans Dick Gamble and Jim Pappin and took a 4-0 setback in an interlocking game which put the American Hockey League ahead for the season, 20-19-2.

Pappin had a goal and three assists, Walton a goal and two assists and Gamble, the AHL scoring leader, a goal and an assist.

It was the second shutout of the season for goalkeeper Gary Smith and the second loss in three games for the Totems on their six-game swing through the AHL.

Victoria or Fairbanks? Decision on Series Soon

If park facilities are up to tournament standards, Victoria has an "excellent chance" to be host city for the 1967 Babe Ruth League baseball world series in 1967.

That was the word yesterday from Richard W. Case, executive vice-president of Babe Ruth Inc., who was in Victoria along with international-director J. Jervey Gantt for a final discussion with local officials.

The two executives for Babe Ruth Inc., which has headquarters in Trenton, N.J., arrived here after visiting Fairbanks, Alaska, the only other city in the running for the tournament.

"It's between the two of you now," Case explained. "We will make up reports on presentations by both cities and they will be voted upon by members of our international executive. A decision should be reached by Feb. 15."

Case based his estimate of Victoria's chances in part on plans he had seen for the new Royal Athletic Park on a previous visit here.

However, the all-important matter of lights for the new park is still to be decided. Light standards at a cost of $100,000, were included in the original plans, then pared off to cut expenses back to within allocated funds.

Mayor A. W. Toone told The Colonist last night that he plans to meet with the firm of consulants who presented the original estimates, probably on Monday, to see what new figures they may present.

"But so far as I know there are not sufficient funds to provide the lights and stay within the limits of available funds," he said.

Almost-Unnoticed Texan Slips Into Crosby Lead

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) While thousands watched others, Texan Don Massengale slipped into the lead in the $104,500 Bing Crosby golf tournament Friday with a four-under-par 67 and a 36-hole total of 137.

Massengale and Yancey each played the same course where most of the crowd of about 20,000 congregated to watch Arnold Palmer, Tony Lema, Billy Casper and Jack Nicklaus.

Palmer, Lema and Casper all faded in the stretch. After being five-under-par at one point, Palmer had to settle for a one-under par 70 and a 140 total. Lema came in with a 72 for 142, while Casper lost five strokes to par on the final four holes and carded a 74 for a 145 total.

STARTED EARLY

Palmer, Lema and Casper started early when the greens were frozen. Nicklaus was in the final group off the tee on a sunny day and came in with even-par 71 for a 144.

Another Texas pro, Billy Martindale, and his amateur partner, Bob Roos of San Francisco, took over the pro-am division lead with a best-ball 62 and 125 net.

Messengale started his par-breaking Friday by chipping in from 25 feet on the second hole. He curled in the long putt on the 370-yard fifth and finished the first nine with a 34. An 18-footer dropped for a birdie at the 10th and a seven-footer at the 13th. He three-putted the 16th and went one over par and then dropped a 25-foot birdie putt on the next hole.

TIED FOR FOURTH

Al Geiberger, the first-round leader with 68, tangled with the tough Pebble Beach course Friday and come out with a two-over-par 74 and a 142 total, tying Lema for fourth place behind Massengale, Yancey and Palmer.

Drysdale and Al Besselink carded 62-64 for a 126 and a second-place tie while Koufax and Ken Still were in the group at 127 with 63-64. Besselink had a 77-148 on his own ball and was helped 13 strokes by Drysdale in the second round. Still had 72-143. Both pitchers are playing with handicaps of 18 in this event.

CANADIAN SCORES

BALDNIG HITS 70

Second best among the Canadian competitors was Al Balding of Toronto, whose 70 gave him a two-round score of 147.

Jerry Magee of Toronto shot a 77 for 157 and veteran Stan Leonard of Vancouver an 82 for 159.

In the only all-Canadian partnership, Leonard and Vancouver amateur Jack Sim had a best ball 74 and 141 total.

Entry forms for the third annual Vancouver Island Fivepin Bonspiel, sponsored by The Daily Colonist, will be available today, and early interest indicates it should hit the maximum 128 entries.

The bonspiel, in which fivepin teams of four bowlers play against each other in three events for a total of $1,500 in prize money, runs March 18-19-20 at Gibson's Recreations, with semi-finals and finals March 26.

Competition is on a handicap basis and open to men's women's or mixed teams. Entry fee is $10 per team, and entries close March 11.

Because handicaps will be based on averages as of midnight tonight, entries will not actually be accepted until tomorrow.

Closing date for entries in the Victoria Tenpin Association tournament is midnight, Jan. 31, and teams wishing any choice in the matter of shift times are advised to hurry.

Entry forms, with all entry fees, may be turned in at either Mayfair Lanes or Aurora Lanes. No entry money must accompany the completed entry form.

Foster Loses 11th Spot In Time Runs

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—A sharp assault on the clock was staged at the Riverside Raceway Friday with Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., coming up with the best qualifying time for Sunday's $75,000 race.

Yarborough, driving a 1966 Ford around the 2.7-mile circuit, made the distance in 1:32.96 at a speed of 104.56 miles per hour.

Yarborough's run, made only 20 minutes before the day's qualifying runs ended, bumped Billy Foster of Victoria out of the 11th-place berth.

A. J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., pushed his new Ford around the course at 103.33 mph to qualify for 13th place.

Blind Student On Sprint Team

In his first start, William J. "Billy" Callahan of South Portland was clocked at 7.7 seconds. The winning time was 5.2.

Bill cut his time to 6.9 in practice this week, hopes to get it down to 6.5 by season's end and plans to do the 100-yard dash outdoors in the spring.

Billy has also tried water skiing and does some target shooting.

Mantle Needs Operation

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle told New York Yankee officials Friday he has a bone chip in the joint of his right shoulder and will have to undergo surgery next Tuesday.

Mantle telephoned Yankee general manager Ralph Houk from the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., where he has been this week for tests on the previously mysterious ailment.

The star baseball outfielder told Houk he will enter the hospital at the clinic sometime Monday, and the operation will take place Tuesday morning. Mantle said he hopes to be ready to play when spring training starts March 1. That would give him five weeks in which to recover.

Mantle decided to go to Mayo Clinic after doctors in New York and Dallas, Tex., where he lives in the off-season, could find no reason for the ailment in his right shoulder. X-rays last season and in the last few months showed nothing wrong.

Pine Point

Shares Sizzling Drilling Chilly

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

While the temperature for Pine Point stocks was sizzling hot on the stock exchange, drilling operations on the spot by various companies were taking place at 50 below zero.

Friday's chapter of events saw the suspension in trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange of one stock which had been a spectacular trader earlier this week and the sharp rise of another stock which is reported to be in drilling difficulties.

Vancouver Stock Exchange president Jack Van Luven suspended trading in Rolling Hills until such time as it was able to produce a certified assay of its drill cores.

The decision followed a statement Thursday by Earl Glick, Rolling Hills president, in which he said mineralization had been penetrated but that until assays were made it could not be said that it had commercial value.

Mr. Glick said Friday that he had been misinterpreted and that he had given no opinion as to the value of the cores.

NEXT WEEK

It is expected that an assay will be available some time next week and until then Rolling Hills will remain "untradable."

The stock rose from $1.13 to $2.90 during the week and closed Thursday at $2.25.

PAT SILVER'S TURN

With Rolling Hills off the board temporarily, traders turned to Patricia Silver which started drilling last week on its Pine Point property.

Soon after the opening, Pat Silver rose from $1.58 to $2.90, and only shaded off to $2.10 when a telephone interview with the drilling operator at the site revealed that drilling was behind schedule in the 50 below temperatures and that the overburden had not yet been pierced.

Louis Cadesky, superintendent of operations, said he knew no reason why the company's shares had sky-rocketed.

EXCITEMENT INTENSE

Excitement was intense in local board rooms where it was standing room only for most of the trading session "It is quite fantastic the amount of business we are handling," said the manager of one of Victoria's largest offices.

"All our lines are working at capacity and we ae trading practically every mining stock on the Vancouver board," he said.

"It puts any previous B.C. mining boom in the shade. It is not just a case of activity in one or two issues."

Another office said it was doing as much business in the unlisted over-the-counter stocks as it was doing in the listed ones.

CAPACITY EXPANDED

Texas Gulf Sulphur is to step up the capacity of its mine-mill operation at Timmins, Ont., from 6,000 tons a day to 9,000 tons.

The announcement made by C. O. Stephens, president of the U.S. company, said that the cost would be $60,000,000 and the concentrator will be put into partial production by October.

Texas Gulf sparked the Timmins mining boom of 1964 when it uncovered a rich silver, zinc and copper deposit.

MORE CABLE NEEDED

Aluminum Company of Canada is installing two new cable stranding machines at its Richmond plant at a cost of $500,000.

The new machines will step up production capacity of high-voltage aluminum electrical transmission cable.

The expansion has been ordered to meet anticipated increased demands for electrical conductor resulting from the large hydro-electric developments under way in B.C. and the Prairie Provinces.

The Richmond plant has been expanded on several occasions since it commenced aluminum fabrication in 1957.

KRUGER TO BUILD

Kruger Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd. is to build a pulp-newsprint operation at St' Felicien, 150 miles north of Quebec City, at a cost of $75,000,000.

The newsprint mill will have an initial capacity of 100,000 tons a year, rising to 200,000 tons, and the kraft pulp mill will have a rated capacity of 280,000tons a year.

Work on the newsprint mill will start this spring and on the pulp mill in 1968.

The company will draw its supply from Crown-granted timber and by purchases of pulp wood from local suppliers.

Canadians Aren't Prepared For Industrial Revolution

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

TORONTO — Canada needs an educational and training revolution to cope with the technological age, Finance Minister Sharp told the Woodsworth Conference on poverty and planning Friday.

"Canadians are seriously under-educated and undertrained to operate the kind of technological society we are developing today," he said. "To meet the need of 20 years hence . . . we are critically unprepared."

"Without a revolution in education and training, we just cannot continue to operate the industries on which our national well-being depends.

TEACHING CHANGES

"Canada needs new ways of teaching, attracting and motivating many Canadians who are not able to adjust to our present education systems," he said.

Mr. Sharp pointed out that one out of 12 Canadians of university age are taking higher education, while half of the Americans of appropriate age are in university.

"Another discouraging figure is that 30 per cent of young Canadians between the ages of 14 and 24 have left school with only grade eight education without apparent intention of returning. These are tomorrow's poor," he said.

METHODS CHANGE

In the past, Mr. Sharp said, governments have met the poverty problem by promoting economic growth and paying social security.

"Desirable as both objectives are, they will not themselves solve poverty. There remains a substantial minority of poor as high in absolute numbers as during the great depression.

"To the extent that poverty is a relative term, they are poorer than ever," he said.

He said government policy must now take in a third dimension—provision of social opportunity.

This is done, he said, by promoting economic growth in designated areas and helping workers to move from poor areas to developing areas.

Sharp

He stressed that "the best possible government measures will be useful only if the people who need them are able to take advantage of them.

"While there will always be a place for conventional forms of charity, the cycle of poverty will not be broken until the poor themselves become involved in the solution of their own problems.

"To the extent that they manage their own affairs and obtain the self respect that goes with this, they will become less and less a burden to society.

"Community development on a national scale must be an important element in an effective program," he said.

MEDICARE

Mr. Sharp repeated the federal government's intention of producing a comprehensive health services plan available to all Canadians.

"Ill health is a big factor in poverty. A sick man cannot work or improve his earning power. It is the poor who most often fall prey to serious health problems," he said.

Horror Exhibit Runs Overtime

The display includes bigger-than-life photographs, a movie film, atrocity documents, prison uniforms, and Zyklon-B gas cans used in the camp's four gas chambers.

A West Berlin city spokesman said Thursday 20,000 West Berliners already had seen the exhibit which is being held over another month because of the interest shown.

The Berlin showing is being sponsored by the city government, political parties, youth groups and labor unions.

A man of 51 was asked why he had come. "I came to satisfy my own curiosity," he said. "I was a soldier for six years and I knew little of what happened behind the front at the time."

VIEW IN SILENCE

Asked how he viewed the question of collective guilt, the man answered. "Yes, we Germans are guilty. We did not do enough to hinder what happened."

An attendant at the exhibit said most visitors view the death-camp display in "absolute silence."

100,000,000 Will Feel Pinch

Hunger Demonstrations Spread in Indian State

NEW DELHI (AP) — Hunger demonstrations spread in southwest India Friday as the government disclosed more than 12,000,000 Indians are threatened with starvation in a looming food crisis.

A food ministry survey said all 12,000,000 must be fed in the hungry months ahead from special relief stocks of food and that some special camps will have to be set up.

At least 100,000,000 will feel the pinch of the "scarcity conditions" before the food crisis can be expected to end, a ministry spokesman said. The survey was compiled from statistics assembled by special food teams touring drought-stricken areas, especially in the west, the spokesman said.

WORST YET

He emphasized the statistics were as of the third week of December, and that more bad news may be forthcoming soon because there has been no rain or improvement.

JOINED DEMONSTRATIONS

The Samyukta United Socialist party sent a small protest group to the government secretariat in the capital of Trivandrum to demand larger food rations.

VIOLENCE

The Indian government has responded quickly to the food shortages in Kerala because political trouble there has a way of erupting into violence and spreading to adjoining states.

Special trains were rushing across India with 15,000 tons of rice from the northeastern state of Orissa. Rice is the food mainstay in Kerala.

Mrs. Indira Gandhi, the new prime minister, said Friday night she has discussed the food crisis with close advisers.

India, Pakistan Discuss Kashmir

Industry Slows Drastically

Cold Grips Britain

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP)—Gen. Mohammed Musa, Pakistan's army commander arrived in New Delhi Friday to discuss implementation of the limited peace agreement his country signed in India.

It was a moment of high drama as Musa landed in a Pakistani Air Force plane at Palam Airport—near where Pakistani paratroopers dropped in the Indian-Pakistani war last September.

Waiting by the ramp was India's army chief, Gen. J. N. Chauduri—Musa's opponent in the three-week war that cost thousands of lives on both sides.

WITHDRAWAL

The two officers now have the task of arranging a troop withdrawal from along the 1,500-mile ceasefir line stretching southwest-ward from Kashmir nearly to the Arabian Sea.

SIMILARITIES

Both officers served in the British Indian Army in the Second World War and before British India was partitioned into the independent nations of India and Pakistan in 1947. They were acquainted with each other in the old days.

SWAGGER STICKS

When they met Friday both spoke in English with the clipped military accent they learned under the British. Their uniforms and caps were of identical color and cut. Both clamped swagger sticks beneath their left arms.

Negotiations on the mechanics of the withdrawal start Saturday. There has been no indication how far back the two opposing armies will move or who will oversee the withdrawal.

Generals Looked the Same

By LAWRENCE MALKIN

LONDON (AP) — A thaw spread slowly across Western Europe Friday. Most of the Continent returned to normal while the British still struggled to recover from the winter's worst cold wave.

But more cold weather probably lies ahead. Long-range forecasts predicted that late January and early February would be colder than usual.

For the British, especially, this is bad news. Snow, freezing temperatures and freezing rain have raised havoc with industry, transport and the hospitals—and may even threaten the precarious position of the Labor government.

PLANTS CLOSED

Even though temperatures climbed above the freezing point—it was 37 degrees here Friday — about 450 plants are closed down in the industrial Midlands because of the failure of two gas plants. Some estimates put the number of idle workers as high as 200,000.

Worst hit is the auto industry, which is vital for Britain's exports and was 90-per-cent shut down. The Birmingham Chamber of Commerce called the situation "disastrous."

The gas situation is a political hot potato. Conservatives are planning to ask Wilson in Parliament what happened to his fuel emergency committee, set up after the power failures in the first cold wave earlier this winter.

The icy streets throughout Britain sent hundreds to hospital with fractures.

FLIGHTS DIVERTED

Roads are reported icy in 24 counties of England and Wales, but as the weather warmed up, a new hazard set in—fog. Some flights for London airport were diverted.

ICY ROADS

Across the rest of Europe, the worst problem seems to be icy roads.

Albernis Grit Teeth For Pollution Fight

By MARY TAYLOR

The Alberni Valley air pollution control meeting set for Sunday should have Nordley Centre bulging at the seams.

"This thing has simply snowballed," said George McKnight, one of the two men who called the public meeting after more than a week of what residents call the worst fallout they have ever seen here.

"But I'd like to make it clear the meeting is not a vendetta against MacMillan-Bloedel. It is directed at the representatives of the people, both locally and provincially, to get whatever action is needed to put an end to this mess.

More Printed

"The meeting is also to promote the anti-pollution petition we've been circulating.

"Although we had 250 forms originally, demand for them has grown so tremendously this week that we had to have more printed."

One family, Mr. McKnight said, had filled four pages with 36 signatures per page between Wednesday evening and Friday afternoon.

Women Active

Mrs. McKnight, in three brief afternoon calls around the valley, got 86 signatures and only one refusal.

"It appears the women are the main force behind the petition, but that's not surprising seeing they are the ones who have to clean up the mess," she said.

Downtown businessmen, while less likely than housewives to blame the company indiscriminately for the black, sticky soot, agreed that cleaning becomes a major and costly problem during severe fallout periods.

Cars Hard Hit

Said one dealer: "Several of us were discussing this cost matter. We figured it costs us $1.50 to $2 a day per car to keep them clean.

"If you have a garage you have to hose down the pump and front end daily, sometimes two or three times a day, and within three hours it's simply filthy again."

No Names

"The stuff filters through door and window casings, gets on upholstery and one way and another cost the dealers thousands of dollars a year," another said.

Like many of the residents of the valley, none interviewed wanted to be quoted by name.

'Good Wages'

"I've got nothing against the company," said one resident of a badly afflicted area close to the main business section. "I have worked for them for years. I like the job and they pay good wages.

"But I like to breathe too.

"None of us wants to speak out against the pollution because we nearly all work for the company."

'Just Like Us'

Another resident who freely admits he has sent samples of black smut from his front porch to city council and has twice written letters of protest to civic, provincial and federal representatives said: "I don't blame the company. They operate on a profit-and-loss basis.

"They are just like the rest of us. They won't do any more than they have to unless they are forced to.

Outspoken

Said one young mother: "I hear we have a new mill manager and his wife has not arrived here yet. I just hope she has five kids and her washing machine breaks down.

Another said: "The doctor told me to rest. But how can I rest when the floors need cleaning three times a day?"

No Officials

However, signs point to a protest meeting which Mac-Powell officials may not officially be attending.

Commening on a report that company officials would not attend because it had not been called by an organization but only by two private citizens, co-organizer Colin Wilson said:

"If the company and civic officials don't attend we can only feel it shows their contempt for the problems of the citizens of this area.

Spontaneous

"This meeting grew out of dozens of phone calls and letters to Mr. McKnight and myself and to the local radio stations after the matter was discussed on the air.

"The meeting did not need an organization to get it going. It grew spontaneously from the needs of the community."

Big Response for Protest Promises Packed Meeting

Mac-Powell

Firm Shifts Tax Battle

VANCOUVER (CP) — MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. has taken a new direction in its protest against a provincial tax levy on land purchased from the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway.

A portion of the Vancouver Island property, bought by Mac-Powell in 1964, has been assessed at $35,000,000 and an $8,000,000 tax has been levied on this assessment.

The company now has asked Mr. Justice Victor Dryer in supreme court to declare invalid the taxation notice. Mr. Justice Dryer has reserved decision.

The company says it is not seeking to avoid taxation, but claims it is entitled to have the tax levy based on the total tract purchase.

Purchase price for the entire tract was about $35,000,000.

Mr. Justice Dryer was told the firm's protest against the assessment figure before a court of revision has been postponed pending the outcome of the supreme court hearing.

Provincial government legislation requires that any land sold by the railway for purposes other than railway use is subject to a 25 per cent tax on its value.

The land was originally granted by the Canadian government in B.C.'s early days to encourage building of the railway on the island.

Indian Issues Outlined

Lack of Revenue Major Problem

A basic problem facing Indians on the Nanaimo reserve is lack of revenue.

Fifty-seven families live on 47 acres. This makes the cost of services, such as sewers, exorbitant without some form of taxation which his people don't have at the present time, Chief White told the Jaycees.

A plan has been drawn up to concentrate the residents in a smaller area, on land the size of city lots, where installation of services will be more practical, and lease the rest of the reserve for light industry to provide revenue.

However no definite decision has yet been made on this scheme, he said.

At one time 40 per cent of his people were on welfare, where a family of three received $45 per month.

"Show me an economist who with this amount can dress a child and send him to school to compete with others", he said.

Mrs. White was the main speaker of the evening. She saw no immediate end to either the reserve or the Department of Indian Affairs.

She said there were quite a few elderly people among the Indians, and the reserve is the only land they have. "They have spent their lives on this small parcel of land," she added.

The home environment, she maintained, kept the Indian child back, where there is no room to study, and parents are uneducated, not appreciating the need for schooling.

Cargoes Around World

Nanaimo's Harbor Busy During 1965

NANAIMO — During 1965, 333 ships loaded or discharged cargos in Nanaimo Harbor. In addition 28 ore carriers cleared the port from Texada Island.

These figures were released Thursday afternoon in the Nanaimo Harbor Commission's report for 1965.

HEAVY EXPORTS

Exports for the year from both the Nanaimo assembly wharf and Harmac wharves included 271,724,308 board feet of lumber, 184,890 tons of pulp, 188 tons of toilet tissue, 274 tons of plywood, 41 tons of flour, 10 tons of boiler compound, 20 tons of kraft liner, 1,003 tons of newsprint, 6 tons of general cargo, 275 tons of unbleached sulphite, and 11 tons of clover seed.

Imports for 1965 were 13,962 tons of salt cake, and 98 tons of general cargo.

WHARF BUILT

The products went to countries ranging from the United Kingdom to the United States, Formosa and Korea.

Vessels from 21 nationalities called at Nanaimo, and among the more unusual were Haiti, Yugoslavia, and Spain.

Arena Model On Show

NORTH COWICHAN—A model of a $300,000 multi-purpose ice skating arena proposed as North Cowichan's centennial project and to be built at Fuller's Lake will go on display in the municipality.

The $300,000 for the streamlined, and large, structure will be part of a $600,000 composite recreation referendum that will be put before municipal voters this March.

Designer Peter Blewett of the Vancouver-Victoria firm Wade, Stockdill, Armour and Partners brought it over from Vancouver.

Recreation commission chairman and North Cowichan councillor Dennis Hogan said construction of the arena could start in June this year.

Mr. Blewett said depending on the contractor it could be completed in four months.

The building is 260 feet long and 112 feet wide, with an ice sheet of 210 feet by 85 feet.

It will have a seating capacity for 1,000 spectators and some of the features include ancillary accommodations, office, coffee bar and banquet room, changing rooms and skate shops.

Six Lost

Services Honor Children

PORT ALBERNI — Memorial services will be held Saturday at 4 p.m. in the Bamfield United Church for the six young Indians now presumed drowned over the Christmas holiday in the loss of the Nellie W.

Lost were Davis and Lillian Dennis, Richard and Mathew Dennis, Paul Tait and Joe Derrick.

ARRANGEMENTS

Arrangements have been made for friends and relatives to travel from the Alberni Valley aboard the Mv. Messenger 2, which will leave Port Alberni at 11 a.m. Saturday morning.

Art Peters, Chief Councillor of the Ohiaht band, and uncle of some of the victims, is in charge of travel arrangements aboard the Messenger, which will hold about 25 passengers.

Several ministers from the Alberni Valley will take part in the service, including Rev. Ed. Kempling, chairman of the Friendship Centre here.

Two Will Speak On Recreation

DUNCAN — Two speakers will discuss recreation at the Jan. 24 meeting of the Duncan-Alexander PTA at the Alexander activity room, at 8 p.m.

The speakers will be North Cowichan recreation commission chairman Coun. Dennis Hogan and city of Duncan recreation commission chairman Ronald Price.

Club Will Display Figure-Skating Skill

The skating carnival proposed for this year had to be cancelled due to bad weather in December and renewal of the Civic Arena floor, starting at the end of February.

The program will take place prior to the exhibition on Jan. 27.

Awaits New Tug

Biggest Barge Ready

PORT ALBERNI—The world's largest covered barge, the Nootka Carrier has arrived in Port Alberni harbor.

The huge barge, which has a capacity of 6,500 tons of newsprint, will be in harbor until the end of the month, the harbormaster said, while longshoremen are trained in the proper loading of the new vessel.

Built by Yarrows Ltd. for Macmillan Bloedel and Powell River Limited, the 356-foot barge will be joined later by a sister ship, the Nanoose Carrier.

The two barges will originate fast new service between Port Alberni and Powell River and California. When the specially-built tug that is to tow them arrives, round trips between the paper towns and California ports are expected to be completed in two weeks.

The Nootka Carrier will have 23,000 feet of cargo space, and will eventually be berthed at new company docks being specially constructed to accommodate the huge carriers.

Driver Fined

LADYSMITH — Fifty-three-year-old Duncan resident Stanley Tooshley was fined $200 and his driver's license was suspended for six months after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving. He was arrested by police here Thursday afternoon.

'Rate Revisions Not Enough'

Substantial Wage Hike IWA Contract Target

DUNCAN—Following completion of rate revisions in about 27 categories for coastal woodworkers who are members of the IWA, a union wages and contract conference at Vancouver, February 25 and 26 will determine the demands for a new contract.

The old contract will end in June.

"As far as the membership in Local 1-80, IWA, is concerned I am sure they will insist on a substantial wage increase which is long overdue in view of the fantastic profits the companies have been making during the past several years," said Local 1-80, IWA president Weldon Jubenville.

"NO SURPRISE"

Referring to a statement by L. G. Bentley, vice president of Canadian Forest Products Ltd., that there would be "no economic justification as ... industry goes for a raise this year," Mr. Jubenville said, his statement does not come as a surprise. However, he probably would have a different outlook if he worked as a chokerman or at the green chain.

"The only way the many B.C. communities can continue to prosper is to put a fair share of the profits of the natural resources into the hands of the people who make those profits possible."

Referring to the recently-completed rate revision negotiations, Mr. Jubenville said, "If Mr. Bently thinks increased wages for some skilled woodworkers from rate revisions is enough for the entire membership of the coastal Local I would like to remind him that this rate revision increase would amount to less than two cents an hour if it were spread across the entire IWA coastal membership of more than 28,000 people."

Delay Laid To Ottawa

NANAIMO — Lack of funds from the federal government.

This is the hold-up on demolition of the Vancouver Barge property at Commercial Inlet, said Chuck Madhill, chairman of the Nanaimo Harbor Commission.

H said he was hoping funds would be coming through soon from Ottawa so that work can start to provide more mooring facilities in the harbor.

Mr. Madhill was replying to complaints by Don Stevenson of the Pacific Trollers' Association of lack of mooring, car parking space and policing at Commercial Inlet.

Honolulu-bound are Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Olson, Beach Drive, pictured aboard the S.S. Lurline in Los Angeles harbor.

Founder's Day

Many to Attend PEO Coffee Fete

Approximately 175 guests are expected to attend the PEO Sisterhood's Founders' Day coffee party, to be held in the Georgian Lounge of the Empress Hotel today from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

It will celebrate the 97th anniversary of the sisterhood's founding which took place on Jan. 21, 1869, at Mount Pleasant, Iowa, when seven women students at Iowa Wesleyan College formed the initial college sorority. Later, when chapters were formed in various American and Canadian cities and towns, campus chapters were discontinued.

The sisterhood is a charitable and educational organization, mostly concerned with bringing women increased opportunities for higher education. This is achieved mainly through the PEO educational fund, Cottey Junior College for Women (a college founded in 1884 in Nevada, Miss., and owned and supported by the sisterhood since 1927) and the PEO international peace scholarship fund.

In relation with the latest project, the British Columbia chapters support three women students from India who are presently studying at the University of British Columbia.

Special guests at today's party will be Miss Linde Ley, a first-year student at the University of Victoria, who received this year's bursary of $150 from the Victoria chapters, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Ley.

In the receiving line at the anniversary party will be Mrs. G. G. Gordon, Vancouver, president of the provincial chapter; Mrs. B. Varcoe, Victoria, provincial corresponding secretary, and Mrs. R. N. Young, president of the Victoria Presidents' Council.

Other visitors from Vancouver will include provincial chapter board members, Mrs. A. D. Bowker, Miss Bessie Lamb, Mrs. V. A. McPherson and Mrs. H. D. Gibb.

Spring flowers in the sisterhood's colors of yellow and white will decorate the head table at which will preside Mrs. S. Davidson, Mrs. Harold Campbell, Mrs. Wilfrid Johns and Mrs. Dave Turner, all past presidents of the provincial chapter. Serviteurs will be the presidents of the 12 Victoria chapters.

The party is an annual affair, arranged by the Victoria council, Mrs. Young is in charge of arrangements and Mrs. R. G. McKee has convened the entertainment program which will offer songs by Mrs. C. C. Wyatt with piano accompaniment by Mrs. C. Howard Denike. Others on the council's executive are Miss Doreen King and Mrs. R. Burkmar.

Corsages will be presented to members of the receiving line and sprigs of heather to those who have joined the sisterhood in the past year.

Salt Good For Ills

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. J. William Foster told the select committee on mining that salt mines should be kept open to supply brine for swimming pools because it prevents physical and mental illness. She said many such pools could make southwest Ontario the world's largest inland ocean resort.

Women Drivers More Tolerant

CALGARY (CP)—In her own home, a woman sometimes will fix a leaky faucet, rewire a lamp, assemble a complicated mechanical gadget or even repair the lawn mower.

Give her a flat tire and she's helpless.

Instead of learning some of the mechanics of the automobile, a woman would rather rely on her femine wiles to bring a man to the rescue, say Calgary driving instructors. As a result, women never will surpass men in driving skill.

"Unless a woman understands the intricacies of a car, what can go wrong and why, she will never become a truly proficient and excellent driver," a local instructor says.

"To drive well, you must have complete control of the car and if you don't know your car's idiosyncrasies, you don't have control in emergencies."

A survey by an automobile manufacturing company shows that women drivers tend to be more patient and tolerant and less aggressive than men. This results in a good, safe driver.

Women motorists have several assets, says the survey. They are temperamentally more suited to driving, learn more quickly with fewer mistakes, are a better insurance risk, get fewer speeding tickets and are far more polite than male motorists.

The biggest problem with women drivers is the lack of practice, says the survey. Women do not get the same driving practice as their husbands. They also become flustered in emergencies.

The Boating Wife — With Dishwasher

By GAY PAULEY

She's cooking for family and guests in a "kitchen" (some land-oriented women insist on calling the galley that) complete with icemaker, dishwasher, electric stove with oven, garbage disposal, and hot and cold running water at the touch of the tap.

Further, she's keeping house afloat in a setting more like home everyday, even to air-conditioning and two and three heads with showers as boating architects utilize increasingly the space. And, interior decorators are turning nautical to match the boating boom.

The National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers estimate that more than 39,000,000 persons participated in recreational boating last year. Retail sales of boats, new and used, and accessories in 1965 ran to almost $2,700,000.

One of the new group of specialists in boat interiors is Mrs. Willis Slane, the widow of the founder of a fiberglass boat-making concern in High Point, N.C.—a construction centre 250 miles from water, as Mrs. Slane smilingly points out.

She has decorated all sizes, from 24-footers to yacht size 97's.

It's the woman, she said, who usually decides the boat's color scheme. "Most men couldn't care less about the inside, if they get what they want in the engine and the exterior."

Mrs. Slane was in New York for the 56th National Boat Show at the Coliseum.

She recalled earlier days when the boats on which she did galley detail were more for utility and fishing than for luxury of appointments. She and her husband, a pilot in the Second World War, used to fly over to the Cape Hatteras area—"the graveyard of the Atlantic"—for fighing weekends.

"A woman was a real galley slave," she said. "Down below, soaking up fumes from an alcohol stove. I used to use paper plates just to cut the time below deck."

Now, they're special plastics, with nautical motifs.

Doris Slane is the mother of three boys—"all boatnicks"—aged 15, 11 and 9. She started interior styling when her husband yelled, "help." He couldn't find anyone else to come down to the yard with portable sewing machine to stitch up homey touches.

Today, she has her own company, at High Point, and can furnish craft with "everything from contour sheets to boating shoes."

In selection of drapery and upholstery fabrics, she said, there are special problems because of wear and fading from sun and salt water.

On a wet day, some fabrics "droop" and lengths change. She prefers to work with pure cotton or linen but is beginning to use some of the synthetics.

"It's still hard to find things without flowers," she said. "Somehow florals don't seem to fit. One flower might be the size of a porthole."

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Why don't you keep your nose in your own century, Granny, and stop telling us teenagers how to live our lives? I am a 17-year-old high school boy who likes to have girls call me on the telephone. If you had your way no girl would ever call a guy on the phone unless she had some important news to tell him, like his house was on fire.

A fellow feels great when chicks call him up. So why don't you stop handing out old-fashioned advice, and start writing a sewing column instead?—TIGER JOE

Dear Joe: If you don't mind I think I'll continue with this column for a while. If I decide to switch to sewing, I know where I can get an extra needle. Read on, Chum:

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 16-year-old girl who wishes you had printed that letter about girls telephoning boys a year ago. This is what happened to me:

A certain fellow I will call Jerry seemed to be paying quite a lot of attention to me in English class. One day (this was about six months ago) he said, "Why don't you call me up tonight?" Like a big dummy I was flattered and said, "Sure."

Well, Ann, I telephoned him and we had a great talk. He asked me to call him again the next night so I did.

It got so I was calling him about four times a week. The conversations seemed to get mushier and mushier. I couldn't figure out why he never asked me out, if he liked me so much.

Then one day my cousin tipped me off. He said, "Why don't you quit calling that phony bum Jerry?

He has been inviting guys over to listen to you gush over him on the extension telephone."

Honestly, Ann, I wanted to die. After that rotten experience I made up my mind I would never telephone a fellow again, no matter what. I never have, and I never will.—LEARNED A LOT

Dear Learned: Cheers for you, Honey. Read what another interested party has to say:

Dear Ann Landers: I was delighted to see you print a letter recently about girls who telephone boys. I hope they will heed your advice.

As a mother of two married sons and a teen-age daughter I can vouch for the wisdom of your counsel.

My sons were both handsome teen-agers, excellent students and good athletes. Our telephone began to ring steadily when the older boy was 16. It rang for six years until the younger son went off to college.

Neither of the boys liked it when girls telephoned them. Their feelings ranged from mild irritation to real annoyance. They were always polite, however, and tried to spare the girls' feelings. One evening the younger boy said to his sister (who was then only 12 years old) 'Sis, when you get to thinking about boys, remember one thing. NEVER pester them on the phone."

When it came time for marriage, both our sons selected lovely girls. These girls never called them on the phone—not even once—until they were engaged.—HAPPY MOTHER

Nielson Sounds New Warning

Crime Web Grows

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Gangs of international criminals are operating in Canada with "impunity and in some cases with immunity," Yukon Conservative Erik Nielson charged in the Commons Friday.

The man who sparked the Dorion probe last session said that "criminal organizations have grown tremendously in Canada. They are connected with the octopus of international crime."

* * *

He combined a warning against crime with a bitter attack on the government in his demand for a royal commission into the ramifications of organized crime in Canada.

"Organized crime must be fought on an organized basis. You cannot destroy an octopus by cutting off the tips of the tentacles," he said.

Mr. Nielson praised the RCMP and criticized former justice ministers for not defending it against unwarranted attacks.

A-Bomb Protested

CUEVAS DE ALMANZORA, Spain (UPI)—More than 50 angry villagers demonstrated in the town square Friday night against the "U.S. and its bomb" as a search for missing "secret elements" of a B-52 bomber moved into its fourth day. The plane crashed with nuclear weapons aboard.

The villagers paraded through the square shouting, "Down with the U.S. and its bomb," "Yankees go home," and "Americans go away and take your bomb with you." They dispersed peacefully after about 30 minutes.

The demonstration came as hundreds of U.S. airmen moved tons of equipment to a sealed-off beach area near Palomares.

The Air Force, which has admitted the plane was carrying nuclear weapons, steadfastly refused to confirm or deny persistent reports that the huge search was for one such nuclear device still missing in the crash of the Strategic Air Command bomber.

Informed sources said four nuclear bombs were aboard the bomber when it collided in the air with a KC-135 jet tanker during a re-fuelling operation over the southeast of Spain Monday.

They said three devices had been recovered but that a fourth was still missing.

AVOIDING 'RAIN'

The transfer of equipment to the beach area represented a change of headquarters for the search over the rugged, arid hills near this remote village about 95 miles southeast of Granada.

U.S. Air Force officials said the reason for the move was to avoid damage from flooding in the event of rain.

Morocco

De Gaulle To Cut Relations?

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle is considering breaking diplomatic relations with Morocco and cutting off $40,000,000 in economic aid because of the Ben Barka scandal, French government sources said Friday.

The sources said de Gaulle was spending the weekend in Paris to be on hand in case of a major break in the affair, which started with the kidnapping in Paris Oct. 21 of Moroccan leftist leader Mehdi Ben Barka.

* * *

They said the president is prepared for the possibility that Morocco might make the first move to break relations. It was believed here this could come following the issuance in Paris Thursday of international arrest warrants against Moroccan Interior Minister Gen. Mohamed Oufkir and two of his top aides.

* * *

The arrest warrants can be carried out only if the Moroccans co-operate. But French officials said if Oufkir or either of his aides set foot in any of the countries outside Morocco with which France has extradition agreements, they would be liable to arrest.

As Holiday Truce Ends

Rusk's Prediction: Intense Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk reported Friday the Communists have spurned United States' Viet Nam peace feelers so far. He predicted the enemy will step up the fighting in South Viet Nam next week.

"I regret that I cannot report to you any positive and encouraging response to the hopes of the overwhelming majority of mankind," Rusk told a press conference.

CEASEFIRE

"There is every sign that the other side is going to intensify its activity after the Tet period," he said. Tet is the lunar new year holiday in Viet Nam, now observed by a ceasefire which ends Sunday.

The state secretary seemed to:

- Warn Hanoi the string is running out on Washington's current peace drive and the bombing of the North could be resumed soon.
- Serve notice to those who advocated a bombing lull that North Viet Nam's rejection of U.S. peace overtures means Washington is getting ready to make new, probably tough, decisions.
- Indicate that within the circle of top U.S. strategists, Rusk favors a hard-line reaction to Hanoi's rebuff of peace efforts.

Johnson's advisers are known to be divided over what to do next. Johnson is said not to have made a decision yet about resuming the bombing and to have set no deadlines.

Dawn Attack Shatters Brief Truce

SAIGON (UPI) — About 400 Viet Cong regulars swarmed over a South Korean marine position Friday shattering their self-proclaimed New Year's truce. The Koreans threw down their weapons and fought hand-to-hand in a bloody, see-saw battle that left 46 of the enemy dead.

The pre-dawn assault near Tuy Hoa about 220 miles northeast of Saigon was the most serious of 51 cease-fire violations by the Communists since their holiday truce period began at midnight Wednesday.

U.S. Ambassador 'Shocked'

Convicted American Cuts Throat in Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — The U.S. embassy said today the Soviet government reported Newcomb Mott, a young American serving a Soviet prison sentence, committed suicide by cutting his throat.

The formal Soviet notification said the suicide occurred in the night of Thursday-Friday while Mott, a 27-year-old book salesman from Sheffield, Mass., was being transferred from his Arctic prison in Murmansk to a forced labor camp.

The Russians said Mott had killed himself in the toilet of the train on which he was being taken to the camp, embassy sources said.

PAROLE IN JUNE

He was convicted Nov. 24 of illegally crossing the Norwegian-Soviet frontier Sept. 5 and sentenced to 18 months. He would have been eligible for parole next June 4 when half the sentence would have been completed.

The Soviets said Mott's body had been taken to the morgue at Kirov, 500 miles northeast of Moscow.

'SHOCKED'

U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler said: "I am profoundly shocked by the death of Newcomb Mott and deplore the handling of this matter which has come to such a tragic end."

In Washington, the state department said "it is indeed a matter of deep regret and con-

Election Averted

By RON COLLISTER
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson last night saved the minority government from defeat and the country from an election crisis.

Mr. Thompson, who earlier had agreed with the substance of a non-confidence vote that tried to raise old age pensions to $100 a month, later threw his five-man band behind the government for a 126 to 117 win.

If he had voted the other way, Prime Minister Pearson would have been faced with a constitutional crisis.

The choice would have been to call another election, the second in a few months, or call on Tory Leader Diefenbaker to try to form a government.

DEFENDS ACTION

Mr. Thompson vehemently defended his action in saving the government, but the other opposition parties turned against him.

"I didn't think we had the balance of power like that," he said.

"I am glad we had the courage to stand by our guns."

ELECTION PLEDGE

Pensions, he said, were not the issue at all.

The issue was whether or not this parliament would continue to do the job it was elected to do.

VOTE SPLIT

On a New Democrat motion that pensions should be raised from $75 to $100 at age 65: 20 New Democrats, 89 Tories and eight Creditistes voted in favor.

Against were 120 Liberals, five Socreds, one Independent, J. A. Mongrain.

The absentees showed the continual danger that besets the minority government.

ABSENT MPS

Ten of its members were absent: three were ill, two ministers were on business, two were paired with Opposition members, and three were well, just absent.

Eight Tories were absent, one Creditiste, one New Democrat, and one Independent.

SHOOK HIS HEAD

Members of all parties gasped at the closeness of the vote.

FIGHT ON ISSUES

Asked if his group would continue to support the minority government on all occasions to avoid an election, he replied:

"We will fight on issues."

Asked if he did not believe that the threat of an election would force him to support the government at all times, he replied:

"No, because there may be a breakdown in the morality of the government or some other issue much greater than the issue of an election.

Nigerian Rule Solidified

LAGOS (AP) — Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi announced Friday night the formation of a two-pronged military government with himself as president and supreme commander controlling the entire administration of Nigeria.

The strongman, who took over from the former civilian government last weekend, named the heads of the Nigerian army, navy and air force as his top advisers.

An official statement by Aguiyi-Ironsi said the military regime would consist of two organs — the supreme military council and a federal executive council.

Aguiyi-Ironsi appointed himself president of both.

There still is no word on the whereabouts of former prime minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, kidnapped by army mutineers on the first day of the coup attempt. Some fear he has been killed.

Strike Hits Ontario's Industry

TORONTO (CP) — The giant squeeze of a truckers' strike began to close in on industry in Ontario early today with one automobile plant scheduled to shut down and another expressing uneasiness.

Many other firms dependent on trucks for supplies and parts prepared to deal with a situation in which they would have to close down or arrange for other means of supply.

Jack Nickell, public relations man with the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, said virtually every industry in Ontario depends on truck delivery for some of its component parts.

Oil Contract Restores Peace

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor peace came to British Columbia's troubled oil industry Friday with the signing of a contract by British American Oil Co. and striking employees of its marketing division here.

The contract promised at least two year's peace in the industry, in turmoil since last summer.

The signing came almost three months after the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC) signed contracts with the other major refineries in B.C.

The new contract is based mainly on proposals put forth Nov. 23 by the provincial government just 13 hours before the union deadline for a province-wide strike by oil workers.

The strike deadline would also have signalled the start of a 48-hour general work stoppage in the province called by the B.C. Federation of Labor in support of the oil workers.

The strike proposal was widely supported by B.C. labor unions.

However, the illegality of the general strike was stressed by Ed Lawson, president of the powerful teamsters joint council for B.C.

His union refused to go along, but instead promised to declare all oil products hot and not handle them should the oil workers strike.

Premier Bennett was author of the settlement formula that lifted the threat of a full-scale oil strike and general strike.

It provided a key to the biggest stumbling block in negotiations—the protection of workers' jobs against the effects of automation.

The oil industry dispute had its roots in contract negotiations which opened last summer across Canada.

By August, the unions had turned down a majority conciliation report and voted to strike.

its responsibility, no one is going to support it."

His party, he recalled, had voted against the minority government in the last parliament and, he warned, it would do it again.

PEOPLE APPROVED

He claimed that if an election were called based on a government defeat yesterday, the Liberals would have been given a majority by the people.

"Any party that forces an election now will be destroyed," he said. "The people won't stand for it."

TORY MOTION

Tory Leader John Diefenbaker berated Mr. Thompson, but reserved his main fire for another speech in the throne speech debate early next week.

The Commons faces another non-confidence vote Tuesday, based on a Tory motion that the pension should be raised at age sixty-nine, sliding down to sixty-five by 1970.

He accused the Socreds of hypocrisy. 9nd his hypocrisy was never more clearly shown than in February, 1963, when the Socreds felled the Diefenbaker minority government.

It was further evidence, he charged, that a multiplicity of political parties was bad for parliamentary democracy.

MEANT NOTHING

In his speech, earlier, Mr. Thompson had argued that to vote for the motion meant nothing at all because the result would be an election and the pensioners would not get their increase.

NDP HEATED

Socred Bert Leboe said: "I feel good about the vote. The people of Canada don't want an election and that would have been the result of voting against the government."

New Democrat Stanley Knowles, whose party had moved to topple the government said heatedly:

NO ELECTION

"We wanted to beat them. To have beaten them would have established a principle, that Mr. Pearson would not call an election just because he was defeated.

"We should be able to express our opinions without the threat of an election. That is what we are fighting for.

"There would not have been an election."

Boyd Named President

The Luxton 4-H Poultry Club named Gordon Boyd president at a recent meeting.

Other officers elected were: Steven Sorenson, vice-president; Elizabeth Williams, secretary; Bruce Hamilton, recreation director; Kenneth Paterson, telephone convenor; Ross Hamilton, social director; Brian New, publicity chairman.

Britain Boosts Nuclear Power

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's sixth nuclear power station has begun delivering power to the national grid. When the station on the Suffolk coast reaches full production it will be the most powerful in the world. The central electricity generating board is building three more nuclear stations — two in England and one in Wales.

Long Drought Nears End?

ALICE SPRINGS, Australia (Reuters) — The remorseless drought which has gripped central Australia's vast cattle lands for up to eight years has ended in some areas. There are signs that it is breaking elsewhere. Rain has been falling steadily in the last two days in the country east of Alice Springs.

No. 1 Health Problem

Accident Rate Critical, Doctor Tells Conference

MONTREAL (CP) — A panel of doctors Friday described injuries resulting from automobile accidents as "by far the most important health problem in Canada."

Dr. Kenneth Wilson, associate professor of clinical surgery at the University of Ottawa, said traffic injuries are "the No. 1 cause of death among Canadians between 18 and 55 years of age."

Dr. Wilson said the number of fatal and non-fatal injuries has been rising at a rate of 11 per cent every year for the last six years.

This was ahead of the rate of increase in population, in the number of vehicles on the roads and in the millions of miles travelled.

The doctor was one of a group of specialists who discussed traffic injuries during the annual meeting of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada.

The estimated cost of traffic accidents in 1964, all factors considered, was "in excess of $4,000,000,000," said Dr. Wilson, who also heads the Traffic Injury Research Foundation of Canada.

4,800 DEAD

In 1965, 4,800 Canadians were killed in auto accidents and 149,500 were injured.

Dr. Wilson said drivers are responsible for almost all accidents that occur.

He said he and other specialists in Canada plan research on the physical and mental health of drivers involved in accidents, and on the effects of impairment brought about by alcohol "or other chemicals."

ADVANCES

"These are major factors in driver-failure," he said.

Dr. Fraser Gurd, professor of surgery at McGill University, Montreal, said internal injuries in traffic accidents now are not always fatal as in the past.

This was partly the result of progress made in research on such matters as shock—a subject of intensive study at Montreal hospitals.

Dr .B. F. Campbell of Cornell University said in the United States in the last 30 years, there has been a "general decline" in the incidence of traffic accidents.

cern to the U.S. government that the numerous appeals to the Soviet government for a more reasonable, humanitarian disposition of this case were not heeded before it came to this tragic end."

The embassy said it had inquired at 3 p.m. Friday on the status of a clemency appeal filed with Soviet authorities on behalf of Mott's parents when an earlier appeal against the sentence had been denied.

There was no action reported then, an embassy spokesman said. But three hours later an embassy representative was called to the Soviet foreign ministry and the following statement was read:

"Competent Soviet organs informed the ministry that American citizen Newcomb Mott, sentenced by the Murmansk Oblast court on Nov. 24, 1965, to 1½ years deprivation of freedom for violating the state border of the U.S.S.R., on the night of Jan. 20-21 this year while en route to the place where the sentence would be served committed suicide, having cut his throat.

Cyclist Recovering After Accident

Ian McConnell, 2740 Eastdowne, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with head injuries received when he was thrown from his motorcycle at Douglas and Dallas.

Frank Cherry, 634 Avalon, received leg and internal injuries when he was in collision with a car on Dallas.

and within two days, the strike spread to B-A plants in Clarkson, Ont., Saskatoon and Kamloops, B.C.

Two weeks later it had reached a Shell Canada Ltd. refinery at St. Boniface, Man., and an Imperial Oil Co. refinery here.

The OCAW set Nov. 15 as the deadline for extending the strike to all oil companies in B.C. and the B.C. Federation of Labor said all petroleum products would be declared hot if the strike spread.

At the last minute the oil workers postponed the deadline to Nov. 24 and the BCFL called for all affiliated unions to refuse to handle hot oil products, or to "withdraw services" for 48 hours in the case of workers not normally handling oil products.

This "withdrawal of services" was construed by management, government and public to mean a general strike although unions did not use that term.

Thirteen hours before the strike deadline the government called the union, companies and press to a meeting.

The settlement was to put to them for the first time and before the day was out all had agreed to use the formula as a basis for further negotiations. The strike was called off.

The government proposals were for a labor-management standing automation committee, six months' notice of layoffs due to automation, company-government retraining of employees displaced by automation, and a week's severance pay for every year of service up to 26 weeks for employees discharged because of automation.

It also proposed a wage increase of 35 cents an hour on a base rate of $2.75 an hour over a two-year contract.

Contracts were signed a short time later with all major companies except B-A where seniority clauses and other local issues blocked a settlement.

Contracts were subsequently signed at Clarkson and Kamloops and several weeks ago the independent gas and oil workers union went back to work at the B-A refinery here.

Stowaway On Plane

An airlines' spokesman said the stowaway was discovered hiding in the plane's lavatory. It was decided that the plane would continue on instead of returning here. The name of the stowaway was not given, but he was identified as a soldier from Ft. Lewis, south of here. He was not in uniform.

lethargy and lack of interest in the face of criminal infiltration in this country he must look a little higher than the RCMP," he said.

"There has been a vast criminal network operating in Canada, by infiltration, engaged in racketeering, narcotics, bankruptcy, arson, fraud and other matters.

Mr. Nielsen referred to the $2,000,000 in bankruptcy frauds in Ontario and Quebec in 1964.

"Not only has the government failed to apprehend the wrongdoers, but they have acted as though the wrongdoing does not even exist.

"Business is being mulcted of millions upon millions of dollars annually, not only in Quebec but in every province . . . In Quebec we have witnessed the wholesale extermination of witnesses.

"In Ontario, Quebec and other provinces there has been evidence of a movement into Canada of individuals who by their background and record of activities are well known in the field of crime," he said.

Mr. Nielsen also made several bitingly sarcastic remarks about Prime Minister Pearson.

He opened his remarks by stating: "The Prime Minister spoke for about two hours during this debate, yet said nothing. Indeed he deserves the prize of the year for fiction."

He reffered to Mr. Pearson as going to Nigeria and "posturing as the great peacemaker", while thousands in the Yukon and Northwest Territories are denied voting rights.

Mr. Nielsen argued that the Yukon should be started on the way to its own responsible Government.

"It is no good the prime minister becoming an expert on retroactive virtue. It is no good his going to Lagos and speaking about the same ills confronting our own northern Canadians, and then coming back and completely forgetting them," he said.

Noticeable Warning Signs Herald Artery Trouble

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Does hardening of the arteries in one part of the body mean that the same thing is taking place in other areas? Or can this be a spotty thing? Does the process ever reverse itself?—H.M.D.

There are two kinds of hardening of the arteries. One involves the middle of the three layers which make up an artery. The fibrous tissue accumulates calcium deposits and such arteries become "hard." They become quite rigid and can be felt in such spots as a wrist. X-rays depict them clearly because of the calcium.

'RED HERRING'

The other type of hardening, called atherosclerosis, is the red herring. The arteries don't become rigid. Calcium does not gather. Without the calcium, an X-ray does not show a clear picture unless some added procedure is used, such as injecting a dye into the artery so it will show up on an X-ray film.

Instead, the problem here is not actual hardening, but rather the presence of plaques or clumps of fatty material at one or more points in the artery, just as rust or sludge may form into a deposit inside a water pipe.

DEPOSITS

If this clump or plaque becomes large enough, then it can cut off circulation somewhere, or reduce the flow of blood and cause trouble.

If circulation is completely shut off, that creates a problem. If it is in some part of the arteries which serve the heart muscle, the result is a heart attack. If in the brain, it is a stroke. It can occur elsewhere, of course. In the foot, the result will be gangrene. In the kidney, high blood pressure or other difficulty will ensue.

The calcium-type of real hardening tends to be rather general in the body, not that some arteries won't be harder than others.

The atherosclerosis, or fatty plaques, may occur more especially in one part of the body, or may occur in several areas, although real trouble may develop in one place and not in others.

RECOVERY

If a blockage occurs, the patient may very well recover, perhaps developing some collateral circulation (enlargement of other vessels in the same area, to make up for the circulation which has been lost) and thenceforth have adequate circulation for years to come.

Difficulty from hardening of the arteries in one spot does not necessarily mean that you are going to have the same trouble elsewhere.
